Cambodia Reels Under 'Invasion'

Nixon Weighs Aid Plea

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — The White House declared today Cambodia was the victim of a "foreign invasion," saying that fighting there "cannot be considered" a civil war.

President Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the chief executive was "seriously concerned" about the presence of 40,000 North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia and still had under intensive consideration an urgent request of the Cambodian government for military assistance.

SOURCES UNNAMED

He was unable to say when Nixon would make a decision on the Cambodian appeal. At the same time he denied reports from Phnom Penh that already approved arms shipments to Cambodia included American munitions as well as captured Russian type AK47 automatic rifles.

He said there had been no recent communication between the United States and Russia on the Cambodian crisis.

MEETING DELAY

The President had postponed for a second time a National Security Council meeting to spend part of the weekend at Camp David, his western Maryland retreat.

The meeting was rescheduled for Monday. It previously had been set for Thursday morning.

Meanwhile, some top Pentagon officials are saying privately only swift and substantial military aid can prevent a Communist overthrow of the new Cambodian government.

Some high military officers, it was learned, favor lending a quick helping hand to the government of Premier Lon Nol which deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk several weeks ago.

The next four or five weeks ,it

Shot Misses Chiang Heir; Two Seized

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chiang Ching-kuo, eldest son and heir apparent to Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek, narrowly escaped a would-be assassin's bullet today when the shot went wild.

Chiang, a vice premier in his father's government, was entering a hotel to address a group of businessmen when a young man fired a shot at the 60-year-old Nationalist leader.

Police seized two men immediately and rushed them to a stationhouse for questioning. At least one of the apprehended men was an Oriental. Police identified him as Tzu-Tza Cheng.

Chiang, who had just flown here from Washington where he had met with President Nixon, was coming through the revolving glass door of the hotel when the shot was fired. It blew a large hole in the glass.

It was not immediately determined if the gunman had been part of a group of Formosans demonstrating outside the Plaza Hotel at the time of Chiang's arrival to address a luncheon. The Nationalist Chi-

PHNOM PHEN — The Cambodian government, battling for survival against 40,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops, took steps today to improve relations with neighboring Thailand and South Vietnam, themselves threatened by Communists.

The military situation remained serious. The Viet Cong have cut Phnom Penh off from the eastern provinces and moved into the Takeo sector 48 miles south of Phnom Penh, cutting off the capital from the big port of Sihanoukville to the south. The Cambodians were fighting to restore communications.

ROAD CUT

Elements of a Viet Cong force of 400 to 500 men broke into Ang Tassom, seven miles west of Takeo, today and cut north-south Highway 3. They also tried to dynamite a highway bridge across the Slaku River seven miles to the north but failed. Earlier they had cut the railroad and north-south Highway 2 near Takeo.

UPI correspondent David Stuart-Fox reported from Prey Veng Province, 40 miles east of Phom Penh, that Viet Cong forces attacked a Cambodian outpost near the highway today but that east-west Highway 1 leading from Phnom Penh to Saigon was still open at that point.

FIRE AT CAR

The Viet Cong set up a roadblock today a quarter of a mile north of Ang Tassom and fired at an automobile carrying Associated Press correspondent John Vinocur and photographer Mark Godfrey.

Drastic Preserve Area Cuts Urged

Fearful of a diminishing tax base, a Marin County study committee said yesterday it will recommend that the county's agricultural preserve area of more than 213,000 acres be reduced by more than one-half.

The preserve, enabled by 1965 state legislation, entitles struggling farmers who sign contracts with the county to reduce land assessments and also has the effect of delaying large scale development.

But the county's land conservation advisory committee, which had earlier cited abuses of the preserve by landowners not engaged in legitimate agricultural activities, said yesterday it would soon recommend to the board of supervisors that Marin's preserve be limited to the present 92,000 acres under contract.

Although the preserve totals 213,000 acres, more than 121,000 acres is merely designated as such and is not under contract. And the committee indicated yesterday this acreage should not be officially included in the preserve, pending a closer look at individual properties by the study group.

As for the 92,000 acres, the committee said it would recommend termination of contracts

Souza Wins In Fairfax Vote Recap

Robert R. Souza, former mayor and six-year council member, is back on the Fairfax City Council as the result of a ballot recount taken yesterday.

Albert E. Gately, who beat out Souza by three votes in the unofficial returns April 14, was out of office.

The city council will meet at 8 p.m. today to seat Souza.

Gately, and the other two winning candidates, Lee Nelder and Mayor Frank Egger, were seated Tuesday night, despite Souza's objections that no one should be seated until after the recount.

In the recount requested by Souza, he came out with 971 votes, seven ahead of Gately, according to City Administrator Frances Lestanguet.

Nelder dropped five votes from 992 to 987, Adelaide P. Wilson, a runnerup, gained one vote from 772 to 773, and James K. Henington gained two votes from 311 to 313.

Egger's tally of 1,043, highest ever polled by a candidate, remained the same as did the vote for Winston R. Curtis, 193.

Thus the recount vote was Egger, 1,043, Nelder, 987, and Souza, 971, all elected, and Gately, 964, Mrs. Wilson, 773, Henington, 313, and Curtis, 193.

CHANGE IN POLICY

San Franciscans For Bus-Ferry Proposal

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A committee of San Francisco supervisors, in a major break with their board's long opposition to Marin commuter buses, yesterday unanimously endorsed the Golden Gate Bridge District's plans for a joint bus and ferry system.

The resolution will go to the full board for its approval on Monday, thus clearing the way for the district to crank up its proposed $8 million, 132-bus system.

The city's police code bars commuter bus stops in the financial district, where two-thirds of Marin communters work, a ban that will be eliminated if the full board approves yesterday's resolution by the streets and transportation committee.

The three-member committee carefully avoided specifically endorsing the plans by the district, saying details of stops, routes and parking areas should be worked out by the city's planners, police and department of public works.

The committee's vote overrode objections from several speakers that it postpone action until mid-May to get the final report from the bridge district's ferry consultant. The consultant, Philip F. Spaulding, is to detail a ferry system for the district.

Five votes on the 11-member board appeared assured Monday: the three committee members plus two others present who represent the city of the bridge board. Thus, only two other votes would be needed to reverse the city's policy against commuter buses.

San Francisco's opposition to buses has moderated since a 1968 state law added its supervisors to the bridge board. Yesterday's plea by the bridge board, the second time the committee

BOLINAS-STINSON STRIFE

District's Education Quality Brings Wide Gap Of Opinions

By PAT ANGLE

(Second of three articles)

Ask any 10 residents of Bolinas and Stinson Beach how the new educational program, begun in September in Bolinas-Stinson School District, is working out and one is likely to receive 10 different answers, ranging from "marvelous" to "It's a mess."

The wide disagreement over the new methods, which focus on individual learning by students, each at his own rate of speed, has created innumerable headaches for just about everyone in the district, including teachers, parents and trustees.

The program had hardly started when many parents began voicing concern that the new ways of teaching would leave their children behind in vital subjects such as reading and math. Some, especially those with children in the upper grades and used to traditional school methods, were fearful their children would not learn at all if left to proceed at their own speed, without the firm direction of a teacher standing over them.

Today, seven months after the program was initiated, district parents are still widely split in their views on the individual approach to education. Some parents who have visited the schools this year are aghast at what they term "chaos;" others delighted by what they call "freedom."

A minority is totally opposed to what is happening and have called for a return to traditional three-Rs learning. A Stinson Beach man, so bitter about the

The Publisher Can't Discharge A Union Printer

Under the former contract with I.T.U. local 21 (which the union cancelled in 1968 and now wants reinstituted before it will negotiate) the I-J publisher was powerless to enforce a discharge for cause . . . even if the employee were inefficient, insubordinate, or in violation of established composing room procedures. All a printer had to do was appeal to the union local for reinstatement . . . or finally to I.T.U. Executive Council or I.T.U. convention. All the publisher could do was plead his case. He had no authority, no say in the final decision, yet these were his own employees! This is the equivalent in any other business, of having only employees decide who could be discharged . ... with the owner having to abide by their verdict.

Sardinians Give Pope Big Welcome

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (AP) — Pope Paul VI today received a tumultous welcome of clanging bells, showers of gardenias and roaring cheers from half a million Sardinians in a visit to this Italian Mediterranean island.

Minutes after his jetliner touched down, the Pope announced he had come to reward Sardinia's miners, shepherds and others for their "age-old and proven fidelity" to hard work and Christian courage.

Later, surrounded by hundreds of thousands, the Pope conducted an open-air Mass before the Basilica of Our Lady of Bonaria, whose wooden image washed ashore here six centuries ago.

It was to honor this shrine, which sits on a rise above Cagliari harbor, and to mingle with the hardy and strongly Catholic Sardinians, that the Pope came on this ninth trip outside mainland Italy or his seven-year reign.

In a homily during the Mass, the 72-year-old pontiff hailed "a minor Pope"—Pontianus I — who died in exile on Sardinia in 235 A.D.

More than 100 persons were reported to have fainted during the Mass, celebrated under a burning sun. Ambulances carried away victims.

TURMOIL AT STANFORD—Anti-ROTC students, an estimated 100 strong, struggle to force their way into Stanford University's old student union building to start a sit-in against military training on campus. Sheriff's deputies, called in more than 12 hours after the demonstration started yesterday noon, swiftly arrested 32 persons and chased the rest away despite a hail of rocks and objects tossed by fleeing demonstrators. Colleges Aboil—Blacks, ROTC

COMBINED AP & UPI

Students have demonstrated at more than a dozen colleges across the nation to support demands varying from an end to military recruitment on campus to increased opportunity for blacks. Some of the protests erupted in violence.

Sheriff's deputies broke up a sit-in protesting ROTC at Stanford University early today, swiftly making 22 arrests and causing dozens of others to flee the scene.

Some fleeing protestors returned to hurl rocks at officers and smashed stones through windows in three buildings causing thousands of dollars damage, a university spokesman said.

The sit-in occurred in the old student union building as the latest in a series of campus protests against plans to continue ROTC. Students narrowly voted in a recent ballot to retain ROTC despite its long attack by antiwar factions.

A total of 61 persons were arrested Thursday night as police used tear gas to disperse rock-throwing youths who tried to prevent them from ending an anti-ROTC sit-in at the University of Oregon in Eugene.

A later later breakin at a university building by about 18 persons following a rally attended by an estimated 2,000 students failed to gain crowd support and was quickly ended without arrest.

Eugene police, Oregon State Police and Lane County sheriff's deputies were brought to the campus at the request of UO President Robert Clark to remove the sit-in group. A squad of 20 National Guardsmen appeared briefly on campus but was promptly removed when it was determined a communications breakdown resulted in their being dispatched.

Gov. Tom McCall reported 200 guardsmen were standing by at the Eugene armory in case they were needed. He also said 80 state police officers were sent to Eugene.

The faculty at Yale College in New Haven, Conn., voted Thursday to give some support to a student strike called to protest the local trial of eight Black Panthers on charges of murder.

The administration said the student strike, now in its third day, was 50 to 75 per cent effective.

President Kingman Brewster Jr. told a faculty meeting, "I am skeptical of the ability of black revolutionaries to achieve a fair trial anywhere in the United States."

The disorders followed student demands for an increase in the number of Negro students and faculty members. College students also protested the failure of a local high school to meet demands of black pupils that two black girls be named to the five-member cheerleading squad.

Students demanding increased black and Puerto Rican studies programs held the dean of Wagner College, on Staten Island, N.Y., captive in his office Thursday for seven hours.

In Terre Haute, Ind., police broke up clashes between white and black students at Indiana State University.

Student leaders ended a class boycott begun last week at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., late Thursday when university officials agreed to end military recruitment on campus.

A strike leader said students would negotiate with the administration on their demands regarding the Reserve Officers Training Corps, classified research for the federal government and educational reform.

At Hobart College in Geneva, N.Y., President Beverly D. Causey Jr. announced a student referendum on ending the college ROTC program following a sit-in in his office by about 30 activists.

Claiming Support

MIAMI (AP) — Discounting Fidel Castro's claim that an invasion force has been crushed, militant exiles say their guerrillas are still fighting in eastern Cuba and are winning support from their countrymen.

Alpha 66, the Miami-based exile organization that launched the expedition one week ago, said Thursday night "the war of liberation has started, and the flame of freedom will not die" in Cuba.

Dismisses Plots

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The government put down two plots this week, by a few military officers supporting exdictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla, and President Carlos Lleras Restrepo said they were of "no importance."

"The situation of public order in the country is now normal," Lleras declared Thursday night.

Informed sources saw that after Rojas was declared the loser in last Sunday's presidential election, four officers at the Tolemeida army base 75 miles southeast of Bogota tried to start a revolt Monday.

Backing Abortions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Robert W. Packwood, the Oregon Republican who is making the population one of his top issues, has introduced legislation that would legalize abortion nationwide.

The freshman senator said "no state has the right to say to a woman that she cannot have an abortion anymore than it has the right to tell her she must have an abortion."

Home Interest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board has reported the average interest rate on conventional mortgages for new houses was 8.51 per cent in March, up one-tenth of 1 per cent over February.

The FHLBB, which regulates the nation's Saving and Loan institutions, also said Thursday rates on used houses rose to 8.48 per cent from 8.41 per cent.

New ORTHO® 3-Way Rose and Flower Care is a fertilizer, a systemic insecticide and an effective weed killer, all in the same cannister.

The systemic action means that all you do is sprinkle the granules around the base of your plant, work into the soil and water. Your flowers absorb the fertilizer to make them healthier and more beautiful. And they also absorb the insecticide through the roots to protect them from the inside out. Flowers grow strong and big. And aphids, mites and sucking insects that come to feed, die. Food and protection. For up to six weeks. Inside, where it can't wash away. And at the same time, the weed killer will be at work in the soil at the base of the plant, killing weeds as they germinate.

This whole health plan costs only pennies a plant. The five-pound Cannister is only $3.49.

Your flowers will love you for it.

Frustrating Raid On Bay Drydocks

A swarm of federal, state and Marin drug agents plus a Sausalito policeman, health inspectors, fish and game officials and a deputy county counsel put out to sea yesterday afternoon for a raid on the flowed-decorated drydocks in Richardson Bay.

About 3:30 p.m. the officials got aboard a 40-foot Coast Guard cutter and left a dock behind Zacks' restaurant.

Armed with an inspection warrant, the officials were looking for narcotcis and drugs they had heard were on the drydocks and also for sanitation violations. The fish and game man came along in case persons reportedly living on the drydocks were fishing illegally. Deputy County Counsel Joseph Forest was looking for docks owner, Christopher Roberts, to serve papers ordering him to appear in court to show why he should not be held in contempt of court for not removing the docks.

After a five-minute cruise ,the army moved in and found: two teen-age brothers, three marijuana cigarettes, two suspected LSD pills and a sleepy man who wanted to know why he had been awakened.

The marijuana cigarettes, pills and the 14 and 15 year-old brothers, who said they went to school on the drydocks, were loaded aboard the cutter. The brothers were later taken to Juvenile Hall after the officials discounted the school story when they found only comics and paper back books on the drydocks.

The man who had been awaked from his bed made of planks in one of the towers was left behind.

A resident of a nearby houseboat shouted to Forest that his quarry, Roberts, was on a vacation in Mexico.

The raiders' nearly futuile effort might have been predicted had they known that as they gathered in Sausailto, a representative of an underground radio station called the sheriff's department to inquire about a raid in Richardson Bay.

What Tourists Want, Will Marin Provide?

Marin's best hope of cornering the tourist dollars may lie in developing small resort and conference facilities, according to preliminary findings of a tourism study now underway.

Economics Research Associates of Los Angeles, consultants for the City-County Planning Council's visitor enterprise study, released figures showing the number of visitors to Marin and hoy they spend their money.

Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning in the county planning department, said the following conclusions can be drawn from the study:

Visitors to Marin are mostly people from San Francisco, San Mateo and Sonoma counties coming here for a day or less. Almost nine tenths of the people spend less than $10 during their trip.

Although Marin recieves perhaps 20 per cent of the Bay Area's day trips, it attracts only about 1 per cent of the overnight trips.

"This means spending on hotels and motels in Marin has been quite limited with only a 40 per cent average annual occupancy in the 1187 hotel-motel rooms of the county," said Solnit.

"However, Marin is growing in importance as a place for wining and dining. Its 276 bars and restaurants made more sales per county resident than the restaurants and bars in Santa Clara, Sonoma, Napa or Contra Costa counties.

At this point, further development of Marin's now-tiny resort and conference facilities may be area of considerable potential, said Solnit.

Leader Named At Donner Lab

BERKELEY (AP) — Dr. James L. Born will become director of the Donner Laboratory of nuclear medicine July 1, the University of California announced today.

Born, assistant director since 1956 ,will succeed Dr. John H. Lawrence, who announced his resignation effective July 1 to accept appointment as a University of California regent.

Lawrence has developed the laboratory since its beginnings in 1935.

Atom Scientist Becomes Regent

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan appointed atomic scientist Dr. John H. Lawrence to the University of California Board of Regents today.

Lawrence, a university faculty member and director of the Donner Laboratory, will fill the unexpired two years remaining in the term of Phillip L. Boyd of Riverside.

Boyd resigned last month.

Lawrence, 66, is a professor of medical physics who is widely known for trail-blazing work in the fields of radiation, cancer research and medical use of isotopes. Lawrence is a Republican.

Cash Missing

Cash totaling $3,025 and several checks were reported stolen March 29 from the Trident restaurant, 558 Bridgeway, Sausalito, police said today. Day manager Louis Ganapoler said he left a bank sack containing the day's receipts in an unlocked safe at noon and returned 30 minutes later to find it missing.

Cooperative Nursery Has Home Finall

After an 18-year search, the San Rafael Cooperative Nursery School has found a permanent home — inside the gates of San Quentin Prison.

The nonprofit school, which has been using temporary quarters at San Rafael High School since 1952, announced classes will begin Monday in a two-room schoolhouse in San Quentin Village which has been vacated since bussing of village children to San Rafael began in the mid-1960s.

Parents held a one-day clean-up of their dusty, but roomy, new home last Saturday.

FRUSTRATING HUNT

Until the mother of one of the school's former pupils moved to the village and discovered the new home, the search for one had been frustrating.

The school, incorporated in 1948, held classes that summer in the Coleman School kindergarten, then moved into the basement of a private San Rafael home for two years. After another two years in the now-demolished American Legion Hall, the school took up quarters in a World War II surplus building on the grounds of San Rafael High School.

Since that time, the school had repeatedly sought to move into homes in the San Rafael area but couldn't find a suitable location or encountered financial difficulties and neighborhood opposition. It also explored the possibility of building a permanent facility on the high school's grounds but this proved too costly and also drew challenges that such use of public school property would be illegal.

SPACE TRIPLED

School director Jo Egenberger said the new facilities will provide three times the space of present quarters. Plans are being made to carpet the rooms and construct a fenced play area for children.

School officials say they are not worried about the new location. Prison inmates are expected to provide gardening and janitorial services.

Bolinas Center's Future At Stake

Future use of the Bolinas Community Center will be discussed by the Bolinas Community Inc. board at 8 p.m. tonight at the center on Main Street.

Some members of the group have urged that the building be sold because of rising taxes, insurance and upkeep costs.

Capt. David Edwards, secretary of the group, said today he expects a large attendance at the meeting.

The oldest pulp and paper technology course in the United States was established at the University of Maine in 1913.

Army Work On Creek Distant, Novato Told

The Army Corps of Engineers will not know for three to five months whether or not a flood control project on Novato Creek is feasible, and if it is, it would take another five years to get the project finished.

Jacob Harari of the corps so reported last night to a meeting on Novato's creeks called by the Novato Creek Committee at the Novato Community House, according to co-chairman Gail Wilhelm.

Harari said that the corps did not have any plans to change Novato Creek from Highway 101 to its mouth, but wanted to do its flood control work from Highway 101 to the creek at Grant Avenue, Mrs. Wilhelm reported. The corps is making a feasibility study of such a flood control project.

Mrs. Wilhelm reported these recommendations of the creek committee:

NOVATO CREEK — Mouth to Highway 101 channel widening with ponding and lake development for boating and fishing; Highway 101 to Diablo Avenue, riprap or step bank; Diablo Avenue to Grant Avenue, untouched; Grant Avenue to Stafford Dam, minor channel alignment with no loss of trees.

WARNER CREEK — Novato Creek to Novato Boulevard, concrete channel; Novato Boulevard to Diablo Avenue, widen channel on south to protect trees on north; Diablo Avenue to Wilson, leave it as it is except to riprap critical erosion areas.

ARROYO AVICHI CREEK — Novato Creek to Novato Boulevard, concrete channel; remainder of stream untouched except for minor riprap in erosion areas.

The committee proposed a flood control dam in Bowman Canyon. It could be partially paid for by selling water to the North Marin County Water District, Mrs. Wilhelm said.

There were about 95 creekside residents at the meeting and their general feeling was that if they had to have flood control they did not want a concrete ditch, Mrs. Wilhelm said.

Farmers Finding Leasing Useful

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — A few Madison County farmers are finding that leasing farm machinery is one way of controlling one's resources. Farmers have found that rapid changes in technology and the expanding farm business have created a need for new machines. This can cause a severe strain on the normal sources of investment capita.

Custom hiring to get the job done or renting the machine by the job or by the season can relieve a tight capital situation and keep capital free for other uses in the farm business.

Opinions Vary On Quality Of Education

changes that he plans to move from the area, said heatedly he was "not paying these teachers to take my kids to the zoo." (Frequent field trips, often suggested by students, are a part of the new program).

"I want my kids to learn how to read and write and do a little arithmetic," he said angrily; "I don't believe children should go unsupervised; I don't go for this modern education."

Another foe of the system is Mrs. Louise Pepper who said she has not seen any work for daughter, a fourth-grader at Bolinas School, has done this year. "She's had no homework at all," Mrs. Pepper said, "and when I had her bring a math workbook home; she couldn't do any of the problems until I showed her how, even though her grades — I had to ask for a report card, because they don't believe in them — have been outstanding."

The new method finds its enthusiastic supporters, too, including Nancy Borgstrom, the wife of an architect. "I want something stimulating for my children, because that is the only thing they respond to," she said. "I don't want the schools to kill anything that is in my children; they need to take the initiative in learning." Mrs. Borgstrom has suggested the district have two schools, one progressive and one traditional, to give parents a choice.

Some parents in the district feel the schools have not moved far enough toward student freedom. These individuals, also a minority, would like to see a Summerhill approach where fundamentals such as reading and writing take second place in the learning process.

Caught in the middle of the conflicting educational philosophies are a large group of parents, probably the majority, who are both attracted and frightened by the new programs.

These are the people who frankly admit they see some good thing happening, but complain they have no idea what their children know or where they are as to grade level because testing has been almost non-existent in the schools this year and measures of student progress, few.

Some, like Barbara Bowman, mother of a fourth grader, have had unfortunate experiences with their children this year, enough to make them wary. Mrs. Bowman went to an open house in October and was startled when she saw her son Chris's basket contained no completed work.

"I asked the teacher about this and was told 'Your son hasn't done any work!" she said. Naturally, I was upset; if my son wasn't progressing, why didn't they let me know?" Yet Mrs. Bowman admitted she would feel badly if the new system were abandoned, "because I really believe the children can get so much out of it, once the new methods have been perfected.

Edward Z. Lewis, chairman of the school board, said he understands the concern of parents. He voiced the opinion that conflicts over ways of learning will not be solved until the schools find some way of assuring parents their children are learning what they should.

"A certain amount of testing has to be done," Lewis said, "even though some of the moere progressive teachers resist this. If we can convince the parents their children are learning, I can't for the life of me see why anyone is going to object ot the methods."

Trustee Jesse Reasoner, who recently retired as math teacher at a Richmond junior high school, agreed that the district's testing program must be upgraded next year. Mrs. Reasoner also said she would like to see more emphasis on fundamental, particulary math, though not necessarily in the traditional sense.

Trustee Warren Fairbanks, an ardent supporter of the district's new educational direction, said he realized some youngsters are having difficulty in learning, "but this can be eliminated by remedial help and individualized instruction."

Fairbanks said part of the conflicts have resulted because parents were not adequately prepared for the new program and many still do not understand what is going on. "This makes these parents easy prey to those who would like them to think things aren't going well in the schools and a lot of rumors and half-truths fly around," the trustee said.

Trustee Erik Lund offered a proposal to remedy this situation by suggesting that parents and teachers get together and talk about mutual concerns before school starts in September. "I don't think parents would be so fearful if they had a better idea of how the new methods work," Lund said.

Fairbanks also said the district must establish concrete and specific education goals and the board should then work toward achieving these goals. "Board members shouldn't have to get up each morning and test which way the wind is blowing," he said. "We have had more than enough of this already and it certainly hasn't cut down on the problems, only intensified them."

TRANSIT

considered the matter, was made by Supervisor Peter Tamaras.

"We just can't sit on our hands hoping someone's going to put in a rapid transit tube — the time has long passed for us to take action," Tamaras declared.

The bridge district's general manager, Dale W. Luehring, told the committee that all progress on the bus system had been held up pending a decision by the San Francisco supervisors on whether to allow the system.

Committee chairman John A. Ertola said the committee ought to know how much the system will cost the city in new traffic signs, but Supervisor Terry A. Francois said then it also ought to know how much would be saved because fewer garages would be needed to park commuters' cars. "There are some benefits here, too," Francois said.

The third member, Supervisor Robert E. Gonzales, who also serves on the bridge board, said he was voting for the district's plans only because they now included ferries as well as buses.

Urging postponement was Edward Lawson of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. He said no action should be voted until the district's long-range plans are completed in October, and questioned whether the district was the "appropriate agency" to get into the transit business since its directors also came from remote northern counties.

Also objecting was Louis Goldblatt of Mill Valley, secretary of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and William Ferguson, president of the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council. Both argued action should await the Spaulding report next month.

Tamaras, however, noted that the Spaulding report would not affect the need for buses. Bay Area transit studies costing $7.5 million have recommended unanimously that buses will be needed until rapid transit can be expanded.

Ertola said he was voting affirmatively "with great reluctance." San Francisco recently bought 400 buses, he said, "and they sounded great until they hit the streets with smog and noise."

Luehring noted that the buses would reduce the net amount of smog by cutting by 1,800 the number of commuters' cars.

Scales Unpleasant Word To This Pupil

$100,000 In Set Blazes Hit Stanford

STANFORD (AP) — Arson fires destroyed offices in two separate wings of the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University today.

The fires, which Stanford Fire Chief Frank Jurian said were started by flammable substances thrown through windows, caused at least $100,000 in damage, the chief estimated.

Besides causing damage to the offices, the flames destroyed papers, manuscripts and books of members of the independent organization located on university land.

The fire was reported by Palo Alto and Atherton police to the Stanford Fire Department shortly after 5 a.m.

Chief Jurian said an attempt to set the main administration building of the center afire failed.

LAND

found in violation of the provision that the land be used for legitimate agricultural purposes.

At the committee meeting in the Civic Center, County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel gave an example of nonagricultural land whose owner is taking advantage of low assessments. On the western shore of Tomales Bay is a 3.3-acre parcel, which sold for $16,000 in 1967, Broemmel reported. The owner signed an agricultural preserve contract, although the property is incapable of producing agriculture income and could only be used as a homesite, said Broemmel.

"Under the old law, we could assess it for $12,000 on the basis that it was a buildable lot, but under the new law, we have to lower it to $400."

Committee members agreed that nonagricultural parcels such as this should be notified that their agricultural preserve contract will not be renewed.

On the other hand, they said, there will be "islands" of property surrounded by agricultural preserve areas that should probably be under contract.

The ultimate job of the committee will be to determine the precise boundaries of the preserve and what uses compatible to agriculture should be allowed in the preserve.

Chairman Boyd Stewart asked county planner Rowland Darnell to prepare a map showing all areas under contract, with separate lines showing pockets of contract areas of 100 acres or less.

The committee said it would formalize its recommendations to the supervisors at its May 7 meeting.

In related action, committee members recommended to the board that no action be taken on an application by Nancy Dunn of Marshall to have her 34-acre property included in an agricultural preserve because she wants to raise Arabian horses. Attorney Nancy C. Lenvin of San Francisco, representing Mrs. Dunn, assured committee members that horse breeding is a legitimate agricultural enterprise.

The committee decided that individual applications should be held up until criteria can be drawn up on what uses are compatible to agriculture.

Morton Angry On Tactics Used In Carswell Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton has denounced as "unconscionable" the tactics which brought Judge G. Harrold Carswell into the U.S. Senate campaign in Florida.

His angry remarks, at a social gathering, were unusual for a party chairman who usually stands neutral in a primary race.

They were directed at Florida Gov. Claude Kirk and Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., who talked Carswell, rejected for the U.S. Supreme Court by the Senate, into entering the race.

Kirk and Gurney arranged the Carswell candidacy without notifying Rep. William C. Cramer, who had declared for the nomination. Then they asked him to withdraw as a candidate. Cramer refused.

Lake Ranch Owner Selling Off Parcels

The owner of the 2,500-acre Lake Ranch in the heart of the Point Reyes National Seashore is selling off portions of his ranch, as he announced he would do more than a year ago.

A. W. Sweet, Coos Bay banker and part owner of the Lake Ranch, has sold at least six parcels for a total of about $660,000, according to deeds filed with the Marin County Recorder.

Each parcel is believed to be about 40 acres. That would mean a total of 240 acres, or $2,750 per acre.

In February 1969, Sweet announced he had waited for the government to buy the ranch but could no longer wait. "We still owe money against it and our family doesn't have the resources to hold it." Sweet announced at that time. He said he planned to cut the ranch into 40-acre parcels for sale.

The records of sales during the past two months shows that the purchasers are from Oregon, Idaho and California.

Buyers are identified as Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. McCormack, Mr. and Msr. John D. Silva, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan, Mr .and Mrs. L. G. Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Sweet and Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Harrington.

The addresses of the others were not listed.

Sweet is represented by attorney Lawrence Kuechler of San Francisco. Neither Sweet nor his attorney could be reached this morning.

severed diplomatic relations with South Vietnam in 1965 as result of a long series of border disputes, and with Thailand in 1961, again as result of a border dispute.

A communique issued by the government of Premier Gen. Lon Nol said Cambodia was reopening commercial relations with Thailand for the first time since the diplomatic rupture and lifted a ban on transit stops at Phnom Penh airport by Thai nationals.

Cambodian and South Vietnamese troops have been reported actively cooperating in the border areas and a Saigon report today said a South Vietnamese delegation headed by Social Welfare Minister Tran Nguyen Phieu would fly here Saturday to aid in the repatriation of 60,000 Vietnamese nationals.

(In Saigon the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu announced it has allocated $16,000 to provide transportation, food, medicine and housing facilities for 50,000 nationals who have decided to accept repatriation. They were being resettled in camps near the border.)

Radio Phnom Penh came up with a new explanation today for the hundreds of bullet-riddled Vietnamese bodies seen by Western newsmen in the Mekong River south of Phnom Penh April 15.

The government radio said the Viet Cong in Cambodia tied the hands of their own battle dead and threw them into the river to give the impression they were innocent civilians massacred by the Cambodians.

Earlier, the Cambodian government said the dead in the river drowned in the sinking of a boat.

Informed sources said the two South Vietnamese forces sweeping in Cambodia west of Saigon this week had pulled back after killing 245 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and capturing more than 60 tons of arms and ammunition.

The sources said 28 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 127 wounded.

But while these informants were claiming successes in Cambodia, North Vietnamese troops to the north along the Laotian border dealt government forces moderate losses in an attack near the besieged Dak Seang Special Forces camp.

U.S. spokesmen reported heavy American bombing strikes against the Ho Chi Minh Trail through eastern Laos and said another U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down there Thursday. It was the sixth American plane lost over Laos in the past three days. The two crewmen were rescued with no injuries reported.

O'Connor Denies Any Pressure In Strike Probe

One of a group of clergymen seeking creation of a fact-finding committee to delve into the typographers' strike against the Independent-Journal has denied that the effort is a result of union pressure.

Rev. John J. O'Connor of the Catholic Social Services Agency of Marin said in a letter to the board of supervisors, "We have been pressured by no one and we represent neither side."

He also said that "I would personally be in favor of a Grand Jury investigation" into the "vandalism, violence and harassment connected with this strike."

O'Connor again urged the board to appoint a committee. The board took no action on the request at its meeting Tuesday, but Chairman John F. McInnis said then that the request was obviously not a spontaneous effort but came from pressure by the union.

San Francisco Typographical Union 21 struck the I-J on Jan. 7.

Probation Officers To Study Case

The case of an 18-year-old San Anselmo youth accused of selling heroin was referred yesterday to probation officials for possible transferral to juvenile court.

George Billy Wigner Jr. was released without bail by Judge Hadden W. Roth after his attorney described him as youth who had never been in trouble before. He was turned over to his father who was in court. Wigner is to return to Marin Municipal Court on May 7.

Others arrested in a San Anselmo raid Wednesday night were also arraigned in court yesterday.

Michael Albert Jacinth, 21, of San Anselmo, was charged with possessing marijuana, being under the influence of a narcotic and having a syringe. His case was continued to today for entry of plea.

Richard Wayne Dillon, 36, of San Rafael was accused of being under the influence of a narcotics and having a syringe and needle. He was also to return to court today.

Mary Margaret Tovatt, 19, was released without bail after being arraigned on charges of being under the influence of narcotics and having a syringe and needle. She is to return to court next Thursday.

A 15-year-old boy accused of selling heroin had already been turned over to juvenile authorities.

Parole Violator Is Arrested As Heroin Suspect

A 37-year-old parole violater missing for about a year was arrested in a San Rafael apartment yesterday and he and a woman companion were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of having heroin and methedrine for sale.

Drug agents said that Lewis Powell, 37, tried to hold the bathroom door of his apartment closed with one hand and flush something down the toilet with the other after the woman had let them into the apartment at 1563 Lincoln Avenue.

The agents said, however, that they found about three ounces of "speed" and 10 packets of heroin apparently wrapped for sale in the apartment. Carla Jane Lanum, 29, who gave her address as 257 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, was also arrested.

Both were held in Marin County Jail on $3,750 bail each and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Finns And Drinks

HELSINKI (UPI) — Finns may have somewhat of a reputation as hard drinkers, but a study here shows that one-third of the women and 7 per cent of the men in the country have never tasted alcoholic beverages.

OBITUARIES

Louis M. Silva Dies At 47

Louis M.Silva, 47, a former Tomales Dairyman, died yesterday at a San Francisco Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Tomales, Silva operated dairy ranches in Tomales and Liberty for many years. For 10 years he was employed by the Dairy Herd Improvement Aossociation.

For the past year Silva had been employed as a maintenance man at the University of the Pacific School of Dentistry, San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Beverly; five sons, Gary, Santa Rosa and Dan, David, Ronald and Michael of the family home; a daughter, Patricia Minatta of Santa Rosa; three brothers, Fred of Imperial Beach, San Diego County, Bert of Milpitas and Frank of Antioch; four sisters Ann Lyman of San Rafael, Lillian Golloway of Petaluma, Rose Fosdick of San Francisco and Peggy Nuffer of San Jose and two grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Monday at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Burial will be in Liberty cemetery.

ARBA JOSLIN

Private funeral was held today for Arba V. Joslin, 93, a former long-time worker for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., who died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Joslin, an Antioch native, lived in Point Reyes Station.

He retired from PG&E in 1942 after many years' service in their San Francisco office. He had joined the company after selling it the Konocti Power Co. in Lake County, which he had founded after graduation from Stanford University in 1898.

He is survived by two sons, Douglas T. Joslin of Novato and Donald A. Joslin of Point Reyes Station; 10 grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

JOHN AZEVEDO

Requiem Mass for John J. Azevedo, 73, of Santa Cruz, formerly of Point Reyes and Tomales, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Petaluma. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Azevedo died Tuesday at a Santa Cruz hospital after collapsing at his home. Born in Point Reyes, he operated dairy ranches there and in Tomales, moving 19 years ago.

He was employed by the Birdseye Co. for 10 years until his retirement at the age of 65.

He and his wife, Marie, had operated the Rea Court Motel in Santa Cruz. Azevedo was a member of St. Anthony's Council, a Portuguese society, Santa Cruz.

He is also survived by a son, Richard J. Azevedo of Petaluma; a daughter, Madeline Thornhill of Cleveland, Ohio; four sisters, Mae Silva and Helen Joseph of Petaluma, Ida Freites of Santa Rosa, and Mildred Ventura of Sebastopol; three brothers, A. J. Azevedo of Petaluma, Joseph R. Azevedo of Pleasant Grove, Sutter County, and Francis R. Azevedo of Sacramento; 14 grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Sorensen Furneral Home, Petaluma.

WALTER HOBSON

Private funeral for Walter T. Hobson, 81, of Petaluma, was held today at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Inurnment was at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Hobson died Wednesday at a local hospital after a short illness. A native of Missouri, he was reared there and moved to Petaluma in 1927.

Hobson served in the Merchant Marines in World War I and had been in the poultry ranching business since moving to Petaluma.

He is survived by his wife, Agnes; a son, and three daughters.

was said, pose a critical stage for the Lon Nol government. With aid during that period, the Lon Nol forces would have perhaps a 50-50 chance of seizing the initiative before the seasonal rainy season, it was said. After that, the weather would work to the advantage of the better trained Communist forces, sources indicated.

Besides the possibility of U.S. arms aid, American officials are known to be exploring the idea of an international agreement to provide help to Cambodia to insure its neutrality.

Indonesia, for example, is expected to provide ammunition for the captured weapons being turned over to Cambodia.

Military leaders are known to think the loss of Cambodia could set off the so-called domino theory and all the countries of Southeast Asia might go under Communist domination.

Conversely, aid might reverse the situation and create a Cambodian ally for the United States as strong as Thailand.

TURNABOUT IS FAIR PLAY

Educators Discuss Use Of U.S. Cash

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Educators were in agreement today that federal monies granted for higher education community services should be handled at the state level.

Dale Ward, chairman of the Western Regional Conference of Higher Education which began Thursday, said the reason is "so we can coordinate the programs with overall state priorities, outside of education as well as in education."

Sixty representatives from 29 states were meeting to discuss proposed federal legislation dealing with how institutions of higher learning can serve the community.

TO CONGRESS

Their recommendations, followed by a report prepared by 10 elected persons in the steering committee, will be sent to Congress as a basis for drafting legislation to succeed Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

"States are faced with problems of having limited resources, and unless they have a say as to how federal dollars are spent, they run the risk of dissipating those dollars that are available to a lot of programs that are irrelevant to state needs," Ward said. "We are talking not only about state control over the program, but also state designation of state problems rather than national problems."

PROBLEM SOLVING

"The real issue is whether the institutions of higher education can assist communities in solving community problems, such as pollution, poverty and so on," he said.

After agreeing that the state should disseminate the federal monies, the conference discussed how those funds should be further handled at the local level. There was a consensus the state itself should disseminate them. Ward said the reasoning was that the institutions cannot operate independently from the statewide priorities that have been set.

EXTRA ZERO MAKES FOR A RED FACE

San Anselmo appraiser David G. Cohn Wednesday reported to the Marin Municipal Water District board that the fair rental value of the land leased to the Meadow Club above Fairfax is $5,000 — not $500 as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The club presently pays $480 a year for the 162 acres.

If a new lease is negotiated on the basis of Cohn's appraisal, his $650 report will pay for itself in a couple of months, not in just over 30 years, as reported in yesterday's I-J.

However, it may take just over 30 years for the I-J reporter to recover from his mistake.

Ross Home Fire Damage Is Heavy

A fire which started in the corner of a garage attached to a one-story Ross home mushroomed into the attic of the home and caused an estimated $7,000 damage to the building yesterday.

No estimate of damage to the possessions of the owner, Lloyd A. Parmelee, was available. No one was home when the fire started.

Ross Fire Chief Charles Pinza said today that the garage, roof, attic and kitchen of the house on Shady Lane were damaged. There was also "considerable" smoke and water damage throughout the house, he said.

The fire was under control within a half hour of its report at 9:18 p.m., Pinza said.

Trummerberg, a hill rising 377 feet at the edge of the Grunewald Forest park in West Berlin, is composed entirely of bull-dozed rubble from World War II bombings of Berlin.

Presidential Pens A Glut On Market?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe it's a big deal to get a souvenir presidential pen used in White House bill-signing ceremonies, but just try to hock one.

John Fowler tried to peddle his LBJ model by inserting this classified ad in a local newspaper, the Evening Star:

"Presidential Pen—Used by Pres. Johnson for signing bill into law. Best offer."

The 27-year-old construction worker and one-time White House mail room employe got just one offer in the three days the ad ran. And that was from a reporter who didn't really want the pen but was curious about the ad.

"I really didn't have any use for it," said Fowler. "It just lays there and I needed a little cash.

"I thought it would be worth something. But then Johnson gave out so many, so I guess they aren't worth much now."

A spokesman for the Charles Hamilton Autograph Gallery in New York said the going rate for Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon pens is about $10. A pen used by the late John F. Kennedy will bring "well over $100." Collectors are willing to pay about $50 for pens used by other presidents, the spokesman said.

The pen ceremony has been going on for a long time, longer than present denizens of the White House can remember.

Johnson gave away pens by the hundreds or maybe thousands. At first he used pens costing $1.11 apiece. They were of the dipping variety with the President's name stamped on them and were distributed to congressmen and other guests present for the ceremonial signing of bills.

But LBJ later switched to pens costing only 17 cents each.

That's the model Fowler is trying to sell. It's encased in a little box with the presidential seal and signature stamped in gold and was a highly prized souvenir—at least when LBJ resided at the White House.

Fulbright Sets Longevity Mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — As of today, Sen. J. W. Fulbright breaks the record for length of service as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Arkansas Democrat equaled Thursday the mark of 11 years and 76 days set by Republican Sen. Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, who presided from Dec. 18, 1901, to March 4, 1913.

A dozen senators made speeches in praise of Fulbright's length of service and leadership of the committee.

Fulbright, often at odds with the present and past administrations, remarked:

"I am overwhelmed. I am unaccustomed to hearing complimentary remarks, in or out of the Senate.

Karate Feud In A Deadly Turn: Saber Kills One

CHICAGO (AP) — A dozen karate fighters brawled on the Northwest Side Thursday night and one of them was fatally stabbed with a saber.

Police said the battle stemmed from a year-old feud between two karate clubs over competition for students.

They said the owner of the House of Dante karate school—John Keehan, 31, known as "Count Dante, the deadliest man alive"—telephoned the rival Kung-Fu Kempos school and said he and five other men were coming to fight.

When they arrived, police said, Count Dante knocked down the door of the rival school and was met inside by six members of Kung-Fu Kempos. The fight ensued.

The dead man was identified as James R. Koncevic, 25, of Calumet City.

Tiburon Drain Committee Asks Cities' Funds Plan

The Tiburon Drainage Committee has asked the Belvedere and Tiburon city councils to set aside a minimum of $5,000 each during the next fiscal year to alleviate drainage problems in the two cities.

The committee, meeting Tuesday night, unanimously voted to request that the funds be held for future drainage projects, according to Edwin J. Drechsel, committeeman and Belvedere's new mayor. The councils would make the final decision on how to speed the money, based on recommendations from the committee, he said.

The committee also heard a report from Henry E. Cornils, president of the Belvedere Lagoon Property Owners Association, who proposed a drain outlet from the lagoon into Belvedere Cove to promote water circulation.

Corils said he hoped the drain would provide scouring action in the cove and prevent further sedimentation as well as reduce present silting.

The committee set its next meeting for May 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Tiburon Peninsula Club, Drechsel said.

Meeting Not Held For Lack Of Quorum

The Tiburon Planning Commission did not meet Wednesday for lack of a quorum, according to Wayne E. Moody, planning director.

The commission will meet May 4 at 8 p.m. at city hall to discuss amending the city's zoning ordinance to allow clustering of residences.

Sailor Convicted On Protest Paper

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A court-martial jury found seaman Roger Lee Priest guilty Thursday night of two charges of causing disloyalty and disaffection among servicemen but acquitted him of six other charges, including sedition.

The jury of five Navy commissioned officers deliberated for nearly seven hours after getting the court martial case at the end of the one-week trial. Defense Attorney David Reim said he would appeal the guilty verdicts.

Capt. B. Raymond Perkins, the military judge, set Monday for sentencing. Priest, 26, faces a possible maximum sentence of three years in jail on each of the two charges and a dishonorable discharge from the Navy.

Ex-Queen's Gems Bring High Price

GENEVA (AP) — A pair of diamond pedant earrings reportedly owned by former Queen Soroya of Iran has brought $510,000 from an anonymous buyer at a jewelry auction.

The auctioneering firm identified the earrings as 'the property of a former queen," but declined to confirm that they were a present from the Shah to Soroya before he divorced her.

Total proceeds of the auction Thursday, in which 339 pieces of jewelry changed hands, were $3.25 million, described by the auctioneers as a record for a single sale.

Youths To Higher Court For Burglary

Two youths were incorrectly reported in a headline in yesterday's Independent-Journal as bound over to Marin Superior Court on heroin charges. Instead, Stephen John Pappas of San Rafael and Arthur George Metzger of Petaluma are accused of burglary and possessing stolen property.

The youths and a third companion, Reade Collins Backer of Ross, had told the officer who arrested them they were heroin addicts but they are not accused of narcotics offenses.

Jury Seated In Nyhans Murder Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A jury of five women and seven men was sworn in late Thursday for the trial of Elsie Nyhan, 74, and her son, Daniel, 45, of Tiburon on first degree murder charges in the death of Mrs. Genevieve Dolan, 61. A woman and a man were chosen as alternate jurors.

Jack Berman, attorney for Mrs. Nyhan, said in his opening statement in Superior Court that the two women were close friends and that Mrs. Dolan brought a fifth of sherry wine to Mrs. Nyhan's Nob Hill apartment in October 1968.

He said that before and after dinner, prepared by Mrs. Hyhan, they consumed the wine, and Mrs. Dolan went out and bought another bottle, which they also consumed.

He said he would show that Mrs. Nyhan went to bed and awoke next morning to find Mrs. Dolan's body in a hallway.

A toxicology report will show a high alcoholic content in the dead woman's blood, he added.

Police at the time reported the woman had a head wound.

Nyhan, who lives in Tiburon, is defended by deputy public defender Fred Smith.

The case is being prosecuted by Jean Wright, assistant district attorney.

Housing Workshop Scheduled May 8

A housing workshop on Marin County housing and a measure on the June 2 primary ballot calling for authorization to construct 600 new units of low cost elderly housing in the county is slated for noon May 8 in conference room B at College of Marin.

Sponsored by Committee for Adequate Shelter for All (CASH) and the Associated Student Government of College of Marin, the program will include speeches by Neil Little of the Marin County Housing Authority; Supervisor Michael Wornum; Paul C. Zucker, director of the Marin County Planning Department, and Martin Mackey of the Ecumenical Association for Housing.

Clarinet Stolen

A clarinet and case of undetermined value owned by Joanola Rose, 11, of 150 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael were stolen April 8 from a walkway at San Rafael High School, police reported yesterday.

Annual Inspections For Leased Housing

Annual inspections of leased housing units to insure they are being cared for properly has been approved by the Marin County Housing Authority, according to Donald O. Stutsman, executive director.

Stutsman said the commission Wednesday night decided the inspections will be made at the same time authority staff members interview tenants to see if they still are eligible for the low-cost housing program.

If any problems are observed during the residence checks, Stutsman said, qualified inspectors will make complete examinations of the premises.

The commissioners also approved exterior inspections of all the county's leased housing units every three months, with follow-up checks if problems appear.

The only exception to the yearly inspections will be leased housing units of senior citizens, which will be checked every two years, since their income stability makes yearly checks unnecessary.

There were complaints last month from Santa Venetia residents about accumulation of rubbish in the backyard of a home rented under the leased housing program.

County officials learned that similar problems existed in other areas and Marin County supervisors asked the Housing Authority to work out a system for collecting garbage and maintaining grounds at leased housing units.

The Marin County Housing Authority Also:

CABLE — Heard a report that an agreement had been reached with Clearview Cable System reducing the monthly charge of community antenna service to $2.75 and refunding the required $15 deposits.

LENSES — Heard a report that many residents of senior citizens projects have requested door lenses and agreed to install them if the individuals would purchase them.

MODERNIZATION — Heard a report from Wallace K. Shepherd, assistant director, that the Marin City modernization program was exceeding budgeted amounts. Shepherd said he has been in touch with the Department of Housing and Urban Development about increasing the budget.

ACCOUNTS — Voted to write off six vacated accounts totaling $281 at the Hilarita project and 11 accounts totaling $1,719 at the Marin City project.

AUDIT — Delayed until the next meeting, May 5, at a time and place not yet set, a report on the federal audit of the authority.

Action Against Douglas Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., of the House Rules Committee sidetracked today for 60 days a bipartisan resolution calling for a study of impeachment proceedings against Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Colmer said he would not program the resolution for immediate hearings since the House Judiciary Committee has promised action on an impeachment resolution of its own within 60 days.

This action was regarded as a setback for the 112 House sponsors of the study resolution introduced after Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan called for impeachment proceedings.

Minor Head Injuries

Steven Grimm, 18, of 35 San Gabriel Drive, Fairfax, was treated at 12:30 a.m. today at Marin General Hospital for head bruises suffered in an automobile accident in Fairfax. No details of the accident were available.

San Diego Bus Hopes Still Dim

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego bus strike entered its seventh day today and federal mediator John Taylor said he has been unable to find justification for renewing contract negotiations.

About 52,000 persons who normally ride the San Diego Transit Corp. buses each day have been affected by the walkout.

No meetings are planned," Taylor said, "until we can find some justification for calling both sides to the bargaining table."

Transit officials say the shutdown of its 220 buses is costing the company up to $16,000 a day.

Stereo Player Stolen

A stereophonic player of undetermined value was stolen sometime before 7 a.m. yesterday from a pickup truck owned by Jeffrey L. Beehler of 3503 Petaluma Boulevard, Petaluma and parked at Bergman Manufacturing Co., 632 Irwin Street, San Rafael police reported today.

Last Friday 17 stereophonic tapes and cases valued at $140 were reported stolen from the truck parked in the same lot.

Coming this Saturday in Marin Magazine

Special features you'll enjoy:

There's boating around the calendar in the Bay Area. But unquestionably, spring marks a resumption of aquatic activity following at least a partial winter-time lull. And the big date is the annual boat parade on San Francisco Bay, marking the start of a new yachting season. One weekend in advance of the 1970 event, today's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine is a special salute to Marin County boatmen.

Another activity that hits a peak during the spring season in Marin County is gardening. And Marinites each week find the Marin Magazine's gardening page or pages a help to them in their green thumb endeavors. Check tomorrow's gardening page for a checklist reminding you of what you should be doing in your garden in late April, plus other feature articles on special plantings and landscaping techniques.

MUSEUM'S NEWEST ADDITION

Wide-eyed Spots, a week-old black-tailed buck, gulps down a bottle of buttermilk at the Boyd Museum of Natural Science. It was found earlier this week without its mother. The deer will be sheltered at the museum until it is old enough to fend for itself. It will then be returned to nature.

Span Directors Seek Buses, May Help Commuter Clubs

An immediate call for bids to provide a pool of buses for the Golden Gate Bridge District was recommended unanimously yesterday by district directors.

(See page 1 for San Francisco supervisors' action on buses).

Up to 80 buses will be sought under the proposal, which envisions district subsidization of commuter clubs to provide amenities such as guaranteed seating, coffee and newspapers.

The recommendation, by the district's joint transportation and finance-auditing committee, will go to the full board for its action on May 8.

Bus companies will be invited to bid on a seat-mile basis for service to four zones between the Bridge and Santa Rosa under the specifications approved by the committee.

The commuter clubs, similar to four already operating privately to Northern Marin, would offer either express service to San Francisco or feed the ferry system the district proposes to operate.

Several companies could be involved, since none may have enough buses, Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said. This would include Marin County Transit Systems, which is operating a ferry feeder system in Southern Marin.

The Marin City-based company, however, also has asked the district for a $12,000-a-month subsidy, and it was unclear how it could bid competitively at the same time.

The specifications provide that the district will offer storage for buses in the north Sausalito area for $1 a month per bus. This presumably will be at the district's proposed ferry terminal.

Shields estimated that 30 surplus charter buses were available from Bay Area companies, but that the number was expected to increase as companies were attracted to bid.

Luehring also noted it was possible the district may be able to lease newer Greyhound buses for $1 a month. Greyhound would offer the leases if that expedited its long sought exit from the commuter business, he told the Independent-Journal.

The charter system would allow the district to get into the commuter business far faster than it will take to buy its own equipment, he said. Charter clubs could start forming in a month, compared to the eight or nine months needed to buy buses, Luehring said.

Interest in the bids was expressed by Keith L. Grimm of Petaluma, vice president of Community Enterprises, an Orange County-based company that operates 725 buses statewide. He said his company did not have enough buses now for its own charter business, but would consider getting new equipment if there were some assurance that the district charter will be for longer than the year in the specifications.

The committee also recommended board approval of a $55,000 contract with Walter Landor, a design consultant, to prepare what he termed a "design policy" to give the district's transit facilities "a unique visual style."

Director Lowell Edington of Napa County objected that "we just haven't anything to put it on yet," but Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum argued "we're going into the transit business — let there be no doubt about that."

The moon's largest crater as seen from earth, Mare Ibrium, stretches 750 miles across a largely filled-in plain so vast that early observers identified it as a lunar sea.

Witnesses Praise KRON's Programs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A parade of witnesses testified Thursday at a Federal Communications Commission hearing that license renewal for KRON-TV would be in the public interest.

Previous testimony had included complaints that the station slanted news broadcasts in behalf of Chronicle Publishing Co., which owns KRON through a subsidiary.

KRON attorney Frank Fletcher produced 16 witnesses who talked about the station's public service programs. They included Don Fazackerley, vice chairman of the board of Commonwealth National Bank, who said in all his years as a civic leader and public official he had found KRON news accurate and the station "most cooperative" in public service programs.

Charlotte Woodruff, Napa housewife active in Community Projects, Inc., a charity group, said KRON had given "excellent cooperation."

Parents Seeking Funds For Deaths Of Inmate Sons

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A $1.2 million damage suit has been filed in Federal Court by the parents of three Soledad Prison inmates who were fatally shot by a guard last January.

The defendants named in the suit filed Thursday were the guard O. G. Miller who fired the fatal shots, Supt. C. J. FitzHarris, Deputy Supt. William Black, Associate Warden C. L. Swagerty and the State of California.

The legal action charged that Miller had fired into a group of prisoners during a racial fracas at the prison "maliciously and recklessly," and did so "because of his general hatred of persons of African descent."

Attorney Melvin Belli filed the suit on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Nolen, Oakland, parents of W.L. Nolen, one of the men killed; Mr. and Mrs. Perry Miller, Los Angeles, parents of Calvin Miller, another victim; and Mrs. Sue Edwards, Riverside, mother of the third victim, Cleveland Edwards.

Drug Trafficker In Fatal 'Speed' Case Is Sentenced

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The man blamed for supplying the "speed" that resulted in a San Rafael fatality in 1968 was sentenced yesterday to three prison terms to run consecutively.

Everett LeForrest Hill, 42, was ordered to serve five years to life in prison for unlawful sale of dangerous drugs, two to 10 years for unlawful possession for sale of dangerous drugs, and one to 10 years for a second count of unlawful possession. Judge Robert H. Schnacke of San Francisco Superior Court ordered that the terms run consecutively.

State law provides that the felon cannot be released from prison before serving at least three years of the unlawful sale term and at least two years of the unlawful possession for sale term.

A count of furnishing dangerous drugs to a minor, on which Hill's trial jury was unable to agree, was dismissed after the sentences were pronounced on the other counts.

Hill allegedly supplied the "speed" that killed Richard Kenneth Yager, 20, of Larkspur, on Sept. 27, 1968. While out on bail awaiting trial on charges arising from that, he was arrested in San Francisco and charged with selling "speed" (methamphetamine) to a state narcotics agent.

Heart Attack Fatal To Climber

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — A Japanese member of an expedition climbing Mt. Everest died of a heart attack Tuesday, the Nepalese Foreign Ministry announced today.

The victim, Kiyoshi Narita, 28, belonged to the 39-member Everest expedition sponsored by the Japanese Alpine Club of Tokyo.

His death was the ninth this spring on the mountain, which has taken the heaviest toll in a single climbing season in recent memory. The other eight fatalities were Nepalese Sherpa guides assisting the Japanese, who are climbing Everest in two separate expeditions, one seeking to reach the summit and the other hoping to ski down one of the slopes of the mountain.

A deeper trust

As we grow in our understanding of the nature of God, it leads to a deeper trust in Him. It happens through the calm of prayer, the joy of song, a thoughtful searching of the Scriptures, reason and inspiration. For one hour every Sunday morning, Christian Science church services provide a sanctuary for these channels to a deeper trust. They are open to everyone. You are always welcome.

College Instructor To Britain For Year

A College of Marin instructor has been accepted in the Fulbright Exchange Teacher program and will teach next year in London.

The college's trustees last night authorized Donald Palmer, an instructor in philosophy and Spanish to accept the nomination.

Under the exchange program, a British teacher, Roger M. Woodward of London will come to the College of Marin to replace Palmer for a year.

The college will pay Palmer's full salary during the year but all travel costs will be borne by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Supt.-President John A. Grasham told the board that Palmer and Woodward have already agreed to live in each other's homes during the exchange. Palmer lives in Fairfax.

The Fulbright exchange program is highly coveted, Grasham told the board. He said the college should be "highly honored" one of its instructors qualified for the program.

There will be no cost to the district regarding Woodward, Grasham said. His salary will be paid by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, he said.

Trustees Approve Makeup Of Panels In Dean Hunt

College of Marin's trustees last night unanimously approved the makeup of two committees to screen and select a new dean of students and then expanded their action into a district policy for selecting all future deans and assistant deans.

The board voted to create a screening committee consisting of not more than three administrators, not more than three faculty members, not more than two students and two classified personnel.

It also created a selection committee consisting of not more than two board members, two administrators and two faculty members.

The makeup of the screening committee had been the subject of lengthy negotiations between college Supt.-President John A. Grasham and the college cabinet.

Grasham told the board that applications for the dean's position were currently being received by the college and that he hoped the screening committee would meet by May 1 to begin sorting out the best candidates for the job.

The college's dean of instruction, Paul Clymers, is retiring at the end of this school year.

The board's action last night made the committee format permanent and the two committees will function each time a dean's position is to be filled.

The Marin Junior College District Board Also:

ADULT CLASS—Approved a consumer education program for senior citizens to begin with the next fall term.

PBX—Approved the hiring of Margaret L. Moses as a PBX operator at a salary of $467 per month, effective Monday.

BUDGET CALENDAR—Approved a new budget calendar setting May 7 as the date for preliminary budget approval; May 21 as publication date of the preliminary budget and June 19 as the first public hearing on the budget.

OLNEY HALL—Awarded contract for refurbishing of Olney Hall to the Pearson and Johnson Construction Co. of San Francisco for its low bid of $79,590. Work will be done between June and September.

BRIDGE WORK—Approved placing in escrow $24,000 to cover the difference between the kind of bridge the college wants built in the Corte Madera Creek project and the type the Corps of Engineers had proposed to build. Under an agreement with the college, the corps will now build the bridge according to college specifications. The new bridge will be much larger.

FINANCIAL AID—Held over until the next meeting a discussion of changes in the financial aid section of the district's policies and procedures handbook.

David Covered With Figleaf

LONDON (AP) — David has come to London, wearing a figleaf to spare the blushes of the British.

An eight-foot-tall copy of Michelangelo's statue of David, which stands naked and unashamed in Florence, is the centerpiece of Italia Romantica, a two-week promotion of Italian goods being staged at a large department store in the suburb of Kingston-upon-Thames.

"Some people might have been shocked by the real thing," a store spokesman said. "We are in a central shopping area, by traffic lights, and it might have fascinated shoppers and motorists too much without the fig leaf."

Students Repel Hungry Soldiers

GHENT, Belgium (AP) — Members of the 7th U.S. Army soldiers choir were refused access to the students' restaurant at Ghent University Thursday by students who shouted: "Go and eat napalm."

The students said they opposed "U.S. support to Fascist regimes." The Ghent performance Thursday night by the choir was given for the benefit of the overseas aid organization, Oxfam.

The 29-member U.S. Army choir from Hiedelberg, West Germany, under Capt. Elmer Christ, performed in five Belgian cities.

Boy Scouts Need Help On Tree

Douglas Sullivan, 8, of 508 Williams Drive, Petaluma, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital yesterday for scrapes suffered when he was struck by a car at 6:30 p.m. at Petaluma Boulevard North and West Street. Police lacked details of the accident.

Beer Kegs Taken

Two barrels of beer worth a total value of $37 were stolen between 5:30 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. yesterday from a fenced yard at Golden Gate Distributors, 1942 Fourth Street, San Rafael police reported today.

State Still Working On College Study

State junior college officials, studying the feasibility of a Novato campus for the College of Marin, told the college's trustees last night they would complete their report by May 4.

Weston Alt, a consultant to the chancellor of the California Community Colleges, told the trustees the study by the four-man study team would continue through this week.

TARGET DATE

"We have set May 4 as the target date for getting our report to you," Alt said. "We know how tight a deadline you are on."

The College of Marin hopes to construct a campus in Novato and have it open by 1974. To qualify for state funding, however, the study team from the chancellor's office must make a favorable report. It is that report that is in the making.

A major problem facing the college is the recent adoption of guidelines by state junior college officials which call for a campus to have a minimum student enrollment of 10,250.

The projection for the Novato campus is 5,000 students, about the same number at the Kentfield campus now.

WHAT'S AHEAD

If the study team's report is favorable, the college must then make a series of applications for state funding to help construct the Novato campus. College Supt.-President John A. Grasham told the board last night he was considering calling a special meeting as soon as the report is received so that the applications — should they be needed — can be filed immediately with the state.

The study team is also looking at the joint use of the Novato campus by the Sonoma Junior College District and will make a recommendation on that in the report, Grasham said.

Bronze Star To Petaluman

Bruce M. Cader of Petaluma, a former Marine, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for heroism in Vietnam.

Cader, who had been a lance corporal with the Fifth Marine Division, was honored for his actions during a battle last year in Quang Nam province when he kept the enemy pinned down with hand grenades after his other ammunition was depleted.

Cader also assisted in guiding medical helicopters to the area and in the loading of casualties.

A 1968 graduate of Petaluma Senior High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Cader, 1315 Ely Road.

Paper Artifacts

Paper artifacts of the California gold rush period compiled by Steven Cabella, a 16-year-old sophomore at Redwood High School who lives at 21 Cypress Avenue, Kentfield are on display at the Bon Air shopping center branch of Wells Fargo Bank during banking hours.

HAUNTED HOUSE COMES DOWN

The walls of the old Coleman School at the corner of Grand Avenue and Lincoln Lane in San Rafael began falling yesterday under the treads of a bulldozer. The building, which had housed the county library and other county offices for several years after it was closed as a school, had been used in recent years only for a haunted house tour on Halloween conducted by the Jolly Rogers Chapter of the Children's Home Society. Each year for the last six years, children were led through the house to catch glimpses of the ghosts, witches and elves who lived there. Where they've gone now, no one knows.

Stepped-Up Israeli Jet Canal Raids

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes attacked Egyptian targets across the Suez Canal Thursday night, raided guerrilla bases in the central Jordan Valley this morning, and struck across the canal again this afternoon, the Israeli military command reported.

Spokesmen said the planes flew a 20-minute raid across the waterway Thursday and a 1½-hour mission across it today. All returned safely, the spokesmen added.

The attacks in the Jordan Valley were east of Deir Alla, seven miles northeast of the Damiya Bridge over the Jordan River, and north of the ancient town of Salt, 13 miles northwest of Amman.

The Israelis said the targets were guerrilla bases. But a spokesman in Amman said the jets strafed plantations and a road killing five civilians and wounding three.

Jordanias antiaircraft fired at the planes but none was reported shot down.

The Israeli military command also reported that Syrian troops swept down on two cars carrying an Israeli family on a Passover outing in the occupied Golan Heights Thursday and opened up with sub machine-gun fire, killing a woman and her son-in-law and wounding five persons.

Israeli spokesmen said the attack was carried out by about 20 Syrian soldiers some 500 miles from the cease-fire line.

Alioto Unable To Lift Sewage Ban

SAN JOSE (AP) — Despite pleadings from San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board has refused to lift its ban on new construction in the city.

The board, meeting here Thursday said it will wait until May 15 to see if there has been a statistically significant reduction in the amount of sewage pollution San Francisco pours into the bay.

Alioto and the city's board of supervisors president, Dianne Feinstein, told the water board the city is moving on a "crash basis" to improve sewage treatment plants.

Fred Dierker, exectuive director of the water board, recommended against San Francisco's request saying "actual improvements or reduction in pollution have not been demonstrated."

The regional and state weter boards have prohibited new connections to sewer lines in two-thirds of the city. The boards ruled that discharges into the bay by sewage plants in the northeastern and southeastern sections violate antipollution standards.

Enforcement of the ban has been stayed for 30 days by a court order.

All Bay Area board members remained silent when board chairman William Weber called for a motion on Alioto's plea for lifting of the ban.

Threats of building bans in San Jose and the huge East Bay Municipal Utility District did not materialize.

The San Joes case was delayed until the board's May 28 meeting in Palo Alto after the city said it would require five hours for presentation.

East Bay MUD, which serves Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Albany and parts of Richmond and El Cerrito, was told it would not face the prospect of a building ban so long as it stayed on schedule in its treatment correction program.

Driver Indicted On Manslaughter

FRESNO (AP) — Richard C. Cornelius, 22, of Carmichael, was indicted on manslaughter charges Thursday stemming from a Yosemite National Park traffic accident that killed three members of a Merced family.

The federal grand jury issued the indictment in connection with the Feb. 28 deaths of Castle Air Force Base Col. James L. Walls, 41, his wife, Joy, 39, and their son, James, 11.

Park officials indicated the family was standing against a retaining wall near the Wawona tunnel when Cornelius' car came out of the tunnel and rammed into them.

LSD Party Leads To Damage Case

SANTA MONICA (AP) — A fashion model, saying an unscheduled "trip" on potato chips sprinkled with LSD caused her permanent mental and physical disabilities, is suing for $1 million damages.

Heidi Anders, 29, said in a suit filed Thursday in Superior Court that she was one of 27 persons who became ill at a "swinging singles" party after eating the chips without knowing the hallucinogenic drug had been sprinkled on them.

Her suit asks the $1 million in general damages plus medical expenses and loss of earnings. It was brought against the South Bay Club and 30 John Does, including the host and caterer. The party was held in the apartment house clubhouse April 15.

Phony Bonds Cost Brothers $20,000

Two elderly Petaluma brothers have been bilked of $20,000 in a racket that offers senior citizens phony treasury bonds at high interest rates on a tax free basis, police reported today.

Sgt. William Reed said that Robert P. Guglielmetti, 89, of 415 A Street and his brother, William J. Guglielmetti, 92, of 907 C Street, had each purchased $10,000 of the phony bonds.

William Guglielmetti became involved in the swindle when he answered an advertisement about the bonds in the Wall Street Journal. When the salesman, billed as a treasury agent, visited his home, his brother also purchased the bonds.

Reed said the men were given false certificates as receipts for their personal checks and were told that bonds would be processed and mailed to them.

At least one other Petaluman was approached by the salesman, but did not complete the purchase on the advice of his banker.

Reed said the salesman has also apparently been operating in San Francisco and that the two police departments are cooperating in the investigation as well as the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Secret Service.

Aerospace Aid For Students

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Disadvantaged students here can now train for an aerospace or aviation job while studying for their high school diplomas.

The Academy of Aerospace and Aviation—a joint venture of government, civic groups and industry—opened here with 42 students. They are taking courses in airframe and powerplant mechanics, electronics, passenger service or pilot training.

Upon completion of the required courses, students receive a high school diploma and an academy certificate recognized by participating aerospace and aviation firms in the area.

State Lifts Freeze On Funds For Bridge

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Funds to begin widening the Highway 101 bridge across Richardson Bay that were frozen last October to aid the Nixon administration's anti-inflation fight were released by the State Highway Commission yesterday.

A total of $1.6 million was alloted for the first year of the 18-month $4.3 million widening project that involves widening accesses to the bridge and building two additional lanes on the six lane bridge, according to the commission.

President Nixon, who had asked for a nationwide cut in public works spending last fall, recently informed the state that the anit-inflation maneuver had served its purpose so the state released the last $78.8 million of $126 million it had originally impounded.

The Southern Marin highway work was not delayed by the freeze, according to the State Division of Highways in San Francisco. The division had continued design studies in the interim.

The project, which will involve installation of 84 concrete pilings to add one lane to the bridge in each direction, is part of a program to make Highway 101 eight lanes from Spencer Avenue in Sausalito to Corte Madera.

Total value of the 39 projects given the go-ahead yesterday is nearly $220 million including state and federal funds. Bay Area projects will require $33 million.

UAW Eyes Wage Demands In Excess Of 8 Per Cent

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — United Auto Workers' wage demands on the auto industry this year will be well in excess of 8 per cent a year, Walter P. Reuther, the union's president, said today.

Just how much more was not specified by the UAW leader, who mentioned the figure while discussing another matter with delegates to the union convention.

"We expect to do a hell of a lot better than that for the buys in the shop," Reuther said, hinting for the first time about the — scope of what the union has been saying will be "substantial" wage demands of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler in July.

Reuther's comments came as the convention discussed the salaries of its officers and staff members. Pay raises for them of 8 per cent this year and 7 per cent next year have been proposed.

"If we don't do better than that, we are certainly going to have a strike," said Leonard Woodcock, a UAW vice president, referring to forthcoming negotiations with the Big Three automakers. Contracts expire Sept. 14.

Raises for union officers and staff were contingent on negotiating a wage pattern with one of the Big Three for the UAW's 750,000 rank-and-file auto workers.

Auto workers now average $4.02 an hour plus fringe benefits.

Base salaries now for UAW international representatives are $14,700. Officer salaries range downward form Reuther's $32,907.

One delegate complained that union officials' proposed raises, added to previous hikes, would exceed $3,000-a-year since the last UAW convention two years ago.

"You have your expense accounts, but I have three kids to feed," said the delegate, Ian MacEvan, who works in a Ford stamping plant in Bedford, Ohio.

It was at this point that Reuther and Woodcock said the expect to win much more for the workers over two years.

"I don't want any newspaperman or television commentator to take the eight per cent staff salary adjustment for 1970 and the seven per cent for 1971 and put them together and say that will be the framework of our bargaining with the auto industry," Reuther said.

"Our goal in 1970 and 1971 is not the sum of eight per cent plus seven per cent," Reuther said.

Earlier, the giant union went on record as accusing Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell of staging a campaign of repression against Americans who espouse unpopular causes.

Moonlight Cruise Boat Gets Stuck

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A moonlight cruise boat got stuck on a sandbar in a dense fog on the Potomac River Thursday night and 560 tourists spent the night aboard before the vessel was pulled free today.

The tourists, including 400 out-of-town students, were treated to free food from the snack bar and entertainment from a dance band that normally accompanies the Wilson Line moonlight cruises.

The boat, the George Washington, ran aground at about 11 p.m. EST as heavy fog closed in. It was pulled free by the Diplomat, another cruiser ship, after a tug boat failed to jery the boat loose. The Diplomat could not be sent out until this morning because of the fog.

Another Auto Agency Window Broken Out

A metal nut broke another showroom window at Ted Schuman Chevrolet at 7123 Redwood Highway, Novato, sometime between midnight and 1 a.m. today, police reported.

Owner Ted R. Schuman said today he had alerted police to watch his showroom after another dealer reported being threatened yesterday by San Francisco Typograp hical Union No. 21.

The dealer told Schuman his office had received the call threatening "bigger damage was coming" if the firm did not stop advertising in the Independent-Journal.

This is the fourth attack on Schuman Chevrolet, which has also been warned by the union to discontinue advertising in the I-J during the union's strike against the newspaper.

Injuries Minor

John E. Bennett, 22, of 45 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera, was treated at 10:25 p.m. yesterday at Marin General Hospital for bruises on the chest and back suffered in a traffic accident in San Francisco, the hospital reported. Details of the accident were not available.

Fouquet's Jury Asks For Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury recommended today that Ronald Fouquet, convicted of first-degree murder of his five year-old stepson, be sentenced to death in the gas chamber.

Judge Adolph Alexander scheduled formal sentencing for May 15.

The same Superior Court jury of eight men and four women convicted Fouquet, 31, last Monday in the death of Jeffery Lansdown following a three - week trial.

Poor Speech May Be A Trouble Sign

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—There's no need to worry about a todler's lisp. But do worry if it continues into the seventh or eighth year.

The lisp or other speech problems in childhood can signal real trouble ahead. Catch such trouble quickly.

"It would be unrealistic if we expected a child to be able to say the "S" sound before he was three or four," says John E. Bryant, an authority on speech defects. "This does not mean, however, that he cannot be helped to master all —or most —of the sounds of speech before he reaches seven and a half."

SPEECH DEVELOPS in various stages from the "early cries of discomfort caused by hunger, pain and wet diapers" until at about age two the child begins using speech to communicate. But there are problems which can interfere with normal speech development, says Bryant.

In such instances, parents should seek professional advice —"for the longer the speech disorder remains uncorrected, the more difficult it becomes to eradicate...

"Children...whose (speech) problems go uncorrected also face the possibility of doing poorly in school and of developing defensive behavior patterns that set them apart from other children their own age."

Bryant discusses speech problems in detail in a new publication from the Public Affairs Committee, a New York-based nonprofit educational organization. Bryant is director of Speech and Hearing Services at the Mid-Island Speech and Hearing Center, Commack, N. Y., and the publication is called "Helping Your Child Speak Correctly."

BRYANT SAYS that causes of speech disorders are numerous, but the major types come from organic (physical), functional, or psychological.

Under organic, he lists causes such as deafness or hearing problems, since a child learns to talk by listening to others, clefts of the palate, improper bite (malocclusion), brain injury, cerebral palsy, and deformities of the mouth, throat or larynx.

Functional causes could be poor health during the first two years of life, lack of motivation to learn, inadequate teaching, imitation of poor speech and immaturity.

Or, psychologically, a child may react with frustration to the unrealistic standards set by his parents, which can lead to delayed speech or to stuttering. The child of an overly protective parent "who anticipates his every need" may find it unnecessary to talk.

BRYANT CAUTIONS against "unrealistically high expectations" and assuming there's a speech problem when actually talking is only a matter of normal development. A teacher, a psychologist, or a speech therapist can help parents determine whether a child really does need therapy.

Parents can help in speech development—keeping in mind, says Bryant, that it should be done "in a friendly way, a little at a time." He suggests several games to develop vocabulary, like the sentence game in which the child is shown a picture and mamma says a rhymed couplet which the child finishes. For instance—a picture of a pig can be used with, "Here is a pig that is very...". The child finishes with "Big".

Bryant frowns on those who suggest a child will "outgrow" a speech disorder. "Unfortunately, if their children do have true speech problems, the chances are they will not...", he says.

Nixon Told To Act On Equality For Women

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — America faces "danger of accelerating militancy" from women if they are not granted equal rights, a task force has told President Nixon.

"American women are increasingly aware and restive over the denial of equal opportunity and equal responsibility, even equal protection of the law," the presidential panel said in a confidential report.

It said Nixon should be at least as concerned about sex discrimination as racial discrimination.

"Positive action," urged the 13-member Task Force on Women's Rights and Responsibilities, "would be a deterrent to the radical liberation movement preaching revolution."

The task force report was submitted last Dec. 15 and copies have been circulated within the administration.

Among other things, the report recommends an office of women's rights under the president, a White House conference on women's rights, and new legislation to remedy sex discrimination in education, social security, taxes, family assistance and employment.

It also urged that the President appoint more women to top government jobs and issue guidelines against sex discrimination in hiring by government contractors.

It recommended, as "our national goal," a system of well-run child care centers available to all preschool children. Lack of such centers was cited as the single most significant barrier to job training and employment of low income mothers.

Among discriminatory practices singled out by the report were exclusion of women by some state universities and some state laws governing marriage, guardianship, and property ownership.

Some states even provide longer prison terms for women and prohibit them from working as bartenders but not as lower-paid bar waitresses, the report noted.

The panel included two men —Vassar College President Alan Simpson and William C. Mercer, vice president of personnel relations for American Telephone and Telegraph Co. The task force chairman was Virginia R. Allen, former president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

A Tour Of Hillside Houses

Hillside homes will be featured at Wednesday's house tour, sponsored by the Fairhills Guild of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science. The homes of Messrs. and Mmes. Seymour Ellison, Kenneth Davis, John C. Thuma, Norman M. Green and Gregory S. Lyon, all in the Fairhills section of San Rafael, will be open between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

A fashion show and luncheon will be held at the Davis residence from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Members of the Mannequin League of Marin will model informally around the swimming pool, where handmade glazed ceramic vases, bowls and weed pots by Jay Widmer will be on display and for sale. Guild members will also sell succulents, which have been planted in abalone shells. Each room of the Davis home, built for entertaining, affords its own privacy.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Ellison have decorated their home for a young family's life, having two small children. In their daughter's bedroom, a French armoire is used as a toy closet, and the dresser is English Victorian, originally part of a formal dining set.

THE ELLISON'S have a double living room, one offering solitude and the other geared for the activity of a family.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory S. Lyon was built to blend with the natural formation of the hill. The blend has created a peaceful and harmonious effect. An unusual skylight, outstanding fireplace, brick floors and beautifully tiled counters are features of the home.

A collection of Latin and Central American items are displayed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman M. Green. The molas on the dining room wall, handmade in Panama, are of particular interest because of the intricate work, and their cheerful colors complement the home.

The unusually high entry hall in the John C. Thuma home leads the way to the elevated living areas of the home with an unusual swimming pool set between the hillside. The house is bordered by a redwood deck.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Son's First Female Interest Is A Rather Experienced Young Girl

DEAR HELEN:

Our son has been going steady with a girl for almost a year now. She is his first female interest, and I wish he might have found a less experienced one.

He brought home a box of notes she had been saving, evidently because she didn't want them where her mother might find them. I came across these letters while cleaning out the garage and couldn't resist reading one. Then I read them all — for they revealed she had had relations with three other boys when she was 13 and 14 years old. She's 15 now.

The more I read the madder I got. So I took them to her mother, who didn't seem too concerned. She said she'd rather her daughter dated our Bill than any other boy.

Next, I found out that she and Bill were using a friend's house-trailer. He didn't deny the affair, but was upset when we took away his car privileges. They both promised they would stop, but Bill got a note from her yesterday, and I fished it out of his wastepaper basket today. In it, she wanted to know if she was "too demanding." So I know they're still involved. His homework suffers because she calls him constantly.

He'll be starting college in the fall. We don't want him to lose out. We also realize we can't stop his seeing the girl if he wants to. What can we do?—WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

When a girl starts calling a boy constantly and becomes "too demanding," his parents can soon stop worrying. But the girl's folks had better start worrying before she ends up pregnant with nobody anxious to marry her or share the blame. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

I don't understand smokers. You'd think the warnings they get on all sides would have some effect, but not with my husband.

My pleas for his own life and health do no good. He's told me a dozen times he's thinking of quitting but he never takes the initial step. I realize breaking a habit is hard, but I don't understand why intelligent people (my husband is a Ph.D. candidate in science) refuse to respect these warnings.

I have resigned myself to the fact that he will probably die earlier than he should, especially since there is a history of lung disease in his family. My complaint now is the plight of the nonsmoker: Me.

I have asthma. It's impossible for me to breathe when there is too much smoke in the room. In our two years of marriage, my husband still hasn't realized what he is doing to me. He even insists on smoking in bed while he reads — and I wheeze for breath.

He's not a sadist. In all other respects he's kind, loving and considerate man. Yet he has let cigarettes rule his life.

If smoking damages the lungs of smokers, it must certainly pollute the air and hurt innocent bystanders. My one message to these smokers: If you insist on continuing a habit that will surely cut years off your life, make sure it is just suicide, not homicide. Don't kill your loved ones just because you can't lick a nasty habit. — SMOKER'S FUTURE WIDOW

PERSONAL TO "HUSBAND OF A SAVER": It's been said that junk is something you keep for ten years and then throw away two days before you need it. Your wife could have worse habits — like buying worthless "antiques" instead of saving them.—H.

ON BEING BLACK

'When White Kids Call You Nigger'

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"You've never been called a nigger?" The black woman's eyebrows raised. "How then can you write about being black?"

"It's true," I answered. "To my face, I've never been called a nigger."

"Then you don't know what it's like to be 7 years old and run home crying because some white kids called you a nigger?"

"NO, BUT I do know what it's like to be 7 years old and go to a swimming pool with white peers and read a huge sign in bold, black letters: "We reserve the right to refuse admittance to any person we deem unfitting for this establishment' and have to go to the bathroom and vomit because I knew they were referring to me.

"Had I been in the South, I would have gone to a colored pool in the first place (there were no colored pools in my Northern city), and had I been immediately recognizable as being a black they would have asked me to leave from the git-go. I had seen it happen to others. They didn't know that I was black, but I did. So, instead of having an afternoon of swimming fun, I spent an afternoon frozen with fear, terrified that I would be detected. The stimulus was different, but I assure you the pain's the same."

The black experience is an individual thing for each person who undergoes it. Though the end result—the pain of being black in a white-racist society—is the same, we are products of the varied experiences which together make up the black experience:

Southern blacks and Northern blacks have had different types of conditioning. In the South, there is no attempt to hide racist attitudes and tactics toward blacks. In the North, many of the same views are just carefully veiled.

IN EASTERN cities, black communities have expanded vertically—multi-story tenement houses and 20-story housing projects. In the West (where it's the best), the ghettos have expanded horizontally — with street after street of small, tired houses and two-story housing projects.

Rural blacks basically have the same problems and frustrations as their urban counterparts but have coped with them differently.

A black person's schooling—segregated or integrated—and social expereinces and the degree to which he has been victimized by these experiences make up his black experience.

Monied blacks are comparatively rare, but their experiences and fears have been different from the poor blacks who must rely on welfare and cannot act upon that "flight impulse" — the wish to leave the ghetto and all its misery. Lack of mobility is an overwhelming frustration.

Color differences have caused us to view one another—and whites to view us—in varying lights. The "old guard," Southern Creole's experiences are not like those of a similarly hued black in the North.

EDUCATIONAL DIFFERENCES have caused some of us to become more aware of and able to deal intelligently with the rapidly changing times than our less-educated brothers.

And, of course, the male-female experiences differ greatly. Our society places great stock in the already established roles for men and women. Black men and women have been unable to exercise themselves in the existing rolls for reasons which are now obvious. The fact that the white society has generally directed greater hostility and fear toward the black male than the black female has also tempered our experiences.

So, being black for Sandra Haggerty is, of course, different, yet somehow the same, from being black for Cleotis Jones. The important thing is that, once having examined the black experience, we support reforms which will henceforth and evermore spare 7-year-olds from the pain of racism.

ACT Benefit To Be Held Thursday At The Palace Of Fine Arts

Many Marin women are helping with a Bay Area benefit for the American Conservatory Theatre to be held Tuesday at the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco. Mrs. Adolph Mueller II of Belvedere is chairman of "Get Into The Act", including a potpourri of entertainment, fish and chips, cocktails and dancing.

Hostesses from Marin are Mmes. Charles Eberlee, Roland Gotti, Lynn Bergeron and Thomas Drohan. Marin publicity chairman is Mrs. Burton Stitt.

A potpourri of entertainment is planned including Virginia Ness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ness of Belvedere and a student at American Conservatory Theatre, who will appear with the "Madrigals" folk singers.

TO FINANCE their trip to Sacramento to see government in action, the eighth graders of St. Hilary's School in Tiburon are baking for a sale of bakery goods from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday at St. Hilary's Church. They will be assisted by the Parent-Teacher Group.

MRS. DOROTHY G. Krieger will be installed president of the Novato Business and Professional Women's Club at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Black Point Inn in Novato.

Mrs. Betty Davis of the Redwood Empire District will be the installing officer.

Officers to be installed with Mrs. Krieger are Mmes. Dorothy P. Young, first vice president; Penny Kane, second vice president; Beverly Alberigi, recording secretary; Gertrude Picchi, corresponding secretary; Florence Elijah, treasurer; and Ruth Craig, parliamentarian.

SUNDAY THE Marin and San Francisco Shrine Clubs will present a brunch and fashion show at 10 a.m. at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Marin reservations chairman is H.B. Hennessy of Fairfax, and decorations chairmen are Messrs. and Mmes. Charles White and Charles Guilder. Mmes. John Lalor and Jay Jones will provide table decorations, and Henry Warner will be commentator during the fashion show.

Jennifer Enos, 12, received a a silver medal for her first place essay on the topic "Your Land and Mine." The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Enos, she is a sixth grade pupil of Mrs. Kathleen Lloyd of Marin Terrace School.

Marie Haxton, 11, received a bronze medal for second place. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Haxton, she is a sixth grade pupil of William Castelli at Park School.

Jenifer Sherman, 11, received a certificate of merit for third place. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman, she is also a pupil of Mrs. Lloyd at Marin Terrace.

The first place essay has been sent on to compete with essays from other counties for further awards, according to Americanism chairman Mrs. Maurice Angland.

CAMP FIRE Girls of Marin will hold the only registration for summer day camps Monday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Marin Co-Op Food Store, 71 Tamal Vista Blvd., Corte Madera.

Day camps will be held at Alice Eastwood on June 22 to 26 and Lagunitas on June 22 to 31 for girls in third through sixth grades. A day camp for girls in seventh and eighth grades will be held at Kirby Cove on July 20 to 24.

Training sessions for camp counselors will be held at Phoenix Lake on June 2, Alice Eastwood on June 3 and Lagunitas on June 4.

NEXT SPEAKER in the Delta Delta Delta lecture series for collegiates and alumnae will be Margaret Lucas, who will attend a dinner meeting at the chapter house in Berkeley on Monday.

Miss Lucas, recently appointed assistant to the manager of employee relations at Bechtel Corporation, will discuss career opportunities. She is a past president of the Bay Area Association of Personnel Women and past president of the International Association of Personnel Women.

The program follows dinner at 5:30 p.m. Tri Delta Alumnae who wish to attend may contact the chapter house.

Miss Lucas, a former resident of Tiburon, was a member of the Personnel Commission of Marin for 10 years and chairman for two years.

Mrs. Dean Solinsky of Kentfield is Marin reservations chairman.

MARIN COUNTY Legal Secretaries Association passed a resolution to apply their $100 Special Project Fund for the fiscal year May 1969 to May 1970 to the San Francisco Lighthouse for the Blind — Enchanted Hills Camp for the specific purpose of sending a blind child from Marin County to the two week camp period starting June 21.

MRS. ANDREW Haxton of Mill Valley has been presented with an honorary service award by the Park School Parent-Teacher Association in Mill Valley. This means that $25 will be given in her name to the state P-TA scholarship and loan fund.

Mrs. Haxton, who received the award for "outstanding service to children and youth," has five children ranging in age from 6 to 13 who attend Park and Edna Maguire Schools.

A past president of the Park P-TA, she is chairman this year for multi-ethnic studies for that unit. At Edna Maguire School she serves on the scholarship committee which presents a talent show fund-raiser for music scholarships.

She has been an assistant Girl Scout leader and is a member of the nominating and referral committee of the Richardson Bay Girl Scout Association. She also teaches kindergarten at Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera and is chairman of the church's stewardship committee.

THE CORONA Club of Petaluma held an installation ceremony for newly elected officers recently during a potluck luncheon held at the clubhouse. Officers are Mrs. John Lundstrom, president; Pearl Brown, vice president; Florence Skoog, secretary; Mrs. Jack Corry, treasurer; and Mrs. Elwood Welch, pianist. Mrs. L. F. Bryan will be the sunshine girl.

DURING ITS annual Bosses Night, members of the Marin County Chapter of the National Association of Women in Construction presented their annual scholarship to College of Marin. Joe Berruezo, dean of vocational and technical education, accepted on behalf of the college.

NEW BOARD officers for the Volunteer Bureau of Marin are Mrs. R.M.D. Childs, president; Mrs. William Simmons, first vice president; Mr. John W. Rosenberg, second vice president; Mrs. John Busterud, secretary; and Mrs. Richard Jessup, treasurer.

New members of the board are Mrs. Rodgers Dockstader, Mrs. Mary LaVassaur, Dr. Edward Maxwell, Mr. H. Leonard Richardson, Mr. Bart Sarjeant, Mrs. Bruce Stilson, and Mrs. Barbara Vorhees. New associate directors are Mr. J.J. Shinohara and Dr. Leo A. Wagner.

MRS. ANTHONY Bottini of San Rafael was elected grand protector of the Pythian Sisters State of California at the annual convention held in Fresno last week.

Mrs. Bottini is serving as most excellent chief of Tamalpais Temple 129 of San Rafael.

Mrs. Nadine Green of Petaluma was elected grand chief of the Pythian Sisters State of California. Others attending the convention from Tamalpais Temple were Mmes. Joe Whiteley of San Anselmo, Harry Simpson, Georgia Cole and R. Keith Dearth of San Rafael.

MARIN GENERAL Hospital Volunteers who received 100 hour service pins last month are Misses Jeannie Lazio, Sandie Kawamoto, Diane Pizzio, Polly Edmonds and Jean Marco and Mmes. Harold Morgan, W.R. Bogenrief and Doris Martini.

Mmes. Henri Boussey and Struker Warren and Miss Karen Ciocco received 200 hour pins, and 300 hour pins were presented to Mmes Milton D. Krueger, Robert Sockolov and Joseph Homer and Miss Karen Fiske.

Four hundred hour pins were presented to Mmes. C. James Finn, Robert Nelson and William Hynes and Misses Emily Homer and Ida Jorgensen, and Mmes. Stephen Kramer, Nicholas Soloski and Tom Zink received 500 hour pins.

Pins for 600 hours were given to Mmes. Harold R. Arthur, Stanyan Buckingham, George Schocket; Albert Mac Carthy, 700 hours; Dunya Chernenko and Everett Witzel, 900 hours; Robert England, 1,000 hours; and Raymond Little, 1,500 hours.

Small Onion

Small onions are best for boiling whole, stewing or creaming—medium ones for serving stuffed, and larger ones for thick slices to top off hamburgers and for fried onion rings. All sizes of onions are equally good for grating, chopping, dicing or slicing.

PRINT PICTURE

Prints for spring are small with floral geometric, Oriental or art deco designs with all-over repeats. College-Town expresses the print mood in a dress of triacetate with puffed sleeves, a short, flippy skirt and long, body-clinging torso.

Hardy Amies Hails Drop Of The Hemline

LONDON (AP) — Hardy Amies, dressmaker to the queen and England's most successful high fashion designer, today hailed the drop of the hemline as good news that will liberate designers hung up on the mini.

"All designers have felt the total restriction of the short skirt," he said in an interview. "It inhibited the line of a costume. I never liked the mini, but had to adjust to it.

"Now the long skirt is definitely here. Our smartest customers are ordering them."

IN HIS LAST collection of spring and summer styles, shown here in January, Amies made about a third of the skirts midi length top of the calf and the rest just knee length.

Besides his couture and boutique womens' wear in England, the designer is one of the big three in menswear in America, where he has a $5 million dollar annual turnover.

Amies went into menswear in America in 1960. His suits sell for $150 to $175. He may soon add women's wear to the American line, he said.

"The basic reason for our success in menswear is that we really concentrate on the suit; we were the first to do the long jacket and the flared trousers. We have brought movement to the suit."

AMIES ESTIMATES that he makes about half the queen's clothes. Of her inclusion on Blackwell's list of the 10 worst dressed women, he remarked: "Obviously Blackwell—and anybody else who criticizes the queen's dress—has absolutely no idea what she expects from her clothes.

"Being the best-dressed woman in the world is a full-time job. The queen has another job; she is very busy, and we go on the assumption that we should try to make her life easy. I think the queen has no desire to be on a best-dressed list.

"She is a typical couture customer. She hasn't a standard figure. We use cuts from the collection for her, because we don't want to experiment on her. But we have to do it so she is never confronted with a woman wearing the same dress as hers.

"That's never happened; certainly not with our clothes. She has started to buy from the boutique, but more for her private life."

House Tour

chairman of the tour, and committee members are Mmes. Jack Jannes, invitations and printing; John C. Thuma, sponsors; John LaNoue, refreshments and luncheon; Richard W. Creighton, hostesses; Cranford Newell, decorations; and Jason Widmer, patio pots and plants.

Reservations chairman is Mrs. J. G. Miles. Reservations must be made in advance, and those going on the tour may start at any of the homes. Proceeds will be used by the Fairhills Guild to aid the Boyd Marin Museum of Science in its educational and expansion programs.

Floaty Fabrics

Fabrics in the new crop of bridal gowns include floaty types — fragile silk laces, chiffons, voiles, organdy and lightweight linen. Silk taffeta also is in the running and looks especially attractive in heirloom lace.

J. B. Burkes Celebrate 50th Year

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Burke of Petaluma was observed recently at a reception hosted by their children and held at the Petaluma Woman's Club. The hall was decorated with flowers arranged by Mrs. Melvin Hein and Mrs. Joseph Cardoza, family friends, with a special arrangement in the hall by Mrs. William Simi Jr., a niece of Mrs. Burke's.

Married in Santa Rosa, the Burkes have lived in Petaluma since 1936.

Honoring their parents were daughters, Mmes. Irene Harrell, Clifford Thiel, Jerold Hall, Leo Coonradt, and a son, James Burke Jr., all of Petaluma. Mrs. Robert Pereira, a daughter from Anchorage, Alaska, flew to Petaluma for the occasion. Another out-of-town guest was a granddaughter, Mrs. Daniel Newell, who flew from Germany for the party.

A foster daughter, Mrs. James Edwards of Bijou, Lake Tahoe, also attended.

Retired since 1962, Mr. Burke was with the California State Highway Department for 30 years.

Bank Bandit Slain After Killing Officer

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A bandit who fatally shot a security guard and an off-duty policeman Thursday following a bank robbery was shot and killed by other officers as he hid under a trailer about half a mile from the bank.

Police said the holdup man, Charles H. Mack, 32, entered the Security Pacific Bank branch in south central Los Angeles carrying a black satchel and demanded money at the point of a .38 caliber revolver.

A teller handed over $1,600 and the man began to leave out a door where George MacMullen, 50, a security guard was standing.

Without warning, the holdup man shot MacMullen, who fell to the floor with his revolver still holstered.

At this point, police said, Mack ran into the bank's parking lot where off-duty officer Earl Riddick, 30, observed the suspect and drew his gun. He was shot before he got it out of the holster.

Mack jumped into a 1968 Pontiac, which police said he stole earlier, and sped away. Riddick managed to shoot through the back window of the vehicle wounding Mack.

The shattered rear window of the car attracted the attention of motorcycle officers C.E. Tague and F.T. Albert.

The occifers took up the chase and Mack made a screaming turn, bounced off a curb and jumped from his car and fled on foot.

Authorities said Mack ducked into a backyard, reloaded his pistol and then crawled beneath the trailer.

A woman saw him and told police. Officers closed in and killed the suspect with a burst of more than 20 shots.

The case containing the money was found nearby.

Riddick, a policeman since May, 1968, died later at a hospital. MacMullen was dead at the scene.

New License Hours Are Set

Drivers applying for new licenses this year have been advised by the state Department of Motor Vehicles to apply during the morning hours on Tuesdays, Wednesday, or Thursdays.

According to Orin J. Riley, manager at the department's Corte Madera office, 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. is also a slow period, since the public habitually crowds the office late in the afternoon.

He added the local office is processing about 250 applications a day, which is about a 40 per cent increase over last year.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

A Personal Look At Network 'Crisis'

By BOB DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — We take you today to the private penthouse office of the XYZ television network in New York. Two executives sit facing each other across a desk, sipping bromides, their collars askew, cold compresses on their heads. They speak:

"Did you check the company astrologer?"

"Yes. He says that according to the third cycle of the moon, by way of Taurus, out of Sagittarius, we should have as good a year as the stock market."

"All right. Let's get it over with. What's on the agenda?"

"Well, everybody's talking about television cassettes."

BEFORE LUNCH?

"Did you have to mention that before lunch?"

"Anyway, we're in on that. But then, of course, there's the pay-TV thing."

"What did the astrologer say?"

"He says it's a good year to lock the front door, pull down the shades and stay indoors. But if we're smart, we can get in on the pay-TV too."

"Of course we will. But in the meantime, stall."

"Okay. But now, there's also the cigarette advertising we'll lose after Jan. 1."

"I know. I know. Those anti-smoking commercials didn't help. Sometimes I hate commedcials."

FCC's PLAN

"Now, what do we do about hte FCC's attempt to take a half hour or prime time away from the networks each night?"

"Nothing. It just looks bad. Wait till they see what the local stations and syndication fill up those half hours with. In a year, the FCC will be begging us to take the time back."

"Someone apparently thinks the local and syndicated shows will be more cultural and less commercial."

"If it didn't hurt so much, I'd laugh. But I can't."

"All right. What do we do about Agnew?"

"Be brave. He's got good connections."

"And the movement for minority employment?"

"For heaven's sake, we're trying. We're trying."

"What about that statement from Armsrtong Cork Co. that it's dropping Tv advertising because of 'childish programming'?"

TWO ASTROLOGERS

"Maybe we should have two astrologers."

"And how about Dean Burch's FCC speech criticizing the lack of enough children's programming?"

"Are you sure Tommy Smothers isn't behind this whole thing?"

"There's also that group—Action for Children's Television (ACT)—that asked the FCC to ban commercials on all kids' shows."

'I don't even want to talk about it."

"And the critics keep needling us about all our nature documentaries when so many other things are happening."

"Off the record, I agree with them. But ratings are ratings."

"Well, anyway, I see we had record profits again in 1969."

"My, my. What a great big surprise? Imagine that."

"But what about the move to restrict our station ownership?"

"That does it. Fire the astrologer. Get me F. Lee Bailey. Let the sunshine in."

Heyerdahl Plans New Ra Voyage

OLSO (AP) — Norwegian explorer Thor Heyerdahl will make a new attempt to cross the Atlantic from Africa to America in a papyrus boat, it was reported Friday.

The Oslo newspaper Aftenposten said he would start from Safi, Morocco, early in May with a seven-man international crew aboard the Ra 2.

Heyerdahl, 55, was forced to give up his attempt to cross the Atlantic with the first Ra last summer.

The Ra 2 was built in secrecy at Safi by four Indians from the Titicaca lake area of Peru under supervision of Mexican anthropologist Santiago Genoves, the paper said.

Big Jump In Jobless Checks

Unemployment insurance payments from its San Rafael office jumped almost $140,000 over the March disbursal, last year, the state Department of Employment announced yesterday.

A total of $258,710 was paid out last March, but the figure leaped to $395,782 this March, according to the department.

Payments in California for March of this year exceeded $58 million as opposed to only $43.5 million last March.

$99,792 Grant For Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of the presence of President Nixon's Western White House, the police force of San Clemente, Calif., has been awarded a $99,792 government grant to meet new duties.

Atty. Gen. JOhn N. Mitchell said Thrusday the money will finance training, equpment and salaries to enable the 34 man police department to meet increased responsibilities.

MUSIC REVIEW

A New, Bland Lesson In Nation's History

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO—Last season, Civic Light Opera Association patrons were offered a look at Columbus before he sailed off to the new world in "1491."

However, despite all of its Broadway honors, "1776," didn't really light the stage with electric sparks last night. It's rather bland despite a few exciting numbers, excellent settings and above par performances from a well-balanced cast.

At least in this musical the characters are not hard to remember. There's the rabble rousing John Adams, the wise and sometimes salty Benjamin Franklin, the aristocratic Edward Rutledge of South Virginia, the young Thomas Jefferson and the lively Richard Henry Lee, also of Virginia, who offered the evening's only real show stopper.

"The Lees of Old Virginia," Gary Oakes bolts across the stage like a young stallion with some dandy lyrics. However, it was a long wait before any other really exciting music. Near the show's end Jack Blackton as Rutledge raises the show's score a notch or two again with the telling "Molasses To Rum," which pinpoints the wide split that divided the Continental Congress.

Save for the haunting "Momma Look Sharp," a young army courier's account of young men going off to fight for Gen. George Washington (done expertly by Ty McConnell), there was nothing really much more to get excited about.

Thanks to Rex Everhart as Franklin, Patrick Bedford as the protagonist, and Jon Cypher as Jefferson and Andrew McNair as the Congressional custodian, the dialogue is witty and often times sparkling.

Bedford, however, seemed to have had some vocal trouble last night with his practically non-lyrical voice.

It is interesting to note here that without a name star, the cast is generally excellent. George Hearn as John Dickinson, the dreamer from Pennsylvania that all will be healed with Mother England, pinpoints this rather well.

As much as anything else the setting by Jo Mielziner help to keep the show interesting. He has used a slanting stage with shifting side wings to transfer the action from the chamber room to the courtyard. It's most effective. Without it, the two-and-a-half hour musical, which runs seven scenes without an intermission, could have been a lot longer.

But somehow the music and lyrics of Sherman Edwards are just not dynamic enough to hold the whole evening together, even though Peter Stone's book offers many more opportunities.

The musical continues at the Curran for the next six weeks.

KATHY ANN MATTERI
Dairy princess candidate

Co-Ed Seeks A Crown In Petaluma

Kathy Ann Matteri, 17, a senior at St. Vincent High School, Petaluma, will be a contestant in the May 9 district dairy princess contest at the Petaluma Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

Miss Matteri plans to attend Santa Rosa Junior College with a major in liberal arts. She has been a member of the Old Adobe 4-H Club for six years and has exhibited clothing, cooking and home furnishing projects at area fairs.

In school she served as secretary of the Junior Activity Council and is a member of the National Honor Society, French Club, Girls Athletic Association, Junior Achievement and taught Catholic Catechism at St. James Parish for one year.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Matteri, 4091 Lakeville Highway, Petaluma. Her father is employed by the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery.

The winner of the district contest will represent the six county district at the state competition June 23-25 in Hollywood. Candidates may be from Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Lake, Mendocino and Solano counties.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and from Parents Magazine. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Goodbye, Mr. Chips" — Beautifully staged musical version of James Hilton's novel about a lonely schoolmaster who falls in love with a music hall star and her influence on the students and the professor.

"King of Grizzlies" — Exciting biography of cub to king of his domain. Adventure film, marvelously photographed in Canadian Rockies has appeal for whole family.

"Oliver" — Great, big, overlong musical made from the show, which was made from the Dickens' classic. Delightful version, although there are some scary moments for the very young children.

"Run Wild, Run Free" — A simple moving quietly told story about an ill child and the curative power of nature and love is so convincingly acted it becomes an emotional experience.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Anne of the 1000 Days" — Magnificently staged and cast, historical drama of lust and political intrigue which encompasses the courtship, marriage, trial and beheading of Ann Boleyn. An elegant pageant presented with new perspective.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — Deft comedy about two charming bandits whose exploits made headlines in early 1900s. Delightful scenery, witty script and memorable performances.

"Cactus Flower" — Middleaged playboy dentist drafts his nurse to masquerade as his estranged wife and rescue him from a complicated situation with his current mistress.

"Five Million Years to Earth" — Fantastic science fiction tale about giant insects from Mars. Since Satan is in command the destruction on earth is far reaching. Acting is convincing, special effects excellent.

"Hell in the Pacific" — An absorbing World War II drama with a cast of just two fine actors. Story of their struggle for survival on an uninhabited island is handled with taste and sensitivity, photography is beautiful.

"Jenny" — A marriage of convenience of an unwed pregnant girl and a man trying to evade the draft form plot for this very frank, off beat love story. Handled with light and tasteful touch.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Alice's Restaurant" — Thought provoking, true story. Folk singer Arlo Gutherie described a commune that welcomes the wandering hippies who sing, dance, make love and smoke pot in an uncommitted life that is both sad and funny. Some of the language and actions are in poor taste.

"Boston Strangler" — Investigation leading to the arrest of a psychopath suspected of the mutilation and murder of 13 women in Boston in 1962. Grim subject treated with style and restraint, excellent performances by cast.

"They Shoot Horses Don't They?" — Dance marathons of depression years are vividly recreated in this powerful unusual drama in a study of humanity that is symbolic of life's struggles. Ending is macabre and shocking.

ADULTS ONLY

"Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice" — An irreverent social satire, slick in its trimmings, has a sharp bite in its characters, dialogue and frank appraisal of modern marriage and morals.

"Kremlin Letter" — Excellent cast and performances wasted on this confusing cynical spy melodrama and its unsavory practitioners. Melange of murder, sadistic violence, dope and sex.

"MASH" — Title stands for Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. Antiwar film deals with three Army surgeons who have developed an outlandish life style in order to survive the gore and horror that they live through. Scenes are gruesome as they are funny. Bittersweet element of truth in action and dialogue. Strong stomach is recommended.

"Midnight Cowboy" — Offbeat, hardhitting story of a male prostitute and a crippled hustler who meet in New York. Sordidness is tempered by skill and compassion, told in an uncompromising way.

Hearing Set For Ranch Hands On Beating Charges

A preliminary hearing has been set for May 19 in Marin Municipal Court for two Sacramento ranch hands who are charged with the beating on March 29 of Novato man who operates the Atherton Stables.

Both Pierre Jon Hall, 30, and James Marquis Jr., 37, appeared in court yesterday suffering from bullet wounds. Hall has a cast on his hand and Marquis is on crutches and was just released from Sacramento hospital where he has been treated for a wound in his knee.

They are charged with feloniously assaulting Dallas Wyatt, 36, as well as entering his property with intent to commit a felony. Wyatt told sheriff's deputies that he feigned unconsciousness after the beating but ran to his house and got a gun and shot at the two men as they departed.

Marquis and Hall were arrested after Sonoma County officials said they asked for aid for bullet wounds there.

Wyatt has charged in a civil suit in which he asks over $500,000 damages that the men were employed by another Novato man, Daniel Sedgwick, to beat him. Wyatt has a sublease on the Atherton tSables property from Sedgwick, who runs the Novato Thoroughbred Farms.

Motorcycle Stolen

An inoperable purple 1968 Victor 441 motorcycle with license 984055 owned by Charles T. Sawyer was stolen sometime after 9 p.m. Wednesday from the owner's carport at 12 Laurel Place, San Rafael police reported today.

Marinite Due Center Book Honor

I-J SPecial Report

OKLAHOMA CITY — A Tiburon man will receive the "Wrangler" trophy of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center for the best non-fiction western book of 1969 tonight.

Merrill J. Mattes of 35 Andrew Drive won the award for "The Great Platte River Road," published by the Nebraska State Historical Society. It treats the great covered wagon migrations westward from 1841 to 1866 on the trail the book took its name from. The author gleaned his information from more than 700 diaries over a 30-year period.

Mattes, who is now in charge of the National Park Service historic and archaeological research and historic preservation projects west of the Mississippi River, has been a member of the Nebraska State Historical Society and en employee of the National Park Service for 35 years.

In 1958 he was named Nebraska's civil servant of the year and in 1959 received the Department of the Interior distinguished service award.

Only 95 Cases Of Eye Damage

NEW YORK (AP) — The major eclipse of the sun last March 7 failed to produce the epidemic of eye damage the experts had feared, according to a survey by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

But the survey turned up a relatively and unexplained, number of cases in California, where the eclipse was only partially visible. Most states had two to four cases but California had 18.

The nationwide survey of eye specialists and hospital emergency rooms found 95 cases of eye damage from looking at the sun, not all permanent. This compares to the 247 cases found after a 1963 eclipse in a far less comprehensive survey.

A spokesman for the society said the relatively low number of cases this time appeared to be the result of widespread publication of warnings of the dangers.

Shotgun Killers Take Life Of Hotel Official

BERKELEY (AP) — Malcolm Macgregor, banquet manager for the Sir Francis Drake hotel in San Francisco, was shot and killed early today as he sat in a car near his Berkeley home.

Police said Thrond Medbrod, 46, manager of the hotel's Starlite Roof, who also was in the car, was not hit by the shotgun blast.

Officers said Medbrod reported that three men drove up on the quiet North Berkeley street and one told Macgregor, "We're going to shoot you."

The man then shot Macgregor in the head. He died three hours later at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Medbrod was treated for severe shock.

Forgery Case Plea Set Today

Salvatore Santos Gosman, 33, of 430 Canal Street, San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on two felony counts of check forgery.

Gosman is accused of cashing checks belong to a Tiburon woman in a Mill Valley bank on Saturday and Monday.

Sailboat Stolen

An eight-foot El Toro sailboat and a rudder and centerboard valued at a total of $330 were stolen between 4 p.m. April 11 and 2 p.m. April 19 from the Sausalito Yacht Club, police reported today. The boat belonged to Bruce Easom, of 241 Santa Margarita Drive, San Rafael.

Small Car Stolen

A beige 1968 Porsche, license WKG 120, belonging to Manfred H. Pohl, 1 Cloudview Trail, Sausalito, was stolen from its parking place at Spencer and Alta avenues between 1 a.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday, Sausalito police reported today.

Marin Dining And Wining

Tiburon Steals Limelight In Restaurant News This Week

Tiburon appears to provide the lion's share of restaurant news this week — starting off with an entirely new entertainment program featured at the Dock.

Jerry Miller, who has taken over the management here while Eamon O'Malley renews his acquaintance with the Old Sod, has brought in two young men from Denver, Jim Carter and Dale Jared, for Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. And instead of relegating them to the cocktail lounge he has plopped them down on a platform in the main dining room where they can be both seen and heard.

For the benefit of early diners who may prefer quiet during the soup, salad and entree, Jim and Dale do not go on until 10:30 Fridays and Saturdays and at 7 p.m. on Sundays. And if you prefer a table some distance removed from the music this can also be arranged.

In any event, the performance of Jim and Dale is not a noisy one. They are guitarists and their instruments are amplified only over the regular microphones, without special boosting devices in their innards. Most of the selections they sing and play are their own folk compositions in the present day plaintive mood which has become so popular. They are talented, natural musicians, read little or no written music — but have already turned out one United Artists album. You should enjoy them.

Food at the Dock I have always found up to high standards of quality and service. The menu is calculated to offer something here for a variety of tastes without developing into a major problem of what should be ordered.

Bar manager Eddie Hill is a gracious and capable host in the beverage department and is a Dock fixture — he has been here since the place was opened nine years ago.

TIBURON CHAMPAGNE DINNER CRUISES from Fisherman's Wharf, San Francisco are slated to begin for the 1970 season next Thursday aboard the sightseeing boat Harbor Emperor. First departure from San Francisco is 6:30 p.m. and the second is at 7:45 p.m. The $8.75 per person includes the round trip boat ride with a champagne party including dancing and music aboard and dinner at any one of these six Tiburon restaurants: The Dock, El Borro, Sam's Anchor Cafe, Tiburon Lodge, Tiburon Tommie's Mai Tai or the Windjammer.

Lunch cruises on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays start May 29. Free brochures and more information are available from Dinner Cruise, 1714 Stockton Street, San Francisco.

I AM PLEASED TO LEARN that George Will, who suddenly disappeared from the restaurant scene last December when he was at the Blue Rock Inn at Larkspur, has turned up as new chef at Tiburon Lodge.

It seems George was stricken with pneumonia and had a tough siege of several months before regaining his ability to work. He is making some menu changes at Tiburon Lodge and has already set up new lunch specials whereby a different nationally is represented each day of the week. Monday is German, Tuesday Italian, Wednesday Mexican, Thursday Irish, Friday Indonesian, Saturday French and Sunday plain American with good old chicken and dumplings.

I would guess that George is quite capable of turning out appetizing representative dishes in each case, since he has been cooking more than 40 years.

He started out in the kitchen of an orphanage in Illinois at the age of 8, where he spent five years feeding 1,600 children and adults. He trained at the famous old Oyster Bar and later was apprenticed at the Waldorf Astoria in New York. Since then he has cheffed at many "name" restaurants and boasts membership in the Chefs de Cuisine, Societe Les Amis de Escoffier and the Professional Chefs Association of America.

OWNERS Andre Marquer and Michel Braud of the Normandie on the San Rafael Miracle Mile have dolled up this restaurant's outside patio in the rear for both lunch and dinner in balmy weather. A more picturesque setting has been achieved with ivy and other plants and a fountain.

The Marseilles bouillabaise is still a favorite item on the French menu Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays — and if you want to try another, order the quenelle de piossons Lyonnaise.

I am embarrassed to admit that I left this place out of last week's list of restaurants offering service on Mondays.

In fact, I omitted two —the Normandie and also the Grotto in downtown San Rafael. If you should find me on this subject again next week it will be because still another restaurant is heard from.

FRED CHERRY'S California Night at Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo at 7:30 features winemaker Joseph Concannon and his wines and family recipes.

A short tasting of dry appetizer wines will precede the dinner, followed by a multi-course banquet with appropriate wines for each dish. Winemaker Concannon will discuss the wines served and answer questions about his methods of winemaking.

Tickets for the full evening remain at $10. After a full house has been sold seating will be cut off. Reservations are required and can be made by calling the restaurant.

THE GOLD NUGGET SPECIALTY HOUSE on the San Rafael Miracle Mile has expanded its menu to include salads, fountain orders, several seafoods, steaks and steak sandwiches and other broiler items.

Listed in our last Dining and Wining Guide simply as House, due to a typographical first line omission, the Gold Nugget fortunately seems to have weathered the contraction. In fact the listing House stirred up some curiosity — and mail has even been addressed that way and delivered without delay.

WOODY AND TOMASINA WILSON will celebrate completion of their first year at Forest Knolls Lodge tomorrow night with an anniversary buffet party.

And you will find live music here every Sunday from 4 to 8 p.m. Usually a piano entertainer.

Did you ever wonder what became of that painting of Pandora and her box of evil gremlins that once adorned the back wall of the former Pandora restaurant in San Anselmo? Forest Knolls Lodge has it —behind the bar.

Hours here are from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. daily. No regular food service yet — but maybe some day. There's plenty of room for it. Coax them.

Months Of Probing Ahead In SALT Talks

VIENNA (UPI)—Months of probing and sounding by U.S. and Soviet negotiators probably will be necessary before there is any possibility of a breakthrough in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

Diplomatic sources made this assessment today, adding that it is by no means clear at this initial stage of the talks whether a major breakthrough toward agreement even will prove possible.

The problems facing the American and Russian negotiations are so complicated that considerable clarification is required before detailed negotiations on concrete issues can be expected.

Both sides are guarding against revealing any of their vital defense secrets while discussing the types of strategic weapons they propose to freeze or limit.

There also is the problem of controls to insure that the two sides abide by any agreement. Some could be controlled by means such as listening devices and satellites, but others would require on-site inspections, which the Russians have all along been loath to accept.

It therefore will take a considerable time before the two sides have elaborated a list of freezable weapons, even if they reach agreement in principle.

Humorist, Wife Killed In Wreck

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Herb Shriner ,the Hoosier humorist who starred on television in the 1950s, and his wife were killed Thursday night when their auto ran off a highway and struck a tree. He was 51, his wife Eileen was 43.

Police gave no reason for the car's leaving the road. They said the tree was about 80 feet off U.S. 1.

Shriner, who grew up in Indiana, rose to stardom with his dry, country wit. He reached his greatest fame with the TV program "Two For The Money," and also appeared on radio and the Broadway stage.

Shriner was returning from a performance in West Palm Beach. The couple's three children, a daughter Indy, 19, and twin sons, Kin and Wil, 16, were at home in Fort Lauderdale.

Shriner made his reputation as a low key comedian reminiscing about life back home in Indiana in a wry, Will Rogers manner.

He actually started in show business as a harmonica player with a small group that he formed in high school.

When he was 17 he got on a barn dance program called Hoosier Hop at a Fort Wayne radio station, bailled as Harmonica Herb.

Along the way he began interspersing jokes and stories between his harmonica solos and later the instrument was essentially a prop for his monologues.

After World War II service, he became a featured performer on many major radio programs.

He also appeared on Broadway, where he made his debut in 1947.

Shriner was born May 28, 1918 in Toledo, Ohio, and grew up in Fort Wayne. He had lived in Florida for about three years.

Shriner once defined his own brand of humor as: "A small town guy in a big city talking about things which folks have been thinking about but just never got around to saying."

HERB SHRINER
Used TV for fame

Once during a bakery strike in Manhattan he explained the situation this way: "I went into a drug store today to get a peanut butter and jelly sandwich and they served it to me in a Dixie cup."

Politics in general and Congress in particular were often targets of his wit. After President Harry S Truman's upset victory over Thomas E. Dewey in 1948 he noted:

"No wonder the election poll takers were wrong. Look how many more Democrats there are now than there were before election."

And his 29 months in the European theater with the Army during World War II provided him a wealth of material.

—"I saw a newspaper headline the other day that said 'Army Calls 40,000 Men.' Of course it didn't say what 40,000 men called the Army."

—"I don't want it to seem like I'm runnin' down the food they serve in the Army, but the Army cooks serve the only kind of gravy in the world that you have to chew."

30 Injured In Memphis By Tornado

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A pre-dawn tornado roared across south Memphis and neighboring Mississippi today, injuring more than 30 persons and inflicting widespread property damage.

The storm blew off the same center which sent high winds through Oak Grove, near Paragould in northeast Arkansas, and injured five members of one family and destroyed a house trailer. Oak Grove High School suffered an estimated $1,000 in roof damage and several outbuildings were destroyed.

No deaths were reported in the storms and injuries were said to be minor. No determination of overall dollar damage was made.

Winds up to 73 miles an hour were clocked at Memphis International Airport where 33 planes were damaged. Several planes were damaged at the DeSoto Airport in north Mississippi, where two employes were injured.

Most of those injured were treated for cuts from flying glass. The fire department said

Candidates In Two Contests Will Talk

A candidates' night for the State Senate seat in the Fourth District and candidates from Marin for State Board of Equalization, Third District, will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. May 26 at the Tamalpais Retirement Center, Larkspur.

Senate candidates slated to appear are Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, Fairfield Mayor Donald Pinkerton, and Hubert O. Pessner of Pessner, who are seeking the Republican nomination; Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, unopposed candidate for the Democratic nomination, and Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, unopposed candidate for the American Independent Party nomination.

Raymond H. Shone of Nicasio, candidate for the Republican nomination, has been invited, but a firm commitment hasn't yet been made, reported Raymond C. Kesner of Larkspur.

Marin candidates for the equalization board scheduled to appear are Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo and Sesto F. Lucchi of San Rafael.

The session, sponsored by the Tamalpais, will consist mainly of a question and answer period. Winifred S. Frederick of Lagunitas will be moderator. The Tamalpais is at 501 Via Casitas.

Students Are Cited For Work

They are junior David S. Griffeath of 66 Toyon Lane, Sausalito; sophomore Kenneth C. Jacobs of 1 Throckmorton Lane, Mill Valley) senior Norman B. Livermore III of 141 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, and junior Richard P. Hackett of 26 El Cerrito Avenue, San Rafael.

Griffeath was commended for a screenplay in a film drama course; Hackett for work in a Shakespeare class; Jacobs for a film score in a film drama course, and Livermore for experimental research.

Average Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every man, woman and child in the United States earned $3,680 in 1969 — on paper at least.

That was the average per capita income reported by the Commerce Department Thursday. It is $259 above the 1968 average income, an amount calculated before deductions for taxes and other items.

Connecticut led all states in 1969 with an average of $4,537 while Mississippi was low with an average of $2,192 per person.

Students To Stage 'Walk' Fund Drive

Pupils of Oak View School in San Rafael will have a walk marathon May 9, entitled "Walk-A-Round," to raise funds for the Oak View School Association, the parents club at the school.

Starting at 9 a.m. pupils will walk two miles to Terra Linda High School and walk around the track, clocking as many miles as they desire.

Pupils will ask sponsors, either parents, relatives, friends or neighbors, to pay them a specified amount of money for each mile they walk.

Pupils can walk anytime between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., and can drop out for a rest or to eat or drink or take a nap.

Parents' permission will be required and good walking shoes are recommended.

The proceeds will go for the purchase of educational and playground equipment.

There will be trophies awarded to the boy and girl who walk the farthest, trophies for the best boy and and girl walker in each class, and a plaque listing the class with the highest number of children walking and the class with the most total combined miles.

Mail Purloined

William H. Dittmann of 33 Vineyard Drive, has reported to San Rafael police that between Monday and Wednesday mail had been removed from his mailbox.

Truckers, Teachers Continue To Strike

Wildcat strikes by truck drivers continued across the nation, and in Los Angeles, 5,000 other school employes planned to join striking teachers on picket lines today.

Service Employes Local 99, AFL-CIO, said it would strike to protest planned job and budget cutbacks in Los Angeles schools. The union represents cooks, janitors, bus drivers and some other nonteaching personnel.

About half of the city's 25,000 teachers have struck to demand smaller classes and higher pay. During the strike, now in its second week, nearly half the system's students have not attended school.

Ed Bratrud, secretary-treasurer of the service employes local, said, "We think that by early next week the entire school system will be closed down." The school system is the nation's second largest.

The striking drivers are trying to force a repudiation by the Teamsters Union of a tentative national contract which provides pay increases of $1.10 an hour over three years. The truckers, who currently average $4 an hour, have centered their scattered strikes in the Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland and Los Angeles areas.

Amid reports the wildcat strikes were undermining the national agreement, Frank E. Fitzsimmons, acting head of the Teamsters was said to be organizing a meeting of trucker officials from the 350 locals for early next week.

A union spokesman in Chicago said local delegates to the meeting will ask Fitzsimmons to repudiate the settlement.

THE WORLD OF CHAIRMAN MAO

Danish Explorer Frightened By Pervasive One-Class Campaign

By LARRY MOWELL

Wherever he went in Red China Danish explorer and filmmaker Jens Bjerre could not escape Mao Tse Tung and his pithy sayings.

"What frightens you is the one track mentality there—the constant propaganda," Bjerre told the Independent Journal in an interview yesterday. He said that propaganda is constantly present from early morning until far into the night throughout China.

Foiled two weeks ago in an attempt to return to China, Bjerre was in San Rafael to publicize a film "China", that he made during two visits to China totalling 28 days in 1966 and 1967. The film narrated in person by Bjerre, will be shown at 8:15 p.m. next Tuesday at San Rafael High School Auditorium.

Although he was not allowed to visit Sinkiang Province, Manchuria or Tibet for security reasons, Bjerre said he was allowed to roam freely elsewhere in the Red China domain.

Bjerre said the most awesome thing he observed during his travels in China was a political demonstration in Peking for the opening of the national games.

Sixteen thousand students rolled flashcards in the bleachers without verbal orders "like one body with one brain" according to Bjerre. One hundred thousand others participated in the mass rally on the field and in the stands.

"This is fantastic the way they're disciplined," Bjerre said. "You can't help thinking of Huxley and 'Brave New World' ".

Propaganda is so pervasive that solutions to every problem are automatically sought in Mao's little red book of quotations, he said.

Traditional values have been discarded in favor of Communism, Bjerre maintained. "The majority of the people were

JENS BJERRE

poor peasants and now they have food and work and that's first," he said.

He termed the Chinese Revolution the most dramatic in history because of its attempt to build a one-class society. Factory managers and government officials are required to work as laborers sometimes to remind them they are only peasants Bjerre, said.

"The revolution in China was based on the peasants, whereas, in Russia, it was based on the industrial workers. The system in China works so that the peasants are privileged when compared with the industrial workers," Bjerre said.

The cultural revolution that has jarred China for the past three years was the result of Mao's fear that two classes would develop under former president Liu Shao-chi's program of rapid industrial development, Bjerre said.

Mao and his supporters are emphasizing uplifting the masses and glorifying the peasant. They feared the peasants would lose power under Liu's program.

"This is the greatest experiment that has ever been made with the human race," Bjerre said. All Chinese are being molded to think as one. That's why Mao ousted President Liu and closed the universities, according to Bjerre.

The Dane thinks Mao is serious about a one-class society and fears students and scientists are opposing this wish.

The Red Guard, a mass organization of heavily indoctrinated youth, was Mao's weapon against his enemies, in the cultural revolution, but it got out of control and may still be acting autonomously, Bjerre said.

However, he thinks the scuffle on the Russian border is China's biggest problem now. "I don't see the conflict between America and China as going too deep. The conflict between Russia and China is far more serious," he said.

As evidence he noted that most of the anti-American propaganda has now been turned against the Russians.

The Chinese have never forgiven the Russians for pulling out technical advisers and crippling the economy, he said.

Nevertheless, he said the great majority of Chinese, although poor, have been well fed since the famine of 1962 and are devout Communists.

"In general, there is no doubt they are better off than they were before the revolution," he claimed.

Bjerre's movie contains the inevitable shots of the Great Wall of China and junks creaking down the Yangtse River, but there are vivid scenes of Red Chinese propaganda in action including the scene at the stadium and an American soldier being hanged in effigy.

Bjerre is not new to documentary filmmaking. "The Last Cannibals" was an award winner at the International Film Festivle in Edinburgh. He has also written three books on his junkets to unexplored areas of Africa, Asia and Australia. He is a fellow of the Royal Geographic Society in London.

Bay Stenches Ban Voted To Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly today passed legislation designed to rid San Francisco air of foul odors.

Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, said one of his measures would require the directors of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District (APCD) to set standards for the emission of industrial odors.

Burton said slaughter houses and rendering plants were the worst offenders in the San Francisco area.

"Did you say that your district stinks?" joked Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey, R-Brawley.

The measure was sent to the Senate on a vote of 43-16. A second Burton bill passed on a vote of 65-0.

The second bill would allow the APCD to impose fees for inspection of equipment to help reduce pollutants.

Brooke May Bare Nixon Restraint On Missile Study

BOSTON (AP) — President Nixon informed Sen. Edward W. Brooke last Dec. 29 that he dropped a program designed to increase accuracy of the MIRV missile to allay Soviet fears, the Boston Globe reported in Thursday's editions.

The newspaper said the decision was taken on grounds "that improved accuracy might give the Russians the impression the United States was preparing a first strike against the Soviet Union."

MIRV is an acronym for multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicle. It involves a concept of one missile with more than one warhead, each aimed at a different target.

The Globe, quoting a spokesman for the Massachusetts Republican, said Brooke intends to take the Senate floor Thursday to commend the President for "undertaking a major measure of strategic restraint." Brooke has opposed deployment of MIRVs.

CENSUS 1920—Onno C. Wieringa sits atop his specially designed carriage. In 1920, a two-wheeler drawn by a pair of horses was rare as most were drawn by a single horse. Wieringa designed the rig for better transportation through Montana's snowy winters.

Helped In Montana's '20 Census

By ERIK M. INGRAM

What does a census taker from 50 years ago think of this year's decennial count? "Well they asked a lot of questions, but I think they're necessary," commented Onno C. Wieringa.

"I don't remember what questions I used to ask. That was a long time ago, you know," the 86-year-old Mill Valley resident added.

Wieringa worked for less than $3 a day compiling the 1920 census. To do so, he mounted a horse and trotted off through Montana's waist-deep snow and sub-zero winter weather.

"Why did I do it? Because in those days we needed every dime of finances we could get," the 86-year-old retired farmer-postman said. "Besides, I've always liked to work and meet people."

The son of a shopkeeper, Wieringa immigrated to this country from Holland in 1907. After a short stay in New Jersey, he moved west to Montana and homesteaded a 160-acre parcel of land.

"I was still farming when I took the job as an enumerator," he added. "There wasn't much to be done on the farm and I needed the money."

Comparing this year's mail-out, mail-back census with the 1920 count, Wieringa related that it took him most of January to cover his area.

"I had a 10-square-mile district just north of Conrad, and when I didn't know the area, I would ask one family to direct me to the next. We don't have a list of names or addresses in those days," he explained.

Wieringa now spends most of his time painting landscapes, a number of which decorate his small home on Lomita Drive which he shares with his wife, Anne.

"I was chosen for that area because I could speak more than one language," he continued. "There was a large colony of Belgians there," he added. "I speak English, Dutch, German and French, and most of the Belgians could speak Dutch or French so we managed."

A resident of Mill Valley since 1948, Wieringa moved to Marin County because of the climate. He spent the preceding 25 years as a rural mailman covering much of the same area he did as a census taker, by the same means of transportation — a horse.

While he couldn't remember the exact number of people counted, Wiringa thoughtfully commented "I don't think I missed anyone; no sir, not anyone.

TENNIS, SWIM CENTER?

$1.6 Million Plan Interests Council

How about Marin City as the site for the proposed $1.6 million Marin County tennis and swim center?

Marin City Council, seeking to spur development in the community, agreed last night the idea is worth checking out for feasibility.

The plan, prepared by the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, calls for a site of 20 to 25 acres, but doesn't specify any location.

The proposed center would have about 19 tennis courts, an amphitheater with a tournament court in the center, a 50-meter Olympic-sized pool, two other pools, a wading tool for tots, a picnic area and capacity for 5,000 spectotors.

Such an installation would generate business and jobs in the community and possibly lead to construction of a motel to serve visitors, he said.

Brooks said the services district had supported an investigation into the feasibility of seeking the tennis-swim complex, and wanted joint council support.

After the vote, council members agreed that the idea should be presented to residents at a community forum at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Manzanita Center "to get the community pulse."

Although the parks and recreation commission plan doesn't specify a site, it does call for flat land, a central location and access to Highway 101.

Brooks said "tennis and swimming pools were a luxury of the affluent, and conceded there would be reluctance "to put it (the center) in a black community."

It would take concentrated community effort in Marin City to meet this problem, he reported.

Marin County supervisors last week said they liked the concept of a countywide tennis and swim center, but asked for more details on where a site could be found and how the project could be financed.

Brooks said if federal financing is sought, it would give Marin City a better chance, because the plan then "would have to show improvement to disadvantaged areas."

Planning Consultant's Hiring Is Favored By Marin City Council

Marin City Council recommended last night that Ulysses J. Montgomery, San Francisco urban consultant, be hired as consultant for the community's 701 planning program.

Montgomery, a key figure in the development of Martin Luther King Square in San Francisco, was recommended for the post which will pay $7,300 over a two-year period.

One resident recalled an episode last fall when the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency alleged that Montgomery violated his contract on the Martin Luther King development.

Council members said that Montgomery has since been exonerated, and Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. said he has checked many sources and all approved of Montgomery's work.

The council's recommendation will go to the Marin County Planning Department and then to the board of supervisors for approval, a necessary procedure since the county is supplying $25,000 in matching funds toward the $75,600 planning grant.

The Marin City Council Also:

INTERN — Authorized Jack C. Williams, Marin City coordinator, to proceed with the hiring of an intern to work in planning program, part-time at $300 a month.

QUESTIONNAIRE — Agreed that a questionnaire to be sent to residents as part of a community survey should be brief and stress the needs of the community.

WORK PROGRAM — Reviewed part of the working plan, required by the Department of Housing and Urban Development under the federal grant, which will indicate the plans of various organizations in the community including the community services district and Marin County Redevelopment Agency, Marin County Housing Authority, church groups, social groups and other organizations operating in Marin Ctiy.

MASTER PLAN — Briefly reviewed the existing master plan for Marin City, a plan by California Development Corp set in 1956. Designating a master plan is one of the council's tasks under the 701 planning grant.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 10:30 a.m. tomorrow for a forum to discuss community problems at the Manzanita Center.

Soviets' Timber Minister Is Out

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Minister of Forestry was dismissed from his job and retired on pension, an announcement in Pravda said today.

Vasili I. Rubtsov, 57, was sacked after his ministry was accused by the government newspaper Izvestia last February of mismanaging the nation's forestry industries.

The article charged that some enterprises, which are under control of the central ministry "do not even try to stop the obvious waste of the nation's wealth."

Clerk Cites Law On List Of Addresses

The Marin County clerk's office, under fire as a possible source of a mailing list compiled by San Francisco Typographical Union 21, replied yesterday that such lists are available to anyone at cost as a matter of law.

The union had announced mailing out more than 40,000 circulars to Marin voters, urging them to cancel subscriptions to the Independent-Journal, struck by the union since Jan. 7.

Though voter registration lists also are available from the secretary of state's office in Sacramento, County Clerk George H. Gnoss reported bearing the brunt of complaints from Marin residents.

"First of all I have no recollection of any union official requesting the voter registration tape," said Gnoss. However, if such a request were made, he would have to comply.

Gnoss said candidates and campaign managers frequently ask for reproductions of the voter registration lists. They are public property, and how they are used and by whom are beyond his control, the county clerk explained.

Pueblo's Women Given The Vote

ISLETA, N.M. (AP) — For the first time in their ancient history, women at Isleta Indian Pueblo now can vote in pueblo elections.

The pueblo is about 13 miles south of Albuquerque on U.S. 85. The pueblo first was established by the Spanish government in 1689. This was confirmed by the U.S. government in 1858.

NO CHANGES IN SAUSALITO VOTE RECOUNT

Sausalito's ballot recount yesterday did not change the results of last week's municipal election, City Clerk Miriam Ansell reported. Earl F. Dunphy gained one vote and Stephen A. Fraser picked up two votes in yesterday's recount.

Mrs. Ansell said the only tallying errors, which did not affect the total number of votes cast, were founding in the polling place established in the Sausalito Nursery School. Candidate Marsha J. Owen (Sally Stanford) lost one vote in the recount and Serge Trubach gained one.

The vote total for Robert D. Bauerle, who lost to Fraser by 27 votes and called for the recount, remained the same, Mrs. Ansell said.

New Name For Commonwealth

A new name will appear above the office of Commonwealth National Bank at 888 Fourth Street, San Rafael on Monday morning.

Commonwealth's merger into Union Bank, headquartered in Los Angeles, was to be completed with the close of business today. San Rafael manager Don F. Mailander said his staff would be working on changes on the books tonight and tomorrow and the new Union Bank sign was to be installed this weekend.

This marks the second time in less than a year that the bank's name has been changed. Following the merger of the former Lincoln National Bank into Commonwealth the present sign was installed over the bank last June.

Union Bank is a subsidiary of Unionamerica, Inc. and has assets of $2 billion and offices throughout Southern California. Commonwealth has $65 million in assets and seven offices in four Bay Area counties.

Petaluma Ponders Erosion Problem

By BONNIE BARD

Faced with solving a multi-million dollar erosion problem with less than $65,000, a Petaluma City Council committee last night began anew the search to untangle the dilemma before homes topple into the Petaluma River.

Councilmen Fred V. Mattei and Robert A. Brunner met with residents of Rocca Drive, Jess Avenue and Rio Vista Way in the Linda Del Mar subdivision and agreed that five initial steps should be taken.

The homeowners told the councilmen that winter rains fed into the river through a nearby storm drain pipe had eaten away nearly all of their backyards and now the foundations of the houses are threatened.

Engineers have said that a project to totally solve the problem would cost millions of dollars.

Sidney Korgstad, 15 Rocca Drive, said he had had slabs of cement dropped into his river bank to halt the loss of land and suggested the same method could be applied to other lots as a stopgap measure.

Most agreed the method should be explored except for Leon Bohling of 11 Rocca Drive who called the plan "foolhardy" and a threat to the river banks, south of the subdivision.

He urged the city to use the $64,200 derived from a lawsuit against the builder to purchase the lots and have the houses moved to a safer location.

Bohling said the lending institutions involved in the homes seemed willing to bear the costs of moving the houses and to refinance the loans for whatever repairs are necessary. He said his house could be used as a test case to see how well the structures move and to get an idea of what costs are involved.

Others said they would be willing to have their homes moved if nothing else was possible to save them, but said they preferred to stay in the riverbank location.

Mattei read an opinion from City Atty. Edouard E. Robert that the lawsuit funds could not be used solely to move the houses for the private benefit of the homeowners. He said that that money must be used for public purposes.

Mattei estimated that $5,000 must be used to make repairs on the bridge at Payran Street which had also been damaged by the swirling waters. He said the remainder of the funds could possibly be used to move the houses if land were set aside for a public park or a green belt.

Mattei and Brunner said they would also gather together various engineering reports that have been made on the river to compare the information to see if a solution can be found.

At the suggestion of the homeowners, the councilmen said they would see if federal disaster relief from floods could be sought and would see if some tax relief can be given. The homeowners complained that although the value of the property is rapidly decreasing, their taxes continue to rise.

The councilmen said they would look into all the possibilities and call another general meeting next month.

Young Motorcyclist Treated For Mishap

Sean Manion, 16, of 1634 Fifth Avenue San Rafael was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for scrapes and bruises of the right knee sustained in a motorcycle accident in San Rafael, the hospital reported today.

San Rafael police had no report of the accident today.

Come out this weekend and see our selection of houses under $20,000. You, too, can beat inflation!

★★ ★★ ★★

Close to town, but with that good "up in the hills" feeling. Comfortable older home with two bedrooms, a view deck, and charm. Wall to wall carpeting. Huge expandable area below. $19,500.

★★ ★★ ★★

Here's a house for you to fix up for fun and profit. A pretty garden, sun, a great view, and a sound basic structure. Old and strange, but with some imagination and work you could make it into something great. $15,950.

★★ ★★ ★★

A real mess, but if you can see through it, maybe you'll be enthusiastic about this hillside home. Badly neglected, but it has location, good floor space and a nice rustic feeling. Quite private. $16,500.

★★ ★★ ★★

Here's a real switch! Only a few years old, and fit as a fiddle. On a level lot close to everything. Two bedrooms, an electric kitchen, beamed ceilings. Beside a babbling creek. Small but cute. $17,950.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

FOR FURNISHING AND PLACING ROCK SLOPE PROTECTION AT THE WEST APPROACH TO THE RICHMOND—SAN RAFAEL BRIDGE IN MARIN COUNTY, CONTRACT 01041

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Division of Bay Toll Crossings, 151 Fremont Street, San Francisco, California 94105, until 2:00 p.m. on Tuesday, April 28, 1970, at which time they will be publicly opened and read in said office, for the Rock Slope Protection for the Richmond—San Rafael Bridge in Marin County in accordance with the specifications therefor, to which special reference is made, as follows:

The work consists of furnishing and placing rock slope protection on the south side of the mole fill at the west approach to the Richmond—San Rafael Bridge, and furnishing all additional labor, materials, tools, plant, equipment, and services required to complete the Rock Slope Protection, all as shown on the plans and as specified.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein.

ENGINEER'S ESTIMATE

Item 1. 550 cubic yards structure excavation (rock slope protection).

The quantities listed in this notice are approximate only, being given as a basis for the comparison of bids, and the Department of Public Works does not, expressly or by implication, agree that the actual amount of work will correspond therewith, but reserves the right to increase or decrease the amount of any class or portion of the work, or to omit portions of the work, as may be deemed necessary or advisable by the Engineer.

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 1770 of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Department of Public Works has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages for straight time, overtime, Saturday, Sunday and holiday work in the county in which the work is to be done to be as set forth in the Division of Highways Publication, General Prevailing Wage Rates, for the month in which this Notice to Contractors is dated, and may be seen at the office of the Division.

Attention is directed to Article 7.6, "Employment of Apprentices," of these Special Provisions providing for employment of apprentices on the work. Every such apprentice shall be paid the standard wage paid to apprentices under the regulations of the trade at which he is employed. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Drooping Eyelids Caused By Slow Weakening Of Muscles

Ptosis is the inability to open the eyelids completely. If a person is born with this condition, both his lids usually are involved. When the disorder is acquired later, only one lid may be affected.

Ptosis varies in severity. When marked, the victim eyes the world through a tiny, slitlike opening. Various tricks are used to increase the field of vision, including wrinkling of the forehead, elevating the brow, and throwing back the head to maintain a wider perspective. Some lift the upper jaw to raise the lid, a maneuver known as jaw winking.

IF PTOSIS exists at birth, the cause may be prenatal underdevelopment of the muscles controling the upper lid. Heredity plays a role, especially when both parents have drooping lids. Surgery, the best treatment in the congenital type, may be advised during the first or second year. This allows the child's sight to develop normally.

When ptosis develops later in life, the muscles of the upper lid usually are weakened or paralyzed by a nerve disorder or apoplexy. Various neuromuscular diseases affect the eyelids along with other parts of the body. Among these are tabes dorsalis, meningitis, brain tumors, and progressive muscular dystrophy.

IN MYASTHENIA gravis, the eye muscles tire easily and become so weak after several contractions, they are powerless to move. Strength returns minutes later after muscle fatigue subsides, and then the cycle is repeated. Other muscles, such as those of the jaws and arms, behave in a similar fashion.

Treatment of acquired ptosis depends upon the cause. Some victims are benefited by the use of electricity, but surgery is the only cure when a mechanical cause exists. Several ingenious operations have been devised. Ptosis spectacles containing tiny props on the upper edge to hold open the lids have been used but are uncomfortable.

MURMUR

M. F. writes: My 15-year-old daughter complained of shortness of breath. The doctor who examined her said she has a heart murmur. Is this condition curable?

REPLY

Not if the murmur stems from a scarred valve. Ask your physician for more details about her condition, because the murmur, per se, does not cause shortness of breath. And, if there is any doubt in his mind concerning management of the problem, request a consultation. At 15, this girl has many years ahead of her and the entire problem should be understood thoroughly.

'FLASHY' EARS

S. H. writes: My ears have been getting hot flashes ever since I had them pierced two years ago for earrings. What could be causing the flushes?

REPLY

Flashy earrings or the menopause. Perhaps you are allergic to some chemical in the jewelry.

Bay Transportation Agency Passes First Test

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill to create a nine-county Metropolitan Transportation Commission in the San Francisco Bay Area, including Marin, has passed its first legislative test without a dissenting vote.

The proposal by Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, was approved Thursday by the Assembly Transportation Committee and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

The proposed agency would have binding authority over local governments in transportation planning, but would not have taxing power.

Foran said the proposed agency — a super-board over highway, public transit, airport, harbor and bridge agencies—would initially be financed by transfer of $530,000 a year in federal and state planning grants now going to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

A similar Foran measure which also gave the proposed transportation commission taxing power passed the Assembly Transportation Committee last year, but got no further in the Legislature.

Speaking for ABAG, Alameda County Supervisor Joseph Bort said he accepted completely the concept and purpose of the commission.

"The only objection I have is, 'Why create a new commission?' " Bort said.

"I want ABAG to be this comal plan. ABAG should be able to plan. ABAG should be able to continue its job and be given the teeth. We have the personnel and the time," Bort said.

Foran said he didn't think it was politically possible for ABAG, a voluntary association of 82 Bay Area cities and counties, to wield binding powers over its members at this time, "but we must meet the particular problem of transportation in the 70s," he said.

Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, replied that by planning transportation, the proposed new agency would end up doing all land use planning.

"Even a freeway plan rezones a city," Lanterman said, "but it's about time. I'm for your bill."

Charles Beer, transportation planning coordinator for the State Business and Transportation Agency, told the committee that "from the agency's viewpoint, we're not really pushing it, but we do favor" the proposed new agency.

He said the Foran proposal fit the criteria Gov. Reagan set for comprehensive transportation planning.

AC Transit spokesman Robert Nesbit said AC Transit sees "a basic need for this kind of legislation" but that the regional board should be elective rather than appointed.

The Foran proposal calls for a 19-member board made up of representatives of ABAG, federal and state government, the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and San Francisco, Alameda, Contra Costa, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Marin, Napa, Solano and Sonoma counties.

Reagan Defends Health Economies

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan says California has been able to meet the needs of its sick and its poor only because of his "squeeze and cut and trim" economy programs.

More taxes would have been the only alternative, the 59-year old Republican chief executive said.

Reagan was asked during an interview in his Capitol study about criticism of Democrats, led by gubernatorial candidate Jess Unruh, that his three-year-old administration has been more interested in economy than in helping people in need.

"The record doesn't bear it out," Reagan told the Associated Press in a voice made hoarse by a week-long sinus attack.

Reagan fidgeted with a Chap Stick and pocketknife as he talked about 1970 election campaign issues and the problems facing California. He is seeking a second term.

In the middle of the interview, he spotted a group of students waving at his window from the Capitol grounds, jumped up and said, "I've got to say hello." He went to the window and waved back.

What about the repeated charge that his administration is "cruel and heartless" when it comes to human needs, Reagan was asked.

"I know they've made that charge," he replied. "The funny thing is our economies are all that have made us able to keep up with the human needs, by way of the welfare programs. We never could have financed this without additional taxes, the vast increases in those programs."

In spite of the trimming, he added, "we have a vastly improved program in mental health," one area where he is frequently accused of cutting indiscriminately.

The governor admitted his administration's image may still be suffering from hasty and ill-timed announcements back in 1967 that he was cutting the Mental Health Department staff by thousands.

"Put this down to being brand new," said Reagan, wearing a black and white checked sport coat and black trousers.

"We panicked because we thought there was going to be a leak and that we were going to be greeted with headlines and charges before we were ready with our plan so we rushed into print with the announcement ourselves."

Reagan added that "to this day" he is asked about his mental health program cuts.

"This is like 'cutting the university's budget' when they've gotten the greatest rate of increase they've ever gotten in these three years" he said.

Reagan said he had no specific goal in cutting "government fat" when he took office.

"You just had to cut until you got down to the muscle fiber and we've done it that way," he said, adding that the program had been more successful than he expected.

But, Reagan added, inflation is keeping the state from building up any budget surplus that would allow him to pump money into new programs such as pollution control and environmental improvement.

He said he would back a proposed $250 million bond issue this year for environmental improvement if the voters approve Prop. 7 at the June 2 election to allow the state to sell bonds for up to seven per cent interest.

Reagan acknowledged that the economy issue and unemployment could cost him votes in November.

"It's ironic, too, that the Republican effort to stop runaway inflation that was created by Democratic party policies should then be the thing that was held against Republicans."

But he said, "I have a faith in people that their memories aren't that short, that they understand more than some people give them credit for . . .

"I can't believe that the bulk of the men and women you see going past that window out there every day aren't aware that inflation didn't just start with the inauguration of Richard Nixon."

As inflation grows year after year, Reagan added, "somewhere along the line you have to take some medicine that didn't taste good. We're taking the medicine now."

He projected an optimistic note about the economy.

"On the other hand, I do believe it's been working," he said of President Nixon's anti-inflationary measures. "It's hard to see right now, but I have a belief as we go through the summer and into fall we're going to see ourselves beginning to come out and come out on a sounder base" of the economy than it was before the inflation spiral escalated.

Reagan said he finds three issues uppermost in the people's minds as he campaigns around the state: the environment, the economy, and law and order, including campus violence.

Reagan said his administration's record in the environmental field is "unassailable" and he added, "I don't see how it can be an issue. No one's against it. There's no great disagreement.

"If you want to look at the record, we've been moving three years on this," he said.

Bills Advance On Insuring Privacy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation designed to prevent private companies from obtaining drivers license and automobile registration information passed its first committee test Thursday.

The Assembly Governmental Organization Committee Thursday approved the three measures which prohibit the dissemination, bulk sale or public inspection of information collected by the Department of Motor Vehicles on drivers licenses and auto registrations. They were sent to the Ways and Means Committee on a voice vote.

"These measures will insure an individual's rights of privacy by halting the flow of such information to junk mail firms and by eliminating the possibility that the lists might be used for undesirable purposes," said Assemblyman William Campbell, the author.

Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, said that until January, the firms paid $1 for each 1,000 names to obtain the information from DMV. The price increased to $7 per 1,000 in January after Campbell complained to the department. The lists are resold at from $50 to $70 per 1,000.

Opposing the legislation were the Bank of America, R. L. Polk and Co. of Detroit and the Disabled American Veterans.

William G. Dwyer, spokesman for the veterans, said the proposal would make it impossible for the organization to obtain information necessary to issue the miniature license plates which are attached to automobile keys and returned to the owner if lost. Dwyer said the veterans obtained California auto registration lists from the R. L. Polk Co.

In related action, the Assembly Transportation Committee rejected on a split voice vote a bill by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, to forbid insurance companies from obtaining driver's records.

"Whether you get any tickets doesn't indicate if you're a good or bad driver," Fenton said, "just how lucky you are."

The bill was opposed by insurance industry representatives. John Fraser of the California State Automobile Association said the bill would make it "difficult to determine if a driver is qualified for insurance."

Civic Center Office Open To Veterans

Many Vietnam veterans, who are discharged in Marin, are apparently unaware that they can apply for GI benefits at the Marin Civic Center in San Rafael.

"Only a small percentage of these young men are applying for benefits to which they are entitled," said James V. Burdick, veterans service officer. His office is on the fourth floor of the Civic Center in Room 424.

Burdick gives information and helps veterans apply for such benefits as disability compensation, home loans, converting insurance, medical and dental treatments and education at both high school and college level.

Burdick said some of the veterans apparently go to the Veterans Office in San Francisco and are discouraged by the long waits and red tape. "Here we're able to give personalized service," said Burdick.

Senate Told Apollo 14 Can Lift On Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The head of the space agency said today the Apollo 13 failure had been traced tentatively to a "relatively simple component" which can be fixed so easily the next moon flight may go forward without delay."

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, appearing at a Senate hearing with two of the Apollo 13 astronauts, said:

"We expect that the large quantity and high quality of telemetered data received from the Apollo 13 spacecraft at the time of the accident will permit a precise and early identification of the causes of the failure."

The administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), added, "The oxygen thermos flask believed to be involved is a relatively simple component and corrective action should not prove to be a major task.

"If this turns out to be the case, we should be able to move out promptly with the necessary alterations and proceed with Apollo 14 and subsequent flights on approximately the same schedule we have presented to you before." Apollo 14 had been scheduled for an Oct. 1 launch.

Paine said President Nixon "fully shares this view" —that Apollo 13's troubles should not cause a cutback in the U. S. space program.

Paine and the Apollo 13 commander, Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., and the late-starting civilian member of the team, John L. Swigert Jr., appeared before the Senate Aeronautical and Space Sciences committee. The third Apollo 13 crewman, Fred W. Haise Jr., also a civilian, was unable to attend.

Paine said that during a flight with Nixon to Honolulu last Saturday to meet the returning astronauts, after their splashdown in the Pacific the day before, Nixon "expressed his strong support for a vigorous ongoing U. S. space program, particularly in manned space flight."

Congress already has indicated it feels the same. The House Thursday passed NASA's 1971 budget, allowing the agency more money than it requested.

The Senate committee cut the NASA budget somewhat below administration requests, but granted all the money earmarked for the Apollo program.

At the space center in Houston, Near L. Armstrong, the first man to set foot on the moon, today starts trying to unravel the puzzling sequence of events leading to the Apollo 13 explosion and the abort of America's third lunar landing mission short of its goal.

That was the assignment Armstrong, one of nine men on the official Apollo 13 accident review board, drew Thursday from board chairman Edgar M. Cortright.

"The board began to tackle in earnest its job of determining what happened to cripple the Apollo 13 service module, why it happened, and to recommend corrective action," Cortright said Thursday after a day of mapping out the strategy of his probe.

Private Coin Pledged For Home Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that private institutions have pledged to increase commitments for residential mortgages by $2 billion this year.

This would provide about 150,000 new residences and a spur to a construction industry that has been characterized as in a recession.

The pledges came from commercial banks, life insurance companies and trustees of pension funds.

Bruce MacLaury, deputy undersecretary of the Treasury for monetary affairs, predicted that the extra mortgage commitments will help pull down interest rates. He said that even before this the points some home purchasers have to pay will be eliminated.

President Nixon welcomed the pledges of more mortgage commitments, predicting they will enhance significantly "our ability to meet critical housing needs."

Hospital Fetes Fledgling Parents

DESPLAINES, Ill. (AP) — The night before the mother and baby are released from Holy Family hospital is an occasion for a "Parents Night Out" with the hospital doing the honors.

"We think new parents deserve this 'night out' before going home to the busy routine of bottle warmings for night feedings and changing diapers," said Sister M. Amata, administrator.

Street Fray Is Fatal To Marine

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Marine who recently returned from Vietnam was shot to death and a fellow Leatherneck was critically wounded today in a street fight with a man who escaped.

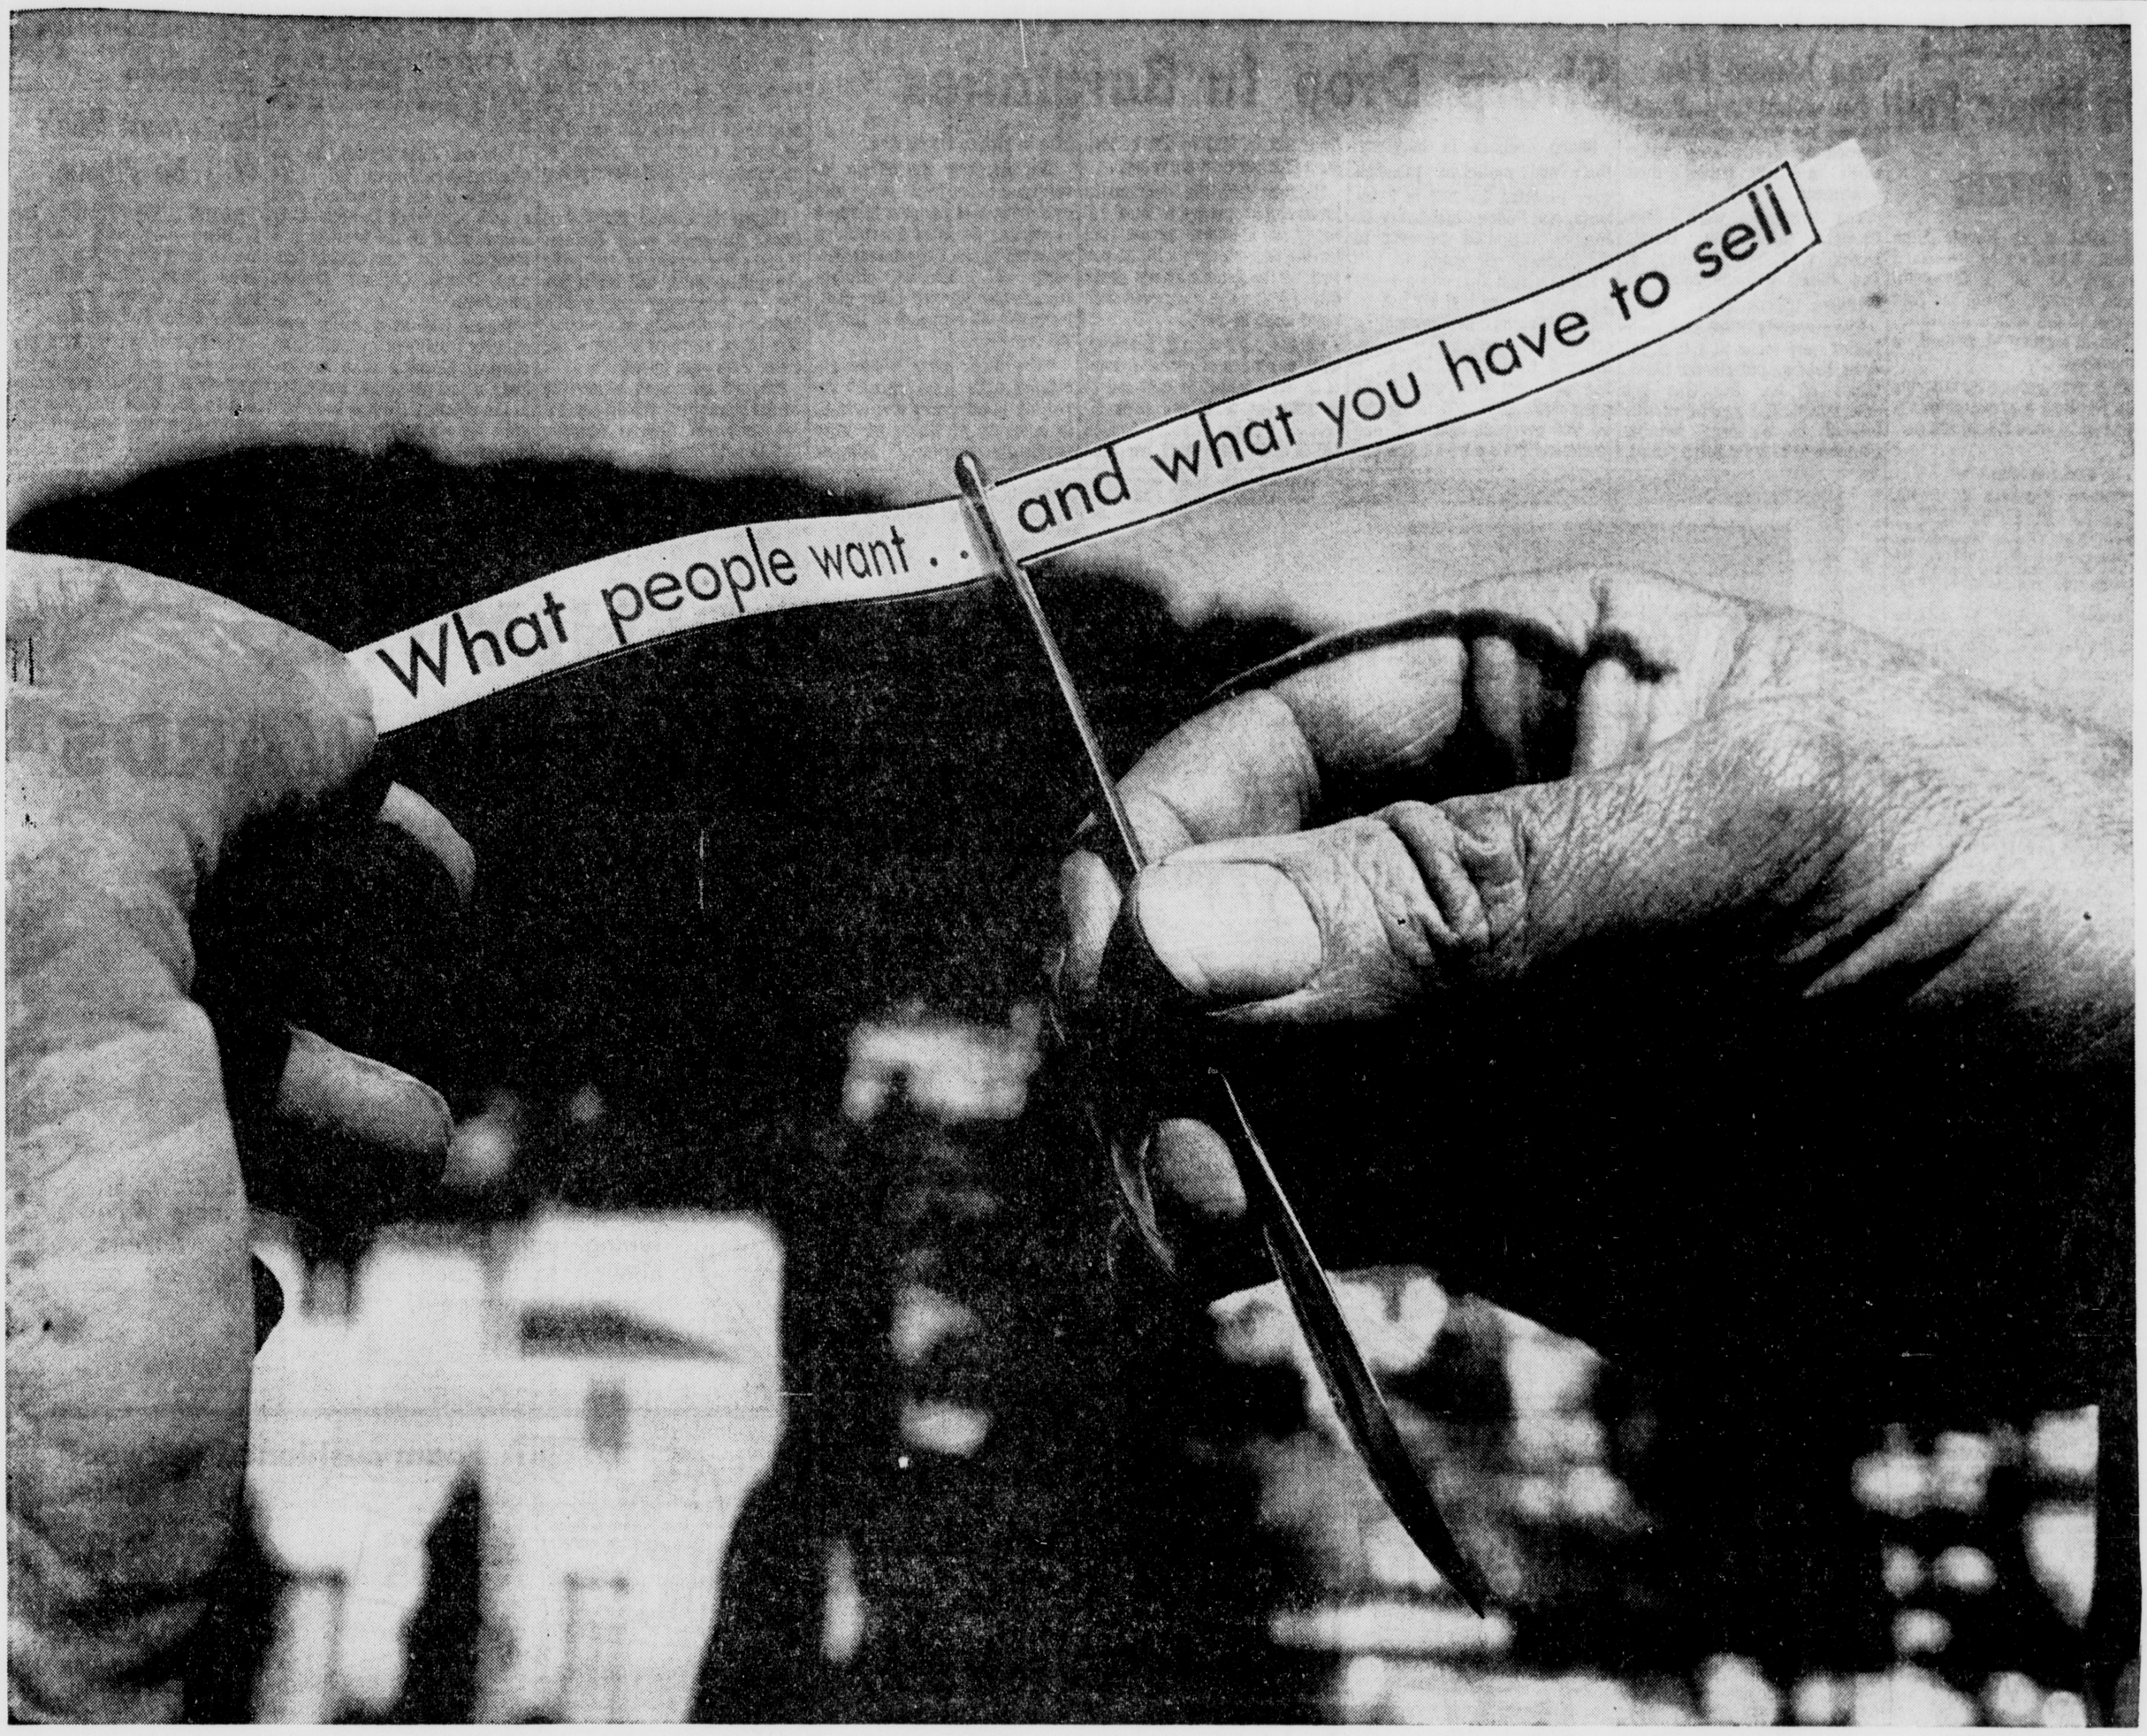
The dead Marine was tentatively identified as Pvt. Thomas W. Downs, 22, stationed at Treasure Island.

His companion, tentatively listed as Pvt. Stephen R. Mattison, 21, suffered an abdomen wound.

Police said the Marines, in civilian dress, were involved in a fight with another man early today on the sidewalk near Seventh and Natoma.

Sausalito Car Theft

A black 1968 Datsun, license ZFN 260, belonging to Traielia T. Robinson, was stolen from in front of her house at 114 Filbert Street, Sausalito, between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 8:15 a.m. Wednesday, Sausalito police reported today.



To reach the market you have to thread the needle

For big or small-space advertisers, knowing this can help you build more profitable volume

Every store wants to reach as many customers as it can. But how many customers "reach" the store to buy—and when—is something else again.

For new findings in retailing show that at any one time only a small percentage of the market is ready to buy. The "market" then, is not what many a businessman thinks it is.

It is not a huge, faceless mass of people just waiting for the store ad to trigger it into buying action. Rather, it is a small set of people on any given day, with the set changing on Friday, for example, from what it was on Tuesday, or Wednesday.

Another finding shows an enormous shift, one week to another, in those "planning to buy" and those who didn't plan to buy but ended up doing most of the buying! Example: 61% of actual buyers of women's shoes in a given week were not even planning to buy just the week before! New people, new decisions.

This buying behavior goes for everything from women's dresses to refrigerators, tires to cameras. (The only general exception is drug/sundries and food. . .items of necessity).

The point is: if your store wants to capture the business, you must be in the market consistently with your advertising. This keeps you up in the forefront of buying decisions—at the time they're made. And they're being made by different people on different days for different reasons.

Since you can't know who is going to buy, only advertising can keep you in the market with changing groups of buyers.

And in Marin County, only the Independent-Journal can keep your advertising before the total market. Gets your message into 70% of all households. Gets you real readership. Gets you immediate sales.

That's what we mean by "threading the needle." Sews up the business.

Birthday Visits For Hess Family

BERLIN (UPI) — Ruldolf Hess, the former Nazi deputy fuehrer, celebrated his 76th birthday by allowing his wife and son to visit him for the first time in Spandau war crimes prison where he has been for 24 years.

Hess previously refused to receive visitors in the four-power prison because he considered it beneath the dignity of Adolf Hitler's former deputy to be seen in prison.

After becoming used to visits from his family while he was in a British military hospital for treatment of a stomach ulcer from last November through March 13, he agreed to let them continue when he returned to prison.

Hess will not be 76 until Sunday but today's visit was arranged to celebrate the birthday.

Long Distance Tariff Is Hit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A consumer group has asked the Federal Communications Commission to revoke the long-distance tariff of American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The group, Consumers Arise Now, is composed of students in Hastings College of Law and former State Public Utilities Commissioner William Bennett.

The petition sent Thursday to the FCC said AT & T announced tariff changes in November agreed upon without public debate. It said the FCC approved a rate of return in excess of the 7.5 per cent accepted rate.

Bennett said he expects an answer by early May and if it is refused he will appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

California accounts for 26 per cent of this country's beet sugar production, the highest of any state.

Four Perish In San Mateo Fire

SAN MATEO (UPI)—A mother and her three children were burned to death early today when a fire gutted their apartment.

The victims were Mrs. Barbara Coker, 29, Bonnie Lynes, 7, Leigh Holladay, 5, and James William Coker, 15 months.

The coroner's office said their bodies were found at 4:45 a. m. when firemen put out the blaze. Cause of the fire was not determined. The apartment was located in a large housing complex at 3309 La Selva Street.

Petaluma Police Report Sharp Drop In Burglaries

Sharp declines in burglary, theft and malicious mischief were reported for 1969 in Petaluma, and Police Chief Larry D. Higgins attributed the drop to the Crime Check program.

Higgins said that since starting the program last year to involve citizens in precenting crime, the burglary offenses dropped from 278 to 199 for a 28.5 per cent decrease; thefts were down from 963 to 785 for an 18.5 per cent decrease, and malicious mischief dropped from 642 in 1968 to 532 in 1969 for a 25.2 per cent decrease.

Higgins said the community involvement program also resulted in a higher arrest rate for the department, with 21 per cent of the burglary cases solved last year, compared with 8 per cent in 1968.

On the upswing, however, were narcotics offenses. A total of 46 were tallied in 1968 and 78 in 1969 for a 41 per cent increase. Felony offenses totaled 445 in 1968, with a 17 per cent hike in 1969 to 473 reports.

The effect of the citizen involvement program was also evident in a 44 per cent increase in various types of information reported to the department. Reports of suspicious circumstances also jumped 42 per cent, from the 433 reported in 1968 to 755 last year.

"The department is now receiving calls from citizens reporting occurrences and crimes in progress of which we were previously unaware," Higgins said, noting that several criminals were caught at the scene because of alert citizens willing to call the police.

Through a series of speaking engagements, police officers have asked residents to report suspicious persons, the sound of breaking glass and offers of merchandise at ridiculously low prices.

Hoping to expand the Crime Check program even further, Higgins has organized a citizens committee which will assist police in educating the public further in methods of cooperation in an attempt to drive the crime rate even lower.

Persons interested in serving on the committee should contact the chairmen, Robert Stimson and Donald Smith.

Visiting Soldier Is Found Dead

Edward John Scansi, 26, an electrician-radioman at the Presidio of San Francisco, died at 4:30 p.m. when he apparently shot himself in the head with a stockless rifle, according to Sonoma County Coroner Andrew Johansen.

Scansi had been under psychiatric treatment at Letterman General Hospital until his release a few days ago, according to the coroner. He had been visiting his uncle, Floyd Mattern, 78 Sierra Avenue.

He is survived by his parents, John and Audrey Scansi of Napa.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

Pasternak Book Will Be Filmed

ROME (UPI)—Producer Carlo Ponti announced today he has secured film rights to "The Blind Beauty," the unfinished last work of the late Soviet author Boris Pasternak.

The text of the work, a play in which the blind beauty symbolizes Russia, was smuggled to the West last year and published in the Rome theatrical magazine Il Dramma.

Giants Get Chance To Use 1-2 Punch

JIM GILMARTIN

A Silver Year To Strike Gold?

Preliminary prospectus of the S.F. 49ers declares: "If it gets together and stays together, San Francisco's Silver Anniversary professional football team could strike 49er gold."

Good! Now, let's get the lead out. We've been waiting 25 years and I'm beginning to fear the Niners are waiting for their Golden Anniversary to strike silver.

SPEAKING OF same, the Oakland Raiders mustn't think much of their Dec. 20 battle with the cross-bay 49ers. The Pride and Poise Boys of the East Bay don't mention the rivalry against S.F. until the 10th paragraph of their news release on the 1970 sked. The Raiders and 49ers meet Sept. 6 at Kezar in an exhibition game and again Dec. 20 at Oakland in league play.

THE GIANTS have approximately 25,000 bats ready to distribute to kids (girls, too!) at tomorrow's Bat Day at Candlestick when the Giants play the Montreal Expos (and Marin's John Boccabella).

Sorry For Conflicting Days

Giant exec John Taddeucci of San Rafael says tomorrow's Bat Day conflict with many Little League openers was unavoidable and the Giants are sorry, but there are several other giveaway days on the calendar, including Cap Day May 23, T-Shirt Day June 13, Helmet Day July 3 and Ball Day July 18.

Taddeucci says gates will open at 11 a.m. tomorrow and suggests dads bring their lads early because of the inevitable hangup at the turnstiles as kids reject Hal Lanier bats in favor of Willie Mays or Willie McCovey models.

Getting a Hal Lanier bat is like a little girl getting a Phyllis Diller Barbie Doll. Sorry, Hal, you slugger you.

DON STONE, former Drake High quarterback and sprinter, has been converted to tight end at University of Oregon where he reportedly is having a fine spring practice. Don was red-shirted last season.

More Than Short Relief Stint

GREG TELLIS, a Tam alum, was slightly less than brilliant last Saturday in pitching the Cal Bears to a 3-2 victory over UCLA. Greg, in relief, went 10⅓ innings before yielding a hit and wound up with the win to his credit in the 16-inning tussle. San Rafael's Rocky Shone caught Tellis most of that game.

Incidentally, another sturdy golden Bear, pitcher Tony Murray, is son of prize-winning syndicated sports columnist Jim Murray whose work appears periodically in the I-J.

FIRST OFFICIAL entry for Gordon Tovani's high school place kicking clinic in Marin next month came in behalf of Lovington High School, Lovington, Ill.

It was just a gag on the part of Dr. Harry Hensler of San Anselmo who coached at Lovington in 1924 and '25.

PAUL LEE of San Rafael, brother of Boston Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee, is doing well at U.C. Santa Barbara, hitting around the .300 level for the Gaucho varsity, which beats hell out of burning down banks, etc.

Perry, Juan To Face Montreal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants open a two-week home stand against Montreal but when they take the field for game No. 2 it may seem like opening day.

Gaylord Perry, 1-2, is tonight's scheduled starter for the Giants, who were idle Thursday. The Expos will probably go with Gary Waslewski.

ATTRACTION

However, the big attraction may be Saturday afternoon, when ace right-hander Juan Marichal is to make his first start of the season for San Francisco.

Marichal, 21 - 11 last year, caught an ear infection in the last week of spring training, then had to be hospitalized because of an allergy to medication and missed his usual season-starting turn.

SAYS HE'S READY

He has been working out all week and says he is ready.

In 15 games, only Perry has pitched a complete game, going the distance twice.

Giant pitchers have a combined earned-run average of 5.46 for the 15 games and have allowed an average of 9.5 hits a game.

THREE OF EIGHT

The Giants won three of eight road games, with one postponed.

Mike McCormick and Frank Reberger are the probable starters for Sunday's doubleheader with the Expos, and Perry may get the call Tuesday night when the New York Mets move in for three games,

The Giants finish the home stand with three games against Philadelphia.

High Jump Record

Despite a Marin County Athletic League girls' high jump record of 4 feet, 9¾ inches of Juanita Orlando, Novato High's girls' track and field team lost to Tamalpais High 55-49 yesterday in Mill Valley.

LI'L LEAGUE OPENS PLAY TOMORROW

Maybe opening day of baseball has already been held around the country, but for all the Little Leaguers of Marin County, the real opening day is tomorrow.

That's the day the 17 leagues of Marin County open the Little League season with parades, ceremonies, and baseball.

Although the openers for the boys 9 through 12 is tomorrow, the three Marin County leagues in Senior Division, boys 13-15, open their seasons at the end of the school year.

THE SPORTING GENTRY

Swimmer's Hard Work Pays Off

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Denise Ham is a young swimmer who just seems to get better and better.

Denise, a 15-year-old sophomore at San Rafael High School, was among the top stars in the recent Marin County Double-A championships at Novato High. Winning two first places and four seconds, she was third highest point maker of the 400 swimmers entered from all parts of Northern California and highest Marin scorer.

She set a Pacific Association, Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) record in the 200-meter individual medley with a time of 2 minutes, 34.5 seconds, won the 200-meter breaststroke event, and was a member of the P.A. record-breaking 400-meter medley relay team from Marin Swim Club (time of 5:00.2).

She has been a member of the Marin Swim Club through its transition for the past five years. The club started out as the Ann Curtis Swim Club, changed to the Marin Pirates, then the Marin Swim Club.

She got her start in age-group swimming when 10 years old, during a family camping trip in Tuolumne County. A friend told her she should try age-group swimming, so she promptly enrolled at the Ann Curtis Swim school, run by former Olympic star Ann Curtis Cuneo.

"She has always been a hard worker," said Mrs. Cuneo, who has recently returned to an active role as coach for the Marin Swim Club, replacing Galen Hopkins who has resigned after hurting his back.

"She's a determined little youngster," said Mrs. Cuneo. "I remember when she started out she had trouble breathing properly in the water. I had no idea of the hidden talent she had. She made up her mind to make the team and did it. Now she has improved tremendously."

The 5-foot-6½-inch, blonde swim star says she doesn't have a steady boy friend, and no wonder with all the time involved in the routine of swimming practice daily and meets most weekends. The Marin Swim Club members practice twice every weekday at the Curtis School pool in Terra Linda, from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. and again at 5-7 p.m., plus Saturday mornings.

Miss Ham holds five Pacific Association AAU records and has been on relay teams which have established eight various national records in 13-14 and 15-17 age groups.

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Ham of 339 Riviera Drive, San Rafael. Her father has a hearing aid franchise, serving Solano and Yolo counties.

Denise feels her best events are in butterfly and freestyle, although she does them all, combining the backstroke and breaststroke for the individual medley.

She plans to continue with age group swimming until out of the 15-17 class, which gives her another two full seasons of competition. That's more time to set more records, which will probably be coming in bunches.

Game Of Sorrows, Says Gary Player

The tough little South African waxed philosophical Thursday after cutting out a four-under-par 68 and taking the first-round lead in the $150,000 Tournament of Champions.

"When you're playing for fun, it's fun," Player said." "But when you're playing for money, well, that's something else. You always think you can do better.

ONLY ONE

"At the end of a tournament, there's only one man who is happy. Everyone else is unhappy."

Player, the defending titleholder, held a stroke lead over British Open champion Tony Jacklin and Australian Bruce Crampton going into today's second round as the foreign contingent dominated opening-day play in this prestige-laden event.

Three-time champion Arnold Palmer headed a group of four tied at 70, two-under-par on the plush, 7,114-yard La Costa Country Club course. The others are Dale Douglass, Lee Trevino and Frank Beard.

Jack Nicklaus and Masters champion Billy Casper were in a group at 71.

Player, one of four men to sweep all the world's major golf titles, had it six-under-par until he bogeyed two of the last three holes.

'EXCITED'

"I was so excited, so charged up, I guess I kind of rushed it a little," said Player, who has won over $61,000 in just six weeks on the America tour.

"It was a lousy finish," he said. "But golfs' a funny game. When you make a mistake, you have to take your punishment."

He three-putted 16 when he lifted his head on his second putt and bogeyed 18 from a trap. "I tried to rush my second shot," he said.

He had three deuces and reeled off one string of four consecutive birdies.

"I could have had a 63 and should have had a 66 at the very worst," he said. "I'm playing the best golf of my career."

FAST START

Palmer started with a rush, turning the front nine in a five-under par 31 before, as he said derisively, "I got back on my game."

He double - bogeyed the 10th when he left it in a fairway trap, bogeyed the last two and limped home with a fot 39.

Sharon Walsh Wins Opening Net Match

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, national girls' 18 champion, scored an easy win over 10th ranked Tam O'Shaugnessy of Fullerton, 6-1, 6-2.

San Domenico School's Bee Kilgore and doubles team of Darby Auerbach and Pam Winslow advanced to today's semi-finals with shutout wins.

West Is Unanimous NBA All-Star Pick

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry West, Willis Reed, Walt Frazier and Billy Cunningham, a quartet of familiar names, and newcomer Connie Hawkins were named today to the National Basketball Association's 1969-70 All-Star team.

West, Los Angeles' high-scoring guard, picked for the sevesth time, was the only unanimous selection announced by Commissioner Walter Kennedy. The squad was selected by a panel of sports writers and sportscasters in the league's 14 member cities.

Reed, center on New York's Eastern Division champions, and Frazier, the Knicks' aggressive guard, made it for the first time. Cunningham, Philadelphia's standout forward, made it for the second time.

Hawkins has the distinction of making all-star teams in both the NBA and the American Basketball Association. The catquick forward was on all-star teams in the ABA while with the Pittsburgh and Minnesota franchises and was the league's most valuable player last year.

Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati's longtime star recently traded to Milwaukee, missed the first team for the first time since he turned pro in 1960.

The Big O, acknowledged as one of the game's all-time great guards, was joined in the second team by forwards John Havlicek of Boston and Gus Johnson of Baltimore, center Lew Alcindor of Milwaukee and guard Lou Hudson of Atlanta.

West was the first unanimous selection since Wilt Chamberlain, then with the Philadelphia 76ers, in 1968.

Three men who made the first team last year missed out completely this year—Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles, and Wes Unseld and Earl Monroe of Baltimore.

NO EASY RIDERS HERE

It's all hard work and Dan Davies (24y) and Mike Richardson (222z), both of San Rafael, shown in recent race with Squire Tomasie (left) of Tacoma, Wash. will be in action at Vallejo Speedway tonight in J. C. Agajanian's 21-event short-track motorcycle racing program which starts at 8:30. More than 100 riders will compete on the one-quarter mile clay oval, including Russ Powell of San Rafael in the expert division.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

See-Saws Are For Kids And Yanks' Danny Cater

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

See-saws are for kids but Danny Cater rode a dandy one in Washington this week.

Cater is one of the new-look hitters who are supposed to make New York Yankee fans remember the good old days. And he did a pretty good job of just that Thursday night, ripping four hits and driving in three runs in New York's 11-6 romp over Washington.

It was the third time in the four-game series against the Senators that Cater had collected three or more hits. But oh, that fourth game. Danny was 0-for-8 in the 18-inning marathon Wednesday night.

Cater went into the Washington series batting .268 on 11 hits for 41 tries—adequate but hardly exciting. Then three hits Monday and three more Tuesday boosted his average to .340—much nicer company.

Just as Cater was enjoying the see-saw ride up, he went down but fast. The 0-for-8 marathon horsecollar cost him 47 points and he was back down in the mundane world of .293 hitters. Then came Thursday's 4-for-6 and back up to .328.

Cater and Bobby Murcer handled a hefty share of the Yankee offense with seven of New York's 15 hits. The Yankees also collected 10 walks.

New York hopped into a 5-0 lead but it was wiped out by the Senators with three of Washington's runs coming on a booming Frank Howard homer.

Then the Yankees pecked away, rebuilding their lead and rookie John Cumberland came out of the bullpen to earn his first major league victory with 6 1-3 innings of airtight relief.

In the only other games played Thursday, Pittsburgh downed Atlanta 8-6 and Chicago topped Minnesota 7-5. The scheduled Cincinnati at St. Louis game was rained out.

Bill Mazeroski's three-run double keyed a five-run Pittsburgh explosion in the seventh inning and then the Pirates survived an Orlando Cepeda grand slam to beat the Braves.

Manny Sanguillen drove in three runs for the Pirates with a homer and a single and Hank Aaron hit his 560th career homer for the Braves.

It was Pittsburgh's fourth straight victory and the sixth straight loss for the Braves.

Bobby Knoop cracked a home run and Minnesota reliever Ron Perranoski's throwing error gave Chicago two runs, helping the White Sox trim the Twins.

Knoop's eighth inning homer tied the score at 4-4 for Chicago and then the White Sox scored three more runs—two of them when Perranoski threw Luis Aparicio's bunt into left field. Aparicio raced all the way to third on the play and scored a moment later on a sacrifice fly.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Spot bowling is worthless without knowing if you are or are not hitting the target. Pick a target spot and watch it at the beginning of your approach. But be certain the ball actually goes over that spot.

Pena Important Part Of A's 'New' Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Players obtained in trades have been the ones keeping the Oakland Athletics within sight of first place in the American League West baseball race.

However, none has been more important than a 5-foot-10 bouncing Latin named Roberto Pena.

.342 AVERAGE

Pena, obtained from San Diego for utility infield duty, carried a .342 average into tonight's game at New York.

Chuck Dobson, 0-3, is scheduled to open the series on the mound for the A's, who were off Thursday. Stan Bahnsen or Mel Stottlemyre will go for the Yankees.

There was little fanfare when Pena, 30, came to the A's. But the singles hitter has had a hot bat since replacing the injured Bert Campaneris at shortstop.

In 10 games, he has hit safely in 13 of 38 trips to the plate.

"Roberto," Alou remarked recently, "is like most latin hitters. He's aggressive.

"We didn't go to instructional schools. We just swing the best way we can, quick, before we have to start thinking."

Pena made it to the majors briefly with the Chicago Cubs in 1965 and with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1968.

He went to San Diego in the expansion draft and hit .250 while appearing in 139 games last season.

The Padres wanted younger players and the A's needed a utility infielder.

"We also heard," says A's Manager John McNamara, "that he could make the bat talk."

"They don't cheat me out of my swing," says Pena. "It's no sense to take a lot of pitches. I go for anything I think I can handle."

ANYWHERE

Pena is willing to play anywhere on the field, and usually can.

"Last winter in the Dominican I managed our country's all-stars against the imported American players," says Alou. "Pena caught the last two innings and did a good job. We won 4-3."

"I played 19 games at first base for San Diego," Pena put in proudly. He was one of the shortest players on the team.

McBean Rejoins Pirates; Gals Reach Finals In Golf

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates have signed Al McBean, formerly a mainstay on the pitching staff, and to make room for him sent Gene Garber to their Columbus farm team.

The Pirates also reactivated Bob Moose, who has been on military duty, and sent Lou Marone to Columbus to make room on the roster for him.

Moose, who was 14-3 last season, was slated to make his first appearance of the current season Friday night, as the starter against the Atlanta Braves.

McBean played for the Pirates eight years before he was picked up by the San Diego Padres in the expansion. The Los Angeles Dodgers acquired him early last year, but let him go before the start of the current campaign.

Trout Season Preview And How To Catch 'Em

By AL GIDDINGS

With the general trout season rolling around in another week, this might be a good time to review the changes this year regarding opening dates, limits, new laws and scheduled plantings prior to the season.

The Fish and Game Commission this year opened the lakes and reservoirs in 13 counties, including Marin, to year-round fishing. This included Rodeo Lagoon of southern Marin, the lakes in the Pt. Reyes National Seashore and other private lakes in the county.

The Marin Municipal Water District lakes were also opened, but because of road access and other problems, the MMWD kept its lakes closed to the public, but will open them on the regular trout season opening May 2.

The streams in Marin also will be open May 2-Nov. 15. The limit on trout from May 2-Nov. 15 will be 10 per person throughout the county.

GENERALLY, throughout the state trout season will open May 2 with a limit of 10 prevailing, but there are so many different situations in some counties that you should pick up a 1970 sport fishing regulation booklet for a checkup on your favorite area.

In Marin, Phoenix and Lagunitas reservoirs will be stocked prior to the May 2 opening. Rodeo Lagoon, which is already open, has been stocked since March 1 and will be stocked again. The limit has been 5 trout here, but will change to 10 on May 2.

Bon Tempe Reservoir is being bluestoned, so it will be stocked later.

SAN FRANCISCO'S Lake Merced also will open May 2. It has been amply stocked and pre-season sampling indicates there are lots of fish for the opener. Permits are $1 per season or 25 cents per day at lake headquarters. Boats can be rented and shore fishing is okay.

Other waters which will open May 2 and which will be stocked are: Alameda County — Alameda Creek ; Lake County — Anderson Creek, Kelsey Creek and Lake Pillsbury; Mendocino County — Cleone Lake and the east branch of the Russian River; Monterey County —Upper and lower Arroyo Seco, Big Sur River, Carmel River, Los Padres Reservoir and the upper Naciento River; Napa County — Hennessey Lake, Lake Berryessa (open all year); San Mateo County — Gozos and Pecadero creeds; Sonoma County — Lake Ralphine (open all year).

PERHAPS THE question, "How does one catch a trout?" might come up.

Well, there are several ways, but lets start from the beginning.

First of all, trout live in the fresh water streams and lakes of California almost everywhere, unless the waters are polluted or too warm.

We have trout in the lakes and reservoirs and streams throughout Marin County. In these waters, most of the fish are taken using a fly rod, a spinning rod or a casting rod using the correct weighted line for the individual rod and reel and using light leaders usually from one and one-quarter pound test to no more than four pound test.

The best hook sizes are between numbers 8 and 12.

USING FLIES, lures or bait hooks is one's own choice. Probably most of the fish are taken using slamon eggs, but worms and articifial lures (spinners, wobblers, etc.) are all good.

And some of the fly fishermen enjoy only their way. I prefer using a fly rod, a fly line and a single egg on a No. 10 hook with a nine-foot tapered leader down to one and one-quarter pound test. Roll cast this (no sinker) and you will have a ball on trout taking the bait with this light gear. The trout must be close to the shoreline as is the case at both Lagunitas and Phoenix lakes.

Other anglers using spinning rods or casting rods use a small sinker on a light leader with one, two or three hooks (No. 10s) baited with eggs, worms, etc. With this outfit, longer casts are possible in lakes with shallow shorelines. Up in the Sierra, I like to use a fly rod and reel with three pound test monofiliment, then strip casting 30 or so coils, castout to the deeper waters or away from the boat.

I use a small sinker, or none at all if I use roe clusters or a whole nite crawler, which is enough weight to ake the line out without a sinker. This way you get all the fighting action of the fish.

Fishing in streams and rivers requires gear adopted to the particular stream. In fast flowing rivers, sinkers are almost essential to getting the bait to the bottom.

In slow creeks and rivers, actually sneaking up on a hole or a log or alongside a tree requires practice and skill. Once you scare the fish, usually that is it for the day with that particular fish.

And jerking the line with a fish on may put the fish plus the line up over a bush, where a minor logging operation may bee the only way to retrieve your fish.

But it's all fun. Get your license and the two trout stamps required to be legal, stay within the trout limits and join the rest of the nuts at one hour before sunrise at 5:16 a.m. on Saturday, May 2 and you'll know you're still alive.

THIS DAY IN SPORTS

Wayne, Wayne Go Away, Sing Hawks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wayne, Wayne go away, please come back another day? If the Chicago Black Hawks want to parody the familiar refrain today, you couldn't really blame them.

Wayne Carleton and Wayne Cashman contributed key goals Thursday night to lead Boston over Chicago 5-2 for a commanding 3-0 lead in their National Hockey League playoff series.

The best-of-7 East Division finals continue Sunday in Boston.

In West Division play, Pittsburgh downed St. Louis 3-2 to cut the Blues' margin to 2-1 in their best-of-7 set. They resume Sunday in Pittsburgh.

After Chicago took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Cliff Koroll's goal, Carleton took a pass from Eddie Westfall and tied the score on a 20-footer at 8:50.

The Teams traded goals, then Cashman shot the Bruins into a never-headed 3-2 lead a little more than six minutes into the second period.

The Bruins were leading 4-2 in the early minutes of the final session when Keith Magnuson took a pass from Stan Mikita, came in all alone and unleashed a point-blank shot at goalie Gerry Cheevers.

But the Boston goalie got his glove in front of the shot and the save seemed to take the sting out of the Black Hawks.

"That was a big stop . . . a big stop," exulted Boston Coach Harry Sinden. "We weren't playing all that well. If Magnuson had got that goal, I don't know if we could have snapped out of it and held them.

Rookie Michel Briere, a 150-pound center, scored a goal and added an assist as Pittsburgh scored three goals in the first two periods, then held off last-period thunder by St. Louis.

"Altogether I think it was the best game we've played," said Briere. "If we get them Sunday, we'll win it in four games."

Collegiate Scholarly Baseball

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—College baseball players who score hits in the classroom will be honored this year.

President Tom Rowen of the National College Baseball Writers' Association announced today the establishment of the first Academic All-American College Baseball Team.

Rowen, of the San Jose Mercury-News, asked that nominations be sent to him.

The selection committee will include W.P. "Dutch" Fehring of Stanford, president of the United States Baseball Association of College Baseball Coaches' Olympic Games Committee; and Sal Taormina, University of Santa Clara baseball coach.

Nominees must have had a 3.0 average scholastically amounting to a straight "B". The team will be announced Monday, June 15 during the College World Series at Omaha, Neb.

Sanders Continues His Golfing Slide

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A talented bunch of golf tour leftovers charged after the Tallahassee Open's $10,000 top prize Thursday while a giant of the past —Doug Sanders — continued to suffer with a fat 76.

Sanders is tied for 92nd place and must fight even making the cut in the $50,000 "satellite" event to the hero-packed Tournament of Champions being played in California.

Caps Looking Forward To Home Court

DENVER (AP) — Coach Al Bianchi and his Washington Caps are looking forward to returning to their home court afted Denver grabbed a 3-2 edge Thursday night in their Western Division American Basketball Association semifinal series with a 132-110 victory.

The home team has won each game to date in the best-of-seven series. The sixth game is set for Saturday in Washington, with the seventh -- if necessary — to be played Tuesday in Denver.

The Denver-Washington contest was the only ABA playoff action scheduled Thursday night.

Two games are on tap tonight. The Indiana Pacers, leading 3-0, can close out their Eastern Division semifinals with a victory over the Carolina Cougars at Raleigh, N.C. The Los Angeles Stars and Dallas Chaparrals, knotted at 2-2 in the west, meet in the fifth game at Dallas .

Kentucky and New York, also tied at 2-2 in the Eastern Division, mark time until Sunday when they clash at Louisville.

Spencer Haywood again was the big gun in Denver's victory over Washington, pouring in 38 points and hauling down 20 rebounds. He was matched in the scoring department by the Caps' Rick Barry, who also grabbed off 17 rebounds, a personal season high.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Democracy Is Wonderful, But It Just Doesn't Help Player

Democracy is a wonderful thing, but it doesn't always help you choose the right play. If you held a rapid poll in the middle of today's hand, for example, you might discover that 36 per cent of you wanted to finesse, 34 per cent wanted to play high and 30 per cent wanted to go home and hide. To find the right play, you must begin at the end.

Opening lead — ♡ Q

RETURNS HEART

East won the first trick with the ace of hearts and returned a heart. South ruffed, drew two rounds of trumps and then began on the clubs.

The first few club plays were easy. The correct technique is to lead a low club to dummy's king, return a low club to the ace and then lead South's last club toward dummy. With any luck, the jack appears early, and there is no problem.

In this case, however, the jack does not appear, and South must decide whether to play the queen or the ten from the dummy. Here is where the average player would conduct an election or toss a coin.

WISE CHOICE

When the hand played, declarer was Mrs. Valerie Calamaro, Los Angeles bridge expert and table tennis enthusiast. Looking to the end, Mrs. Calamaro saw that the finesse could not possibly lose.

If West had the jack of clubs, the finesse would succeed, and declarer could discard a diamond on the queen of clubs. If East had the jack of clubs, he would win the third club trick but would then be end-played. If East returned a diamond, dummy's king would win a trick; and if East returned a heart, dummy would ruff while South discarded a diamond; and in either case declarer would discard a diamond on dummy's queen of clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♡ Q J 9 6 3
◆ Q 10 8
♣ J 9 8 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts.

This promises very strong trump support (at least four cards, often more) with a side singleton or void suit and not more than nine points in high cards.

Pleads Innocent To Having Pot

William Paul Lipps, 29, of Fairfax, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana. A preliminary hearing was set for May 26.

Lipps was arrested in a Fairfax residence in which he was house-sitting for two friends who had been arrested on suspicion of setting up a mail order drug business.

Police said they noticed a heavy odor of what appeared to be marijuana in the house when they returned in connection with the other case, and after obtaining a search warrant, they returned and found about seven ounces of suspected pot.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, April 24, the 114th day of 1970 with 251 to follow.

The moon is between its full stage and last quarter. The morning star is Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

In 1704 the first regularly printed American newspaper, the Boston News-Letter was published by John and Duncan Campbell.

In 1877 northern rule of the South in the post-Civil War days ended when President Rutherford Hayes ordered federal troops out of New Orleans. Orleans.

In 1967 Soviet Cosmonaut Vladimir Kamarov was killed when his re-entry parachute snarled following an orbital space flight.

A thought for the day: British cleric John Tillotson said, "They who are in the highest places, and have the most power have the least liberty, because they are the mose observed."

Guilty Verdict In Drug Trial

A Marin Superior Court jury of 12 women yesterday convicted Terry Bartlett Samuels, 29, of Marin City, of felony counts of possessing heroin and cocaine.

Visiting Judge Thomas Kongsgaard of Napa County who heard the case, set sentencing for June 25 at 4:30 p.m.

Samuels was arrested in Sausalito last Aug. 3.

The case was prosecuted by Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony and Samuels was defended by attorney Carl B. Shapiro.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

Box Factory Moving Southward On Bay

A new multimillion-dollar plant to make corrugated shipping boxes will be constructed in the Central Bay Industrial Park at Union City, southern Alameda County by Owens-Illinois, Inc.

The new plant will replace the 30-year old box plant at Seventh and Terminal streets, Oakland where the company's lease expires at the end of this year. Completion is scheduled for October and the plant will have the capacity to produce 600 million square feet of corrugated board a year, employing aboue 130 persons on an annual payroll of over $1 million.

COMMERCE CLEARING HOUSE, INC. has reported sales for the quarter ended March 31 at $13.6 million, compared to $11.4 million a year ago. Earnings were $1,339,991 or 37 cents a share - up from $874,421 or 24 cents a share in 1969. The company will move its western regional headquarters from San Francisco to Northgate in Marin County.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE directors have approved a multimillion-dollar modernization program of its 40-year old building - a Chicago landmark. The program will include replacement of existing heating and air conditioning and electric power systems, revision of the elevator system, development of rental areas in the building and exterior improvements.

BOISE CASCADE CORP. has reported a net income of 60 cents per common share for the first quarter, compared to 66 cents for last year's first quarter, a decrease of 9 per cent. Net income was down from $19.6 million to $17.6 million.

CONSOLIDATED FOODS CORP. set records in both sales and earnings in the first nine months of its fiscal 1970 year. Sales at $1,193 million were up from $1,096 million a year ago. Profits reached $38.6 million, a 6.5 per cent increase over last year's $36.2 million.

HOLIDAY AIRLINES, Oakland has elected William R. Boyd president and director. He has been an officer of several air carriers for the past 22 years, including World Airways, Continental Airlines and Airlift International. He left the latter firm as president and director in 1969 to form his own air transportation consulting firm; Holiday has been among his clients.

ITEK CORP. has reported sales of $33.7 million for the first quarter, compared with $37.4 million for the same period last year. But earnings rose from $954,000 or 41 cents a share a year ago to $998,000 or 42 cents a share this quarter. Operating income from commercial divisions more than offset lower income from government operations.

BLACK AND DECKER MANUFACTURING CO., the world's largest power tool manufacturer, has reported net sales and earnings for the second quarter and first half of fiscal 1970 as the highest in company history. Directors have recommended a three-for-two split of the common stock and have indicated a 10 per cent increase in the cash dividend to 22 cents quarterly on the newly split shares may be expected in the fourth quarter.

CUTTER LABORATORIES, Berkeley had first quarter sales of $16.8 million, a 20 per cent increase over the $14 million attained last year. Net earnings for the quarter were $690,000, or 33 cents per share, compared with $597,000 or 29 cents per share last year.

B. F. GOODRICH CO. achieved record sales of $304 million for the first quarter, an increase of 2.7 per cent over the previous year. But net income for the first quarter decreased 19.1 per cent to $7.9 million from last year's $9.8 million. Per share income was 55 cents, down from 68 cents a year ago.

NEW PRESIDENT — Directors of the Georgia-Pacific Corp. of Portland, Ore., has elected William H. Hunt to the corporation presidency. He moves up from the executive vice president post in the plywood, gypsum and distribution divisions of the company. (UPI Telephoto)

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI)—Gibraltar Financial Corp. and Wesco Financial Corp. have agreed to merge on the basis of exchanging 1.2 share of Gibraltar for each share of Wesco. Both firms are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Stock Market Remains On Minus Side

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 2 p.m. one hour before the final bell, was down 2.17 to 748.42. At noon it had been down 1.63 after being down 3.56 in early trading.

Declines narrowed their lead over advances to about 200 issues. Trading was moderately active.

Analysts, who had earlier predicted a reversal of the market's downtrend because of heavy selling in previous sessions, said there was resistance to a rally of any sort. They said the upswing encountered general pessimism from investors and some lightening of portfolions prior to the weekend.

Price changes among key issues were mostly fractional with several ranging between one point and two points.

Latrobe Steel was off 1⅞ to 10⅞ after a company announcement Thursday that first quarter earnings were sharply lower than a year ago and that it would omit its second quarter dividend.

Newmont Mining, down 2⅛ to 32, was the most active issue on the New York Stock Exchange. A 181,300-share block of Newmont was traded at 31, off 3⅛.

Other late prices on the New York exchange included Aetna Life, down ¾ to 39¼; Telex, down ¼ to 96¼; American Telephone, up ¼ to 49; Leasco Data, up ⅛ to 13¼; General Motors, down ⅝ to 69¼; Xerox, up ¼ to 83⅜; and Memorex, down 1½ to 95½.

Bankamericard Corp. Declares Dividend

LOS ANGELES (BW)—A regular quarterly dividend of 55 cents a share on the capital stock of Bankamerica Corp. has been authorized by the corporation's directors.

The dividend, which is at the annual rate of $2.20 per share, is payable May 29 to shareholders of record April 30.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Dividends Not Main Factor To Consider

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I own shares of Thomas Industries and Quaker Oats. Thomas has distributed several stock dividends and paid a cash dividend every year. Since Quaker's dividend is not much, should I sell it and buy more Thomas?—C.B.

A. Cash dividends for Quaker and Thomas both yield 2.1 per cent. While a stock dividend is attractive, an investment decision should not be made on this factor alone.

Thomas' good earnings growth was interrupted in 1969 when profits were adversely affected by plant start-up costs and a strike. The outlook for 1970 is obscured by tight money and reduced consumer buying. However, Thomas should maintain its leading industry position through active product development and promotional programs.

While cereal is still Quaker's best-known product line, the company has completed acquisitions which will not only add to sales and earnings but will broaden consumer markets. The most important of these, Fisher-Price, a producer of preschool games and toys, places OAT in an intensely competitive market with a highly regarded product line. Other expansion areas include frozen foods and gourmet prepared food items. Established products such as pet foods are continuing their healthy uptrend. Hold both for long-term growth.

Q. I am interested in forming an investment club. Are there any figures available on the investment success of such groups?—N.P.

A. According to the National Assn. of Investment Clubs, which represents about 25 per cent of the 60,000 clubs in the country, members have fared well. A survey conducted in February 1969, revealed that of those which responded 90 per cent showed a profit over the life of the club and 92 per cent outperformed Standard & Poor's Industrials in 1968.

The NAIC, a volunteer organization, had, by the end of 1969, 13,797 clubs enrolled with portfolios valued at $360 million. Founded in 1951, this nonprofit organization offers assistance to groups interested in forming clubs. Plane Rental Franchise Field Grows

NEW YORK (UPI)—Renting an airplane soon may be almost as easy as renting a car and not much more expensive if you have a flying license.

It can be done already in the midwest, in California and a few areas in the East at prices as low as $11 a day and 11 cents a mile although the average prices are well above that.

A Chicago frim called Lease-A-Plane International, Inc., has pioneered a service on a franchised basis and has five centers in operation now. It plans to have 125 by 1975.

Hertz tried a similar rent-a-plane scheme some years ago but decided it was premature and gave it up. But Burt Greenfield, his son, Steve, and his son-in-law, Jim Johnson, have got off to a flying start. They expect to have new franchisees in New York, Baltimore, Denver and San Francisco within six months.

Their plan calls for franchise investments, including aircraft investments, ranging from $440,000 to $1.1 million, much of it financed at as little as 10 per cent down.

Rates charged by Lease-A-Plane are considerably cheaper than the usual independent rental airplane agency rates. The independents charge $15 an hour for a single engine plane, ranging up to $60 or more an hour for a large plane. Customers usually have to pay straight time while waiting to take off, too, which can waste a lot of money. The Lease-A-Plane plan avoids that.

Marin Agriculture Income Increases

The gross value of the entire Marin County agricultural industry last year rose to $15,502,000—a 9 per cent increase over the 1968 figure of $14,135,100.

County Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard reported that the combined livestock industry continues to represent about 90 per cent of the total gross value, of which nearly 70 per cent is derived from milk production alone. The latter totaled $11,120,000 in 1969, compared with $10,064,000 in 1968.

Cattle gained in dollar volume—$2,344,000 from $2,079,000, but the number of head remained virtually the same—21,000. The value of lambs dropped $1,000 to $237,000; hogs and pigs increased in value from $42,000 to $49,500; chickens dropped from $156,000 in 1968 to $148,000 in 1969.

Wool production was down 18,400 head, but valuation increased to $47,300 from $41,000 in 1968. Egg production was up from $174,00 to $191,000.

In field crops, the harvested value of pasture lands remained the same at $435,000. Hay and grain moved up from $158,000 to $221,000. Barley, oat and wheat crops (not counted in 1968) amounted to $47,600. Fruit and nut crops increased from $24,000 to $27,000, with about 10 more acres harvested than in 1968.

Total nursery crops dropped from $542,700 to $531,100—about where it was in 1967. The biggest decrease was in cut plants.

New Attacks Launched On Your Right To Know

The public's right to know how its public business is conducted is difficult to preserve.

Some legislators take it seriously, and fight to extend it—or rather, in most cases, to win back the right in areas where it has been eroded away or legislated away.

Side by side with their bills are always measures introduced by other legislators to further hide the spending of public money.

BILLS TO CLOSE the books and shut the doors so the people won't know what's going on in their government and what's being done with their tax money often have the support of government groups themselves—for motives which cannot help being questioned. For instance, when Assemblyman Ralph M. Brown introduced what became the Ralph M. Brown Act, California's open meeting law, he found it opposed by the League of California Cities. And some departments of state government fought against Assemblyman William T. Bagley's open records bill.

Often, other special interests enter the picture.

IN THE STATE SENATE now is a bill, SB 1034 by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, which would allow closed meetings of public bodies to discuss acquisition or disposition of public property.

It is amazing that a state legislator would propose such a bill. Perhaps he is depending on the lack of knowledge of American history being as great among the legislators as it is among the general public—for most scandals that have rocked municipal government in this country over the centuries have involved shady property deals.

THE ONLY ARGUMENT usually heard in behalf of closed-door property acquisition is the feeble one that it may save the public money. The reverse is generally true.

In addition, the pretense that keeping property acquisition plans secret is the only way to keep an owner from hiking his price is false. If a city wishes to acquire property, it has only to file a notice of intention to condemn, and the valuation is frozen as of that date. And if it wishes to sell property, the law says it must do so by public bid, not by private dicker.

AN EVEN MORE BLATANT attack on the public's right to know is AB 2087 by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento. It would allow closed meetings on any matter exempted from the open books provisions of the Bagley Public Records Act—a list far longer than the "hiring, firing or hearing charges" which the Brown Act permits in camera.

While Assemblymen Bradley and Z'berg are trying to whittle away the public's right to know, however, Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-Hollywood, is trying to strengthen it. His AB 2442 would make all agencies receiving more than 50 per cent of their funds from public sources subject to the Brown Act.

The Marin-Sonoma Seventh Assembly District is fortunate in having as its representative Assemblyman Bagley, who can be counted on to fight for keeping public matters public. But he may need help in the form of letters from constituents to convince some legislators that the public really cares how its business is conducted.

An Extra Need This Year

The Marin County chapter of the American Cancer Society will open its annual fund drive tomorrow.

The work of the American Cancer Society, and the need for further cancer research, are too well known to need elaboration here. But this year, the need is increased by a cutback in federal appropriations for cancer research. This "squeeze" has flooded the cancer society with requests for funds for projects already under way, according to its national headquarters.

The Marin County volunteers seeking your donations for the war on cancer will thus be hoping for special generosity this year so that research can be stepped up instead of reduced.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Proposition 2 On June Ballot Affects Local Governments

This is the second of a series of stories on the eight propositions to be voted on June 2 in the primary elections. Others will follow.

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) Proposition 2 on the June 2 ballot is one of a series of constitutional revision changes recommended by the Constitutional Revision Commission, which has been trying for several years to modernize the state constitution.

The proposition revises that portion of the constitution having to do with formation and governing of cities and counties.

SIMILAR provisions were contained in Proposition 2, defeated by the people when they were submitted previously in a single package at the recommendation of the Constitutional Revision Commission. At that time, one reason given for the defeat was that the people rejected the whole package because it took from them the right to elect the state superintendent of schools.

Consequently, last year the legislature voted to resubmit most of the package, but in several propositions, so that if one was defeated, the others might not be and the job of revision could get under way.

The first section of the several proposed revisions deals with the local government sections of the constitution.

NEW PROVISIONS for county formation, boundary changes and county consolidations are involved, along with the change that the governing body of the county fix salaries of elected officials, rather than the legislature in non-charter counties. Many other changes are involved.

Proponents of the proposition contend that citizens who want stronger local government should vote "yes," as it gives local government more flexibility.

OPPONENTS hold that the basic dangers of the original submission of this proposition still remain. The argument against is written by Assemblyman Carlos J. Moorhead, R-Glendale, who says the proposal gives the legislator many new powers to "modify or change the firm, unalterable mandates of the people as they presently exist in the constitution."

He also says the proposal will give the legislature the power to establish regional government, which will have powers of taxation without approval by vote of the people.

It seems the Constitutional Revision Commission is having difficulty keeping the reins of government in the hands of the people.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Teacher Finds Editorial Obtuse

For some time I have been struck with the illogical and medieval quality of some of the editorial opinion your paper prints on the subject of education. Friday's (April 17) editorial, "Striking Against Children," was a prime example.

Your writer began by inveighing against "special classes" and teach-ins saying that the school year contains 175 days because "that is deemed the amount necessary for teaching the material to be covered." In point of fact the school year's length is a historical accident, stemming from a need in earlier years to have children free to help with the summer harvest. . .

To tell the truth, the whole emphasis placed on time by the writer's keep-them-in-their-seats philosophy has me mystified. I had thought that the passage of time, per se, was educationally enutral — otherwise inmates of federal prisons would be wiser than they are—and that it was what you did with the time you had that was the important thing. Perhaps I was wrong.

The writer then went on to liken an educational institution to a factory. "Everyone operating a shop or factory knows that he cannot shut it down. . .without reducing production." It's as though knowledge could be compared to endless cans of tomato soup coming off a conveyor belt. A worse analogy could hardly have been chosen. . .

Perhaps the most obtuse point of all was saved for last. Aimed at administrators who arrange minimum days for teachers to attend workshops and seminars, the writer said, "This is fine for the teachers. But it is not fine for the children. The classes must be telescoped. . .the children are shortchanged."

It ought to have been obvious to anyone that since these workshops and afternoon classes invariably go beyond the end of the normal teaching day, that teachers do not attend them for their private pleasure, but rather in order to become better and more imaginative teachers of those very same children to whose "defense" the writer is so righteously rallying.

Underlying the whole article I seemed to sense a vague fear that if the doors are flung open and alert teen-agers allowed a view outside, that they would then begin to ask questions about our society and why it is the way it is, questions that older folks would wish they didn't ask.

Enough of this Procrustean silliness!

Wandering Dogs May Save Lives

I live on one of the busiest streets in Mill Valley and wish to come to the defense of "loose dogs".

Motorists occasionally double the speed limit in front of our house. Without the fear that an animal could, at any time, run in front of their car I feel certain that speeding motorists would step up the pace.

It is reasonable to assume that our wandering dogs may indirectly be saving lives, especially the lives of some of our wandering children.

Candidate Hits At Free Speech

Fair minded people of both political parties should be shocked and disgusted at Rep. George Brown for attempting to deny Gov. Ronald Reagan his freedom of speech. At a student rally at Stanford, Representative Brown told the students to "give Reagan hell whenever he shows up here." His audience hardly needed lessons on how to deny others the same rights they demand for themselves.

Superintendent Thanks Voters

Residents of the Dixie School District on behalf of the board of trustees, the parents, the students, and the employees of the Dixie School District, please accept my sincere appreciation for the support you gave this school system on April 14 when you voted to increase your taxes to provide the district with additional operating funds and school construction monies.

We do, indeed, live in an unique community which values the education of its children very highly. I know I speak for all of us who work in Dixie when I say "Thank you." We feel privileged to work here and we reaffirm our pledge to continue to bring the finest education we possibly can to your children.

To Get Action, Find A Candidate

I certainly sympathize with Mina Woolverton of Corte Madera in connection with the dog menace in her community. My wife and I went through the same hassle here in Mill Valley with a vicious dog which attacked her and I and the various newspaper delivery boys in the area. We complained to the Humane Society on several occasions, received a courteous hearing but no action. Finally we read in the I-J that a certain gentleman was running for a county office and listed his qualifications as a director of the Humane Society. A telephone call to him brought action p.d.q. and we no longer have dog trouble. Moral of the story: Find a person who wants your vote and you will get action aplenty.

THE DRUMMONDS

Time Has Come For President To Name Successor To Lodge

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON—The time is at hand for President Nixon to return the Vietnam peace talks in Paris to a high level.

It would not be surprising to see Mr. Nixon take this step at a moment he deems opportune by naming a successor to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

That moment may be soon. There are some suggestive signs that Hanoi may be interested in serious negotiation before long. It would be well for us to be ready. It might well be desirable for the United States to give the additional signal that now is a good time to begin meaningful talks by filling the negotiating vacancy left by Lodge's resignation five months ago.

THERE IS REASON to assume that President Nixon's decision not to replace Lodge promptly was not because he couldn't find a suitable man. He could easily have found a good replacement. Therefore, the decision to leave the chair of his top negotiator vacant was deliberate.

There was a good reason in the President's mind for doing so.

It was clear to him that Hanoi was not interested in productive talks and that the North Vietnamese were not going to negotiate any settlement unless they could be shown that the United States had an alternative to the conference table and that they would in the end be worse off by not negotiating.

THIS IS WHY President Nixon left the Lodge seat vacant. He wanted to show Hanoi that he was not without another course of action even if the Paris talks were sterile. His alternative was Vietnamization and in his address to the nation this week he reported it has been working so well that he can withdraw 150,000 more U.S. troops in the next 12 months.

Thus Mr. Nixon was saying to Hanoi: if you don't want to end the war by negotiating, we will proceed vigorously to strengthen the South Vietnamese so they can defend themselves.

The time has come, we suspect, when the absence of a high level U. S. negotiator at Paris has served its purpose. The President was able to report that "progress in training and equipping South Vietnamese forces has substantially exceeded our original expectations."

The firsthand and independent observations of nongovernment experts, both foreign and American, confirm this judgment.

Now that the President has shown that Vietnamization is a workable policy and has demonstrated his own faith in it by scheduling substantial continued withdrawals, a strong case can be made that now is the time to fill the Lodge post with an experienced political representative of the White House.

Hanoi says it will deal only with such a person. The North Vietnamese might consider it face-saving not to have to give the first signal that they are ready to start serious negotiation. There is no reason we shouldn't make the first move by filling Lodge's seat soon, as an invitation to Hanoi.

QUITE PROBABLY Mr. Nixon already has in mind the man he would select to replace Ambassador Lodge. The only reason we cite possible candidates is to indicate good men are available.

A superb replacement would be the former governor of Pennsylvania, William Scranton, whom Mr. Nixon wanted to have as his secretary of state and who has since undertaken important diplomatic missions for the President. Or John J. McCloy who has served every President since Franklin Roosevelt and helped President Kennedy set up the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. Or former Secretary of State Dean Acheson who would serve the President with unsurpassed skill and loyalty.

There is no doubt that a good replacement for Lodge is readily within reach. The time may be near when he should be ready to go to Paris. It is now clear that Hanoi cannot win the war by playing on divisiveness within the United States. But it can achieve a reasonable settlement by negotiation—and achieve it sooner rather than later.

Japan Building Army Denied By Constitution

By FREDERICK NOSSAL
Toronto Telegram News Service

TOKYO (TNS) — Japan sits at the eastern edge of the Asian political volcano, watching it erupt day after day. Amid all the utopian talk at Expo '70 about progress and harmony for all mankind, the Japanese are taking a very realistic look at the Asia of tomorrow.

They see no choice but to rearm. The problem of defense is getting increasing attention. By next year, the so-called Japanese Self-Defense Forces will have 325,000 men.

Expenditures on defense are rising by leaps and bounds. Within two years, Japan's annual defense spending will total over $2.7 billion, and the government plans to spend a total of around $13.8 billion during the fourth five-year defense program due to start on April 1, 1972.

A VARIETY of facts has persuaded Japan that she must boost the armed forces — the two most important being her booming economy and war weariness in the United States.

In terms of gross national product, Japan is now second after the United States, in the non-Communist world. Japan's GNP this year is expected to be near $200 billion and should reach $400 billion to $500 billion by 1975.

Despite their war-renouncing constitution, Japanese leaders feel they must have an army able to defend the nation's growing wealth. But because of continued opposition to arms spending among the Japanese public, the ratio of Japan's defence budget to its gross national product remains the lowest in the world. It is now about .9 of one per cent of GNP, and is expected to rise to around 1 per cent this year.

ARTICLE 9 in the Japanese constitution says: "The Japanese people forever renounce war as a sovereign right of the nation. In order to accomplish this aim, land, sea and air forces, as well as other war potential, will never be maintained."

The legal loophole through which the Japanese army came to grow is that the army is merely a defensive force, but even most Japanese themselves do not take this euphemism very seriously any longer.

JAPAN CAN hardly be blamed for its revamped defense policy. Wherever you look in Asia there is turmoil. South Korea and Taiwan, where Japan has mounting economic interests, faces the threat of armed action by North Korea and China.

The Sino-Soviet border talks in Peking seem to be getting nowhere, with both sides still afraid of an armed clash at some time. The United States is trying to disengage from Southeast Asia despite the fact that the conflict there — while not as intensive or bloody as during 1967 and 1968 — is gradually spilling from Vietnam into Laos and Cambodia.

There is constant social and political unrest in the Philippines, Indonesia, Burma, Malaysia, India and Pakistan.

Obviously then, as Asia's most affluent, most industrialized nation, Japan cannot afford to be without an arsenal of modern weapons, although for the time being the country is stopping short of nuclear arms.

Veterinarians' Prices Put Free Spaying Clinic Soundly To Sleep

A Mill Valley woman's drive to establish a low-cost or no-cost cat spaying clinic in Marin County to curb the feline population has run into opposition from veterinarians.

Margaret Y. Goodyear, who owns nine cats herself, proposed last November that such a clinic be set up, financed in part by a dollar-a-year tax on all cats in the county, to avoid making owners pay $30-40 to have them spayed.

But Dr. C.W. Owens, president of the Marin County Veterinary Medical Association, and Dr. C.J. Peetz of Corte Madera told a meeting of cat fanciers Monday at the Civic Center that such a clinic, at least on a mass-production basis, is unfeasible.

SPAYING is major surgery, they said, and factors such as anesthesia and pre- and post-operative care, as well as the surgery itself, make it so expensive that the price soon may be raised to $90.

The fanciers, including Mrs. Goodyear, and Jean Barnard, newly elected vice mayor of Mill Valley, thought this price was much too high.

But Dr. Gary M. Gourley of the Small Animal Clinic at the University of California, Davis, confirmed the prices. "Spaying is the most underpriced operation a veterinarian does," he said. "Some vets charge $15, but that's the lowest price you'll find. We charge $20 at the clinic."

PART OF the problem is the necessity of removing the animal's uterus and ovaries to complete the job. Some vets simply tie the fallopian tubes, which takes but a few minutes. This prevents pregnancy, but does not eliminate the yowling of the cat, the wandering during mating season, and similar problems.

Even if only a few operations a day could be done at a clinic, Mrs. Barnard said, that would be a start. The group strongly expressed the thought that something had to be done.

Most of them felt, however, that Mrs. Goodyear's proposal to make the $1-a-year cat tax voluntary wouldn't work. An alternate suggestion mentioned was to finance the program for those who couldn't afford to pay by charging the full price to those who could and earmarking part of that money for relief.

But no one could agree on who would decide who gets the cut price and who doesn't. The veterinarians said they didn't want any part of it.

The decision at the meeting's end to appoint a four-member committee to investigate further kept the whole idea from being swept under the rug.

April 17 Was Real Earth Day; Billboards Sprout For Ecology

Fusselman

Wednesday was Earth Day — right? No, wrong. Last Friday? Right! That day three courageous men from outer space landed their flying cone on this Earth of ours. That should be the only Earth Day we will ever celebrate from here on.

With all its mal-environmentalism, it was the grandest place in all the universe. Yes, April 17 should be the day. Did you choke up a bit and have a hard time holding back the tears as their wives and families clung to them? Well you were not alone. There were millions of us all around the world in the same fix. GOOD Friday? GOOD Earth Day? You bet.

SPEAKING OF environment: What goes with this fellow Peter Behr, who is running for high office? You saw the picture of his massive signboard on the front page of the I-J. "You ain't heard nothin' yet." The word is that he is plastering the landscape with them in all the three counties of the district — and without permission yet.

You remember him as the S.O.S. — Save Our Seashore — buff. If I remember rightly, when he was on the board of supervisors, he was all hot for conservation, including being against billboards. Now it's See Our Billboards Ecology? Environment? Oh, hum.

THAT FERRY BOAT that the Golden Gate Bridge people are going to buy has a price tag of $568,673. Paul Zucker and the transit district combined relieved you of $374,449 for the constant flow of rhetoric about transit. This comes within $194,224 of enough to buy the boat.

And did you spot Zucker's letter to the editor? He wanted to explain his decision to run. Says he, "Some people have suggested that I was wrong in seeking the office of Marin County supervisor without resigning my position as county planning director. I feel so deeply about the rightness about this decision that I believe your readers should receive this personal letter from me."

He showed a surprising lack of knowledge about our form of government. Note: "Our democratic form of government is in serious trouble because people increasingly feel that they can not participate in government — in serious trouble because many governmental officials feel they can no longer take the public into their confidence . . ."

Mr. Z. this is not a "democratic form of government." This is the Republic of the United States of America. Where have you been all this time?

He asks, "What does Marin County government have to hide?" Now let me ask, just how much have we known about what he was doing these past years that he has been on the job continually coming up with requests for more and more time to make more and more studies always nebulous?

I WOULD LIKE to publically thank Niels Schultz Jr. for his intelligent devotion to the affairs of the planning commission during those 14 years. It would be hard to find a more impartial, conscientious performance of duty than his has been. Well done, Niels. My personal thanks to you.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Good For Children Knitting, 'Feelies'

How very sad that the little boys at the Tamalpais Nursery School in Mill Valley weren't permitted to learn how to knit when they wanted to. I think the teacher missed a great opportunity to encourage her students to pursue their interests; after all, exploring one's interests is one of the first steps to creativity. Must these children with their beautifully open minds be taught to be afraid of people's ridicule if they do something as innocent as knitting? Some men have found knitting or similar pursuits very relaxing and a good way to spend "wasted" time (such as while riding a train).

Incidentally, the "feelies" sound like great fun. I do hope the girls have a chance to join in this asexual activity.

BCDC Guidelines On Mud Flats

Your comments as to the criticism by the BCDC of the most recently proposed plan for Richardson Bay indicate a lack of understanding as to the ecological and environmental importance of mud flats. In the "San Francisco Bay Plan Supplement" published by the BCDC in January, 1969, Dr. H. Thomas Harvey of San Jose State College, states:

"To conserve fish and wildlife, San Francisco Bay must have an adequate food supply and its waters must have an adequate supply of oxygen. This means that the marshes and to the fullest possible extent, mud flats must be maintained Filling and diking, which eliminates marshes and mud flats, should therefore be allowed only for purposes providing substantial public benefits and for which there are no reasonable alternatives. . .

"To offset possible additional losses of marshes due to filling providing substantial public benefits, and to augment the present marshes, the commission's plan for the bay should consider (a) restoring former marshes through removal of existing dikes, and (b) creating new marshes through carefully placed lifts of dredging spoils."

The above guidelines as set down by the BCDC obviously give great importance to the value of mud flats.

As to your second point, concerning the pollution of the mud flats, you must realize that this pollution is not due to the presence of mud flats, but to the surrounding cities' poor sewage systems, and the seemingly complete lack of enforcement of any sanitation laws in the houseboat colony.

Perhaps more concern about enforcement of sanitation laws would do more to clean up Richardson Bay than any deep channel" which would possibly clean up Richardson Bay, but would only carry the pollution to other more distant waters.

Jr. Fire Marshal Sticker Handy

Last fall some firemen came to our school and talked about fire safety. All of us in the kindergarten class were made junior fire marshals. We were given a red sticker with the number of the fire department to keep by our phone in case of emergency.

Last Saturday when the airplane crashed on our street in Peacock Gap my mother was the first to call the fire dept. because I put the sticker right by the telephone just like the fireman said.

It turned out to be very useful.

Candidate Deplores Advertising Cost

Last night's (April 21) paper implied that signs on my behalf were placed illegally in violation of state and county ordinances, more than 45 days before the primary and that I have consented to such violation. In order to make sure this would not occur, I specifically instructed my sign people not to place any signs outdoors prior to April 18, and checked to see that they did not. I also instructed them that signs were not to be placed anywhere in violation of the state or county laws.

I was not the first, second or even third candidate to have signs placed near roadways. In each election in recent years, such signs have proliferated and no action has been taken by the authorities to cause their removal . . .

It is regrettable that expensive political advertising has become such a large part of political campaigns. I would much prefer to be considered on my own merits, as would the other candidates for judge, and not be forced to blanket the county with signs, broadside mailings or media advertising . . .

Max Rafferty's Reading Gains

Recently U.S. Commissioner of Education James E. Allen noted with alarm that 25 per cent of our nation's adults are functional illiterates, and as many of 70 to 80 per cent of urban minority high school graduates are unable to read above third grade level.

Years ago, Max Rafferty recognized this as America's prime challenge in education. On his election as state superintendent of public instruction, he pledged to improve California's reading programs. In 1968 he was successful in bringing about adoption of the Lippincott primary readers stressing phonics and excerpts from great children's classics.

Dr. Rafferty's promise has been kept. An April 10 report to the State Board of Education showed a significant upward shift in the reading attainment of California children.

In my view this is Dr. Rafferty's most important achievement and deserves continuation.

Agrees, Disagrees On Campaigning

In answer to Paul Brindel's letter of April 18 . . . I agree in principle with his statement that county and city employees should not campaign on the taxpayer's time. This does not include, however, incumbent elected officials who must be allowed some freedom of action when running for re-election as long as it is not abused and their responsibilities are adequately covered by their subordinates.

I would like to point out that Ernest Zunino, one of the deputy district attorneys he mentioned and a candidate for municipal judge, has not and will not campaign at the tax payer's expense. All work on his campaign has been done by volunteers and any time that he will take off is accrued vacation time to which he is entitled.

As to Mr. Brindel's reference to the desirability of a prosecutor becoming a judge, may I point out that there is more than ample precedence for this including local Marin County residents such as Justice Sims and Judges Roth, Haley and McGuire who were all either District Attorneys or deputies at one point in their carreer.

I can think of no better way to strengthen the judicial attitudes of our courts, which we so desperately need, than to elect a man experienced in trying to protect society against the constant harassment by the dissident few and the lack of support the general public received from some of our courts.

Cambodia Reels Under 'Invasion'

Nixon Weighs Aid Plea

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — The White House declared today Cambodia was the victim of a "foreign invasion," saying that fighting there "cannot be considered" a civil war.

President Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the chief executive was "seriously concerned" about the presence of 40,000 North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia and still had under intensive consideration an urgent request of the Cambodian government for military assistance.

SOURCES UNNAMED

He was unable to say when Nixon would make a decision on the Cambodian appeal. At the same time he denied reports from Phnom Penh that already approved arms shipments to Cambodia included American munitions as well as captured Russian type AK47 automatic rifles.

He said there had been no recent communication between the United States and Russia on the Cambodian crisis.

MEETING DELAY

The President had postponed for a second time a National Security Council meeting to spend part of the weekend at Camp David, his western Maryland retreat.

The meeting was rescheduled for Monday. It previously had been set for Thursday morning.

Meanwhile, some top Pentagon officials are saying privately only swift and substantial military aid can prevent a Communist overthrow of the new Cambodian government.

Some high military officers, it was learned, favor lending a quick helping hand to the government of Premier Lon Nol which deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk several weeks ago.

The next four or five weeks ,it

Shot Misses Chiang Heir; Two Seized

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chiang Ching-kuo, eldest son and heir apparent to Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek, narrowly escaped a would-be assassin's bullet today when the shot went wild.

Chiang, a vice premier in his father's government, was entering a hotel to address a group of businessmen when a young man fired a shot at the 60-year-old Nationalist leader.

Police seized two men immediately and rushed them to a stationhouse for questioning. At least one of the apprehended men was an Oriental. Police identified him as Tzu-Tza Cheng.

Chiang, who had just flown here from Washington where he had met with President Nixon, was coming through the revolving glass door of the hotel when the shot was fired. It blew a large hole in the glass.

It was not immediately determined if the gunman had been part of a group of Formosans demonstrating outside the Plaza Hotel at the time of Chiang's arrival to address a luncheon. The Nationalist Chi-

PHNOM PHEN — The Cambodian government, battling for survival against 40,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops, took steps today to improve relations with neighboring Thailand and South Vietnam, themselves threatened by Communists.

The military situation remained serious. The Viet Cong have cut Phnom Penh off from the eastern provinces and moved into the Takeo sector 48 miles south of Phnom Penh, cutting off the capital from the big port of Sihanoukville to the south. The Cambodians were fighting to restore communications.

ROAD CUT

Elements of a Viet Cong force of 400 to 500 men broke into Ang Tassom, seven miles west of Takeo, today and cut north-south Highway 3. They also tried to dynamite a highway bridge across the Slaku River seven miles to the north but failed. Earlier they had cut the railroad and north-south Highway 2 near Takeo.

UPI correspondent David Stuart-Fox reported from Prey Veng Province, 40 miles east of Phom Penh, that Viet Cong forces attacked a Cambodian outpost near the highway today but that east-west Highway 1 leading from Phnom Penh to Saigon was still open at that point.

The Viet Cong set up a roadblock today a quarter of a mile north of Ang Tassom and fired at an automobile carrying Associated Press correspondent John Vinocur and photographer Mark Godfrey.

Drastic Preserve Area Cuts Urged

Fearful of a diminishing tax base, a Marin County study committee said yesterday it will recommend that the county's agricultural preserve area of more than 213,000 acres be reduced by more than one-half.

The preserve, enabled by 1965 state legislation, entitles struggling farmers who sign contracts with the county to reduce land assessments and also has the effect of delaying large scale development.

But the county's land conservation advisory committee, which had earlier cited abuses of the preserve by landowners not engaged in legitimate agricultural activities, said yesterday it would soon recommend to the board of supervisors that Marin's preserve be limited to the present 92,000 acres under contract.

Although the preserve totals 213,000 acres, more than 121,000 acres is merely designated as such and is not under contract. And the committee indicated yesterday this acreage should not be officially included in the preserve, pending a closer look at individual properties by the study group.

As for the 92,000 acres, the committee said it would recommend termination of contracts

Souza Wins In Fairfax Vote Recap

Robert R. Souza, former mayor and six-year council member, is back on the Fairfax City Council as the result of a ballot recount taken yesterday.

Albert E. Gately, who beat out Souza by three votes in the unofficial returns April 14, was out of office.

The city council will meet at 8 p.m. today to seat Souza.

Gately, and the other two winning candidates, Lee Nelder and Mayor Frank Egger, were seated Tuesday night, despite Souza's objections that no one should be seated until after the recount.

In the recount requested by Souza, he came out with 971 votes, seven ahead of Gately, according to City Administrator Frances Lestanguet.

Nelder dropped five votes from 992 to 987, Adelaide P. Wilson, a runnerup, gained one vote from 772 to 773, and James K. Henington gained two votes from 311 to 313.

Egger's tally of 1,043, highest ever polled by a candidate, remained the same as did the vote for Winston R. Curtis, 193.

Thus the recount vote was Egger, 1,043, Nelder, 987, and Souza, 971, all elected, and Gately, 964, Mrs. Wilson, 773, Henington, 313, and Curtis, 193.

San Franciscans For Bus-Ferry Proposal

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A committee of San Francisco supervisors, in a major break with their board's long opposition to Marin commuter buses, yesterday unanimously endorsed the Golden Gate Bridge District's plans for a joint bus and ferry system.

The resolution will go to the full board for its approval on Monday, thus clearing the way for the district to crank up its proposed $8 million, 132-bus system.

The city's police code bars commuter bus stops in the financial district, where two-thirds of Marin communters work, a ban that will be eliminated if the full board approves yesterday's resolution by the streets and transportation committee.

The three-member committee carefully avoided specifically endorsing the plans by the district, saying details of stops, routes and parking areas should be worked out by the city's planners, police and department of public works.

The committee's vote overrode objections from several speakers that it postpone action until mid-May to get the final report from the bridge district's ferry consultant. The consultant, Philip F. Spaulding, is to detail a ferry system for the district.

Five votes on the 11-member board appeared assured Monday: the three committee members plus two others present who represent the city of the bridge board. Thus, only two other votes would be needed to reverse the city's policy against commuter buses.

San Francisco's opposition to buses has moderated since a 1968 state law added its supervisors to the bridge board. Yesterday's plea by the bridge board, the second time the committee

BOLINAS-STINSON STRIFE

District's Education Quality Brings Wide Gap Of Opinions

By PAT ANGLE

(Second of three articles)

Ask any 10 residents of Bolinas and Stinson Beach how the new educational program, begun in September in Bolinas-Stinson School District, is working out and one is likely to receive 10 different answers, ranging from "marvelous" to "It's a mess."

The wide disagreement over the new methods, which focus on individual learning by students, each at his own rate of speed, has created innumerable headaches for just about everyone in the district, including teachers, parents and trustees.

The program had hardly started when many parents began voicing concern that the new ways of teaching would leave their children behind in vital subjects such as reading and math. Some, especially those with children in the upper grades and used to traditional school methods, were fearful their children would not learn at all if left to proceed at their own speed, without the firm direction of a teacher standing over them.

Today, seven months after the program was initiated, district parents are still widely split in their views on the individual approach to education. Some parents who have visited the schools this year are aghast at what they term "chaos;" others delighted by what they call "freedom."

A minority is totally opposed to what is happening and have called for a return to traditional three-Rs learning. A Stinson Beach man, so bitter about the

Sardinians Give Pope Big Welcome

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (AP) — Pope Paul VI today received a tumultous welcome of clanging bells, showers of gardenias and roaring cheers from half a million Sardinians in a visit to this Italian Mediterranean island.

Minutes after his jetliner touched down, the Pope announced he had come to reward Sardinia's miners, shepherds and others for their "age-old and proven fidelity" to hard work and Christian courage.

Later, surrounded by hundreds of thousands, the Pope conducted an open-air Mass before the Basilica of Our Lady of Bonaria, whose wooden image washed ashore here six centuries ago.

It was to honor this shrine, which sits on a rise above Cagliari harbor, and to mingle with the hardy and strongly Catholic Sardinians, that the Pope came on this ninth trip outside mainland Italy or his seven-year reign.

In a homily during the Mass, the 72-year-old pontiff hailed "a minor Pope"—Pontianus I — who died in exile on Sardinia in 235 A.D.

More than 100 persons were reported to have fainted during the Mass, celebrated under a burning sun. Ambulances carried away victims.

TURMOIL AT STANFORD—Anti-ROTC students, an estimated 100 strong, struggle to force their way into Stanford University's old student union building to start a sit-in against military training on campus. Sheriff's deputies, called in more than 12 hours after the demonstration started yesterday noon, swiftly arrested 32 persons and chased the rest away despite a hail of rocks and objects tossed by fleeing demonstrators. (AP Wirephoto)

Colleges Aboil—Blacks, ROTC

COMBINED AP & UPI

Students have demonstrated at more than a dozen colleges across the nation to support demands varying from an end to military recruitment on campus to increased opportunity for blacks. Some of the protests erupted in violence.

Sheriff's deputies broke up a sit-in protesting ROTC at Stanford University early today, swiftly making 22 arrests and causing dozens of others to flee the scene.

Some fleeing protestors returned to hurl rocks at officers and smashed stones through windows in three buildings causing thousands of dollars damage, a university spokesman said.

The sit-in occurred in the old student union building as the latest in a series of campus protests against plans to continue ROTC. Students narrowly voted in a recent ballot to retain ROTC despite its long attack by antiwar factions.

A total of 61 persons were arrested Thursday night as police used tear gas to disperse rock-throwing youths who tried to prevent them from ending an anti-ROTC sit-in at the University of Oregon in Eugene.

A later later breakin at a university building by about 18 persons following a rally attended by an estimated 2,000 students failed to gain crowd support and was quickly ended without arrest.

Eugene police, Oregon State Police and Lane County sheriff's deputies were brought to the campus at the request of UO President Robert Clark to remove the sit-in group. A squad of 20 National Guardsmen appeared briefly on campus but was promptly removed when it was determined a communications breakdown resulted in their being dispatched.

Gov. Tom McCall reported 200 guardsmen were standing by at the Eugene armory in case they were needed. He also said 80 state police officers were sent to Eugene.

The faculty at Yale College in New Haven, Conn., voted Thursday to give some support to a student strike called to protest the local trial of eight Black Panthers on charges of murder.

The administration said the student strike, now in its third day, was 50 to 75 per cent effective.

President Kingman Brewster Jr. told a faculty meeting, "I am skeptical of the ability of black revolutionaries to achieve a fair trial anywhere in the United States."

The disorders followed student demands for an increase in the number of Negro students and faculty members. College students also protested the failure of a local high school to meet demands of black pupils that two black girls be named to the five-member cheerleading squad.

Students demanding increased black and Puerto Rican studies programs held the dean of Wagner College, on Staten Island, N.Y., captive in his office Thursday for seven hours.

In Terre Haute, Ind., police broke up clashes between white and black students at Indiana State University.

Student leaders ended a class boycott begun last week at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., late Thursday when university officials agreed to end military recruitment on campus.

A strike leader said students would negotiate with the administration on their demands regarding the Reserve Officers Training Corps, classified research for the federal government and educational reform.

At Hobart College in Geneva, N.Y., President Beverly D. Causey Jr. announced a student referendum on ending the college ROTC program following a sit-in in his office by about 30 activists.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Reuther Reelected

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers for the past 24 years, was elected Thursday to another two-year term.

Reuther, a top labor leader longer than any other current union officials in the nation ,will be eligible under the union constitution to run for only one more term. He is 62 years old and the union prohibits the election of anyone 65 and older.

Claiming Support

MIAMI (AP) — Discounting Fidel Castro's claim that an invasion force has been crushed, militant exiles say their guerrillas are still fighting in eastern Cuba and are winning support from their countrymen.

Alpha 66, the Miami-based exile organization that launched the expedition one week ago, said Thursday night "the war of liberation has started, and the flame of freedom will not die" in Cuba.

Dismisses Plots

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The government put down two plots this week, by a few military officers supporting ex-dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla, and President Carlos Lleras Restrepo said they were of "no importance."

"The situation of public order in the country is now normal," Lleras declared Thursday night.

Informed sources saw that after Rojas was declared the loser in last Sunday's presidential election, four officers at the Tolemeida army base 75 miles southeast of Bogota tried to start a revolt Monday.

Backing Abortions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Robert W. Packwood, the Oregon Republican who is making the population one of his top issues, has introduced legislation that would legalize abortion nationwide.

The freshman senator said "no state has the right to say to a woman that she cannot have an abortion anymore than it has the right to tell her she must have an abortion."

Home Interest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board has reported the average interest rate on conventional mortgages for new houses was 8.51 per cent in March, up one-tenth of 1 per cent over February.

The FHLBB, which regulates the nation's Saving and Loan institutions, also said Thursday rates on used houses rose to 8.48 per cent from 8.41 per cent.

New ORTHO® 3-Way Rose and Flower Care is a fertilizer, a systemic insecticide and an effective weed killer, all in the same cannister.

The systemic action means that all you do is sprinkle the granules around the base of your plant, work into the soil and water. Your flowers absorb the fertilizer to make them healthier and more beautiful. And they also absorb the insecticide through the roots to protect them from the inside out. Flowers grow strong and big. And aphids, mites and sucking insects that come to feed, die. Food and protection. For up to six weeks. Inside, where it can't wash away. And at the same time, the weed killer will be at work in the soil at the base of the plant, killing weeds as they germinate.

This whole health plan costs only pennies a plant. The five-pound Cannister is only $3.49.

Your flowers will love you for it.

Frustrating Raid On Bay Drydocks

A swarm of federal, state and Marin drug agents plus a Sausalito policeman, health inspectors, fish and game officials and a deputy county counsel put out to sea yesterday afternoon for a raid on the flowed-decorated drydocks in Richardson Bay.

About 3:30 p.m. the officials got aboard a 40-foot Coast Guard cutter and left a dock behind Zacks' restaurant.

Armed with an inspection warrant, the officials were looking for narcotcis and drugs they had heard were on the drydocks and also for sanitation violations. The fish and game man came along in case persons reportedly living on the drydocks were fishing illegally. Deputy County Counsel Joseph Forest was looking for docks owner, Christopher Roberts, to serve papers ordering him to appear in court to show why he should not be held in contempt of court for not removing the docks.

After a five-minute cruise ,the army moved in and found: two teen-age brothers, three marijuana cigarettes, two suspected LSD pills and a sleepy man who wanted to know why he had been awakened.

The marijuana cigarettes, pills and the 14 and 15 year-old brothers, who said they went to school on the drydocks, were loaded aboard the cutter. The brothers were later taken to Juvenile Hall after the officials discounted the school story when they found only comics and paper back books on the drydocks.

The man who had been awaked from his bed made of planks in one of the towers was left behind.

A resident of a nearby houseboat shouted to Forest that his quarry, Roberts, was on a vacation in Mexico.

The raiders' nearly futuile effort might have been predicted had they known that as they gathered in Sausailto, a representative of an underground radio station called the sheriff's department to inquire about a raid in Richardson Bay.

What Tourists Want, Will Marin Provide?

Marin's best hope of cornering the tourist dollars may lie in developing small resort and conference facilities, according to preliminary findings of a tourism study now underway.

Economics Research Associates of Los Angeles, consultants for the City-County Planning Council's visitor enterprise study, released figures showing the number of visitors to Marin and hoy they spend their money.

Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning in the county planning department, said the following conclusions can be drawn from the study:

Visitors to Marin are mostly people from San Francisco, San Mateo and Sonoma counties coming here for a day or less. Almost nine tenths of the people spend less than $10 during their trip.

Although Marin recieves perhaps 20 per cent of the Bay Area's day trips, it attracts only about 1 per cent of the overnight trips.

"This means spending on hotels and motels in Marin has been quite limited with only a 40 per cent average annual occupancy in the 1187 hotel-motel rooms of the county," said Solnit.

"However, Marin is growing in importance as a place for wining and dining. Its 276 bars and restaurants made more sales per county resident than the restaurants and bars in Santa Clara, Sonoma, Napa or Contra Costa counties.

At this point, further development of Marin's now-tiny resort and conference facilities may be area of considerable potential, said Solnit.

Leader Named At Donner Lab

BERKELEY (AP) — Dr. James L. Born will become director of the Donner Laboratory of nuclear medicine July 1, the University of California announced today.

Born, assistant director since 1956 ,will succeed Dr. John H. Lawrence, who announced his resignation effective July 1 to accept appointment as a University of California regent.

Lawrence has developed the laboratory since its beginnings in 1935.

Atom Scientist Becomes Regent

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan appointed atomic scientist Dr. John H. Lawrence to the University of California Board of Regents today.

Lawrence, a university faculty member and director of the Donner Laboratory, will fill the unexpired two years remaining in the term of Phillip L. Boyd of Riverside.

Boyd resigned last month.

Lawrence, 66, is a professor of medical physics who is widely known for trail-blazing work in the fields of radiation, cancer research and medical use of isotopes. Lawrence is a Republican.

Cash Missing

Cash totaling $3,025 and several checks were reported stolen March 29 from the Trident restaurant, 558 Bridgeway, Sausalito, police said today. Day manager Louis Ganapoler said he left a bank sack containing the day's receipts in an unlocked safe at noon and returned 30 minutes later to find it missing.

Cooperative Nursery Has Home Finall

After an 18-year search, the San Rafael Cooperative Nursery School has found a permanent home — inside the gates of San Quentin Prison.

The nonprofit school, which has been using temporary quarters at San Rafael High School since 1952, announced classes will begin Monday in a two-room schoolhouse in San Quentin Village which has been vacated since bussing of village children to San Rafael began in the mid-1960s.

Parents held a one-day clean-up of their dusty, but roomy, new home last Saturday.

FRUSTRATING HUNT

Until the mother of one of the school's former pupils moved to the village and discovered the new home, the search for one had been frustrating.

The school, incorporated in 1948, held classes that summer in the Coleman School kindergarten, then moved into the basement of a private San Rafael home for two years. After another two years in the now-demolished American Legion Hall, the school took up quarters in a World War II surplus building on the grounds of San Rafael High School.

Since that time, the school had repeatedly sought to move into homes in the San Rafael area but couldn't find a suitable location or encountered financial difficulties and neighborhood opposition. It also explored the possibility of building a permanent facility on the high school's grounds but this proved too costly and also drew challenges that such use of public school property would be illegal.

SPACE TRIPLED

School director Jo Egenberger said the new facilities will provide three times the space of present quarters. Plans are being made to carpet the rooms and construct a fenced play area for children.

School officials say they are not worried about the new location. Prison inmates are expected to provide gardening and janitorial services.

Bolinas Center's Future At Stake

Future use of the Bolinas Community Center will be discussed by the Bolinas Community Inc. board at 8 p.m. tonight at the center on Main Street.

Some members of the group have urged that the building be sold because of rising taxes, insurance and upkeep costs.

Capt. David Edwards, secretary of the group, said today he expects a large attendance at the meeting.

The oldest pulp and paper technology course in the United States was established at the University of Maine in 1913.

Army Work On Creek Distant, Novato Told

The Army Corps of Engineers will not know for three to five months whether or not a flood control project on Novato Creek is feasible, and if it is, it would take another five years to get the project finished.

Jacob Harari of the corps so reported last night to a meeting on Novato's creeks called by the Novato Creek Committee at the Novato Community House, according to co-chairman Gail Wilhelm.

Harari said that the corps did not have any plans to change Novato Creek from Highway 101 to its mouth, but wanted to do its flood control work from Highway 101 to the creek at Grant Avenue, Mrs. Wilhelm reported. The corps is making a feasibility study of such a flood control project.

Mrs. Wilhelm reported these recommendations of the creek committee:

NOVATO CREEK — Mouth to Highway 101 channel widening with ponding and lake development for boating and fishing; Highway 101 to Diablo Avenue, riprap or step bank; Diablo Avenue to Grant Avenue, untouched; Grant Avenue to Stafford Dam, minor channel alignment with no loss of trees.

WARNER CREEK — Novato Creek to Novato Boulevard, concrete channel; Novato Boulevard to Diablo Avenue, widen channel on south to protect trees on north; Diablo Avenue to Wilson, leave it as it is except to riprap critical erosion areas.

ARROYO AVICHI CREEK — Novato Creek to Novato Boulevard, concrete channel; remainder of stream untouched except for minor riprap in erosion areas.

The committee proposed a flood control dam in Bowman Canyon. It could be partially paid for by selling water to the North Marin County Water District, Mrs. Wilhelm said.

There were about 95 creekside residents at the meeting and their general feeling was that if they had to have flood control they did not want a concrete ditch, Mrs. Wilhelm said.

Farmers Finding Leasing Useful

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — A few Madison County farmers are finding that leasing farm machinery is one way of controlling one's resources. Farmers have found that rapid changes in technology and the expanding farm business have created a need for new machines. This can cause a severe strain on the normal sources of investment capita.

Custom hiring to get the job done or renting the machine by the job or by the season can relieve a tight capital situation and keep capital free for other uses in the farm business.

Opinions Vary On Quality Of Education

changes that he plans to move from the area, said heatedly he was "not paying these teachers to take my kids to the zoo." (Frequent field trips, often suggested by students, are a part of the new program).

"I want my kids to learn how to read and write and do a little arithmetic," he said angrily; "I don't believe children should go unsupervised; I don't go for this modern education."

Another foe of the system is Mrs. Louise Pepper who said she has not seen any work for daughter, a fourth-grader at Bolinas School, has done this year. "She's had no homework at all," Mrs. Pepper said, "and when I had her bring a math workbook home; she couldn't do any of the problems until I showed her how, even though her grades — I had to ask for a report card, because they don't believe in them — have been outstanding."

The new method finds its enthusiastic supporters, too, including Nancy Borgstrom, the wife of an architect. "I want something stimulating for my children, because that is the only thing they respond to," she said. "I don't want the schools to kill anything that is in my children; they need to take the initiative in learning." Mrs. Borgstrom has suggested the district have two schools, one progressive and one traditional, to give parents a choice.

Some parents in the district feel the schools have not moved far enough toward student freedom. These individuals, also a minority, would like to see a Summerhill approach where fundamentals such as reading and writing take second place in the learning process.

Caught in the middle of the conflicting educational philosophies are a large group of parents, probably the majority, who are both attracted and frightened by the new programs.

These are the people who frankly admit they see some good thing happening, but complain they have no idea what their children know or where they are as to grade level because testing has been almost non-existent in the schools this year and measures of student progress, few.

Some, like Barbara Bowman, mother of a fourth grader, have had unfortunate experiences with their children this year, enough to make them wary. Mrs. Bowman went to an open house in October and was startled when she saw her son Chris's basket contained no completed work.

"I asked the teacher about this and was told 'Your son hasn't done any work!'" she said. Naturally, I was upset; if my son wasn't progressing, why didn't they let me know?" Yet Mrs. Bowman admitted she would feel badly if the new system were abandoned, "because I really believe the children can get so much out of it, once the new methods have been perfected.

Edward Z. Lewis, chairman of the school board, said he understands the concern of parents. He voiced the opinion that conflicts over ways of learning will not be solved until the schools find some way of assuring parents their children are learning what they should.

"A certain amount of testing has to be done," Lewis said, "even though some of the moere progressive teachers resist this. If we can convince the parents their children are learning, I can't for the life of me see why anyone is going to object ot the methods."

Trustee Jesse Reasoner, who recently retired as math teacher at a Richmond junior high school, agreed that the district's testing program must be upgraded next year. Mrs. Reasoner also said she would like to see more emphasis on fundamental, particulary math, though not necessarily in the traditional sense.

Trustee Warren Fairbanks, an ardent supporter of the district's new educational direction, said he realized some youngsters are having difficulty in learning, "but this can be eliminated by remedial help and individualized instruction."

Fairbanks said part of the conflicts have resulted because parents were not adequately prepared for the new program and many still do not understand what is going on. "This makes these parents easy prey to those who would like them to think things aren't going well in the schools and a lot of rumors and half-truths fly around," the trustee said.

Trustee Erik Lund offered a proposal to remedy this situation by suggesting that parents and teachers get together and talk about mutual concerns before school starts in September. "I don't think parents would be so fearful if they had a better idea of how the new methods work," Lund said.

Fairbanks also said the district must establish concrete and specific education goals and the board should then work toward achieving these goals. "Board members shouldn't have to get up each morning and test which way the wind is blowing," he said. "We have had more than enough of this already and it certainly hasn't cut down on the problems, only intensified them."

considered the matter, was made by Supervisor Peter Tamaras.

"We just can't sit on our hands hoping someone's going to put in a rapid transit tube — the time has long passed for us to take action," Tamaras declared.

The bridge district's general manager, Dale W. Luehring, told the committee that all progress on the bus system had been held up pending a decision by the San Francisco supervisors on whether to allow the system.

Committee chairman John A. Ertola said the committee ought to know how much the system will cost the city in new traffic signs, but Supervisor Terry A. Francois said then it also ought to know how much would be saved because fewer garages would be needed to park commuters' cars. "There are some benefits here, too," Francois said.

The third member, Supervisor Robert E. Gonzales, who also serves on the bridge board, said he was voting for the district's plans only because they now included ferries as well as buses.

Urging postponement was Edward Lawson of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. He said no action should be voted until the district's long-range plans are completed in October, and questioned whether the district was the "appropriate agency" to get into the transit business since its directors also came from remote northern counties.

Also objecting was Louis Goldblatt of Mill Valley, secretary of the International Long shoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and William Ferguson, president of the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council. Both argued action should await the Spaulding report next month.

Tamaras, however, noted that the Spaulding report would not affect the need for buses. Bay Area transit studies costing $7.5 million have recommended unanimously that buses will be needed until rapid transit can be expanded.

Ertola said he was voting affirmatively "with great reluctance." San Francisco recently bought 400 buses, he said, "and they sounded great until they hit the streets with smog and noise."

Luehring noted that the buses would reduce the net amount of smog by cutting by 1,800 the number of commuters' cars.

$100,000 In Set Blazes Hit Stanford

STANFORD (AP) — Arson fires destroyed offices in two separate wings of the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University today.

The fires, which Stanford Fire Chief Frank Jurian said were started by flammable substances thrown through windows, caused at least $100,000 in damage, the chief estimated.

Besides causing damage to the offices, the flames destroyed papers, manuscripts and books of members of the independent organization located on university land.

The fire was reported by Palo Alto and Atherton police to the Stanford Fire Department shortly after 5 a.m.

Chief Jurian said an attempt to set the main administration building of the center afire failed.

found in violation of the provision that the land be used for legitimate agricultural purposes.

At the committee meeting in the Civic Center, County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel gave an example of nonagricultural land whose owner is taking advantage of low assessments. On the western shore of Tomales Bay is a 3.3-acre parcel, which sold for $16,000 in 1967, Broemmel reported. The owner signed an agricultural preserve contract, although the property is incapable of producing agriculture income and could only be used as a homesite, said Broemmel.

"Under the old law, we could assess it for $12,000 on the basis that it was a buildable lot, but under the new law, we have to lower it to $400."

Committee members agreed that nonagricultural parcels such as this should be notified that their agricultural preserve contract will not be renewed.

On the other hand, they said, there will be "islands" of property surrounded by agricultural preserve areas that should probably be under contract.

The ultimate job of the committee will be to determine the precise boundaries of the preserve and what uses compatible to agriculture should be allowed in the preserve.

Chairman Boyd Stewart asked county planner Rowland Darnell to prepare a map showing all areas under contract, with separate lines showing pockets of contract areas of 100 acres or less.

The committee said it would formalize its recommendations to the supervisors at its May 7 meeting.

In related action, committee members recommended to the board that no action be taken on an application by Nancy Dunn of Marshall to have her 34-acre property included in an agricultural preserve because she wants to raise Arabian horses. Attorney Nancy C. Lenvin of San Francisco, representing Mrs. Dunn, assured committee members that horse breeding is a legitimate agricultural enterprise.

The committee decided that individual applications should be held up until criteria can be drawn up on what uses are compatible to agriculture.

Scales Unpleasant Word To This Pupil

Lake Ranch Owner Selling Off Parcels

The owner of the 2,500-acre Lake Ranch in the heart of the Point Reyes National Seashore is selling off portions of his ranch, as he announced he would do more than a year ago.

A. W. Sweet, Coos Bay banker and part owner of the Lake Ranch, has sold at least six parcels for a total of about $660,000, according to deeds filed with the Marin County Recorder.

Each parcel is believed to be about 40 acres. That would mean a total of 240 acres, or $2,750 per acre.

In February 1969, Sweet announced he had waited for the government to buy the ranch but could no longer wait. "We still owe money against it and our family doesn't have the resources to hold it." Sweet announced at that time. He said he planned to cut the ranch into 40-acre parcels for sale.

The records of sales during the past two months shows that the purchasers are from Oregon, Idaho and California.

Buyers are identified as Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. McCormack, Mr. and Msr. John D. Silva, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan, Mr .and Mrs. L. G. Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Sweet and Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Harrington.

The Harringtons and the Rays gave their address as Route 1 Box 145, Bandon, Ore.

The addresses of the others were not listed.

Sweet is represented by attorney Lawrence Kuechler of San Francisco. Neither Sweet nor his attorney could be reached this morning.

severed diplomatic relations with South Vietnam in 1965 as result of a long series of border disputes, and with Thailand in 1961, again as result of a border dispute.

A communique issued by the government of Premier Gen. Lon Nol said Cambodia was reopening commercial relations with Thailand for the first time since the diplomatic rupture and lifted a ban on transit stops at Phnom Penh airport by Thai nationals.

Cambodian and South Vietnamese troops have been reported actively cooperating in the border areas and a Saigon report today said a South Vietnamese delegation headed by Social Welfare Minister Tran Nguyen Phieu would fly here Saturday to aid in the repatriation of 60,000 Vietnamese nationals.

(In Saigon the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu announced it has allocated $16,000 to provide transportation, food, medicine and housing facilities for 50,000 nationals who have decided to accept repatriation. They were being resettled in camps near the border.)

Radio Phnom Penh came up with a new explanation today for the hundreds of bullet-riddled Vietnamese bodies seen by Western newsmen in the Mekong River south of Phnom Penh April 15.

The government radio said the Viet Cong in Cambodia tied the hands of their own battle dead and threw them into the river to give the impression they were innocent civilians massacred by the Cambodians.

Earlier, the Cambodian government said the dead in the river drowned in the sinking of a boat.

Informed sources said the two South Vietnamese forces sweeping in Cambodia west of Saigon this week had pulled back after killing 245 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and capturing more than 60 tons of arms and ammunition.

The sources said 28 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 127 wounded.

But while these informants were claiming successes in Cambodia, North Vietnamese troops to the north along the Laotian border dealt government forces moderate losses in an attack near the besieged Dak Seang Special Forces camp.

U.S. spokesmen reported heavy American bombing strikes against the Ho Chi Minh Trail through eastern Laos and said another U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down there Thursday. It was the sixth American plane lost over Laos in the past three days. The two crewmen were rescued with no injuries reported.

O'Connor Denies Any Pressure In Strike Probe

One of a group of clergymen seeking creation of a fact-finding committee to delve into the typographers' strike against the Independent-Journal has denied that the effort is a result of union pressure.

Rev. John J. O'Connor of the Catholic Social Services Agency of Marin said in a letter to the board of supervisors, "We have been pressured by no one and we represent neither side."

He also said that "I would personally be in favor of a Grand Jury investigation" into the "vandalism, violence and harassment connected with this strike."

O'Connor again urged the board to appoint a committee. The board took no action on the request at its meeting Tuesday, but Chairman John F. McInnis said then that the request was obviously not a spontaneous effort but came from pressure by the union.

San Francisco Typographical Union 21 struck the I-J on Jan. 7.

Morton Angry On Tactics Used In Carswell Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton has denounced as "unconscionable" the tactics which brought Judge G. Harrold Carswell into the U.S. Senate campaign in Florida.

His angry remarks, at a social gathering, were unusual for a party chairman who usually stands neutral in a primary race.

They were directed at Florida Gov. Claude Kirk and Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., who talked Carswell, rejected for the U.S. Supreme Court by the Senate, into entering the race.

Kirk and Gurney arranged the Carswell candidacy without notifying Rep. William C. Cramer, who had declared for the nomination. Then they asked him to withdraw as a candidate. Cramer refused.

Probation Officers To Study Case

The case of an 18-year-old San Anselmo youth accused of selling heroin was referred yesterday to probation officials for possible transferral to juvenile court.

George Billy Wigner Jr. was released without bail by Judge Hadden W. Roth after his attorney described him as youth who had never been in trouble before. He was turned over to his father who was in court. Wigner is to return to Marin Municipal Court on May 7.

Others arrested in a San Anselmo raid Wednesday night were also arraigned in court yesterday.

Michael Albert Jacinth, 21, of San Anselmo, was charged with possessing marijuana, being under the influence of a narcotic and having a syringe. His case was continued to today for entry of plea.

Richard Wayne Dillon, 36, of San Rafael was accused of being under the influence of a narcotics and having a syringe and needle. He was also to return to court today.

Mary Margaret Tovatt, 19, was released without bail after being arraigned on charges of being under the influence of narcotics and having a syringe and needle. She is to return to court next Thursday.

A 15-year-old boy accused of selling heroin had already been turned over to juvenile authorities.

Parole Violator Is Arrested As Heroin Suspect

A 37-year-old parole violater missing for about a year was arrested in a San Rafael apartment yesterday and he and a woman companion were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of having heroin and methedrine for sale.

Drug agents said that Lewis Powell, 37, tried to hold the bathroom door of his apartment closed with one hand and flush something down the toilet with the other after the woman had let them into the apartment at 1563 Lincoln Avenue.

The agents said, however, that they found about three ounces of "speed" and 10 packets of heroin apparently wrapped for sale in the apartment. Carla Jane Lanum, 29, who gave her address as 257 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, was also arrested.

Both were held in Marin County Jail on $3,750 bail each and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Finns And Drinks

HELSINKI (UPI) — Finns may have somewhat of a reputation as hard drinkers, but a study here shows that one-third of the women and 7 per cent of the men in the country have never tasted alcoholic beverages.

OBITUARIES

Louis M. Silva Dies At 47

Louis M.Silva, 47, a former Tomales Dairyman, died yesterday at a San Francisco Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Tomales, Silva operated dairy ranches in To males and Liberty for many years. For 10 years he was employed by the Dairy Herd Improvement Aossociation.

For the past year Silva had been employed as a maintenance man at the University of the Pacific School of Dentistry, San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Beverly; five sons, Gary, Santa Rosa and Dan, David, Ronald and Michael of the family home; a daughter, Patricia Minatta of Santa Rosa; three brothers, Fred of Imperial Beach, San Diego County, Bert of Milpitas and Frank of Antioch; four sisters Ann Lyman of San Rafael, Lillian Golloway of Petaluma, Rose Fosdick of San Francisco and Peggy Nuffer of San Jose and two grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Monday at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Burial will be in Liberty cemetery.

ARBA JOSLIN

Private funeral was held today for Arba V. Joslin, 93, a former long-time worker for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., who died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Joslin, an Antioch native, lived in Point Reyes Station.

He retired from PG&E in 1942 after many years' service in their San Francisco office. He had joined the company after selling it the Konocti Power Co. in Lake County, which he had founded after graduation from Stanford University in 1898.

He is survived by two sons, Douglas T. Joslin of Novato and Donald A. Joslin of Point Reyes Station; 10 grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

JOHN AZEVEDO

Requiem Mass for John J. Azevedo, 73, of Santa Cruz, formerly of Point Reyes and Tomales, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Petaluma. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Azevedo died Tuesday at a Santa Cruz hospital after collapsing at his home. Born in Point Reyes, he operated dairy ranches there and in Tomales, moving 19 years ago.

He was employed by the Birdseye Co. for 10 years until his retirement at the age of 65.

He and his wife, Marie, had operated the Rea Court Motel in Santa Cruz. Azevedo was a member of St. Anthony's Council, a Portuguese society, Santa Cruz.

He is also survived by a son, Richard J. Azevedo of Petaluma; a daughter, Madeline Thornhill of Cleveland, Ohio; four sisters, Mae Silva and Helen Joseph of Petaluma, Ida Freites of Santa Rosa, and Mildred Ventura of Sebastopol; three brothers, A. J. Azevedo of Petaluma, Joseph R. Azevedo of Pleasant Grove, Sutter County, and Francis R. Azevedo of Sacramento; 14 grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Sorensen Furneral Home, Petaluma.

WALTER HOBSON

Private funeral for Walter T. Hobson, 81, of Petaluma, was held today at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Inurnment was at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Hobson died Wednesday at a local hospital after a short illness. A native of Missouri, he was reared there and moved to Petaluma in 1927.

Hobson served in the Merchant Marines in World War I and had been in the poultry ranching business since moving to Petaluma.

He is survived by his wife, Agnes; a son, and three daughters.

was said, pose a critical stage for the Lon Nol government. With aid during that period, the Lon Nol forces would have perhaps a 50-50 chance of seizing the initiative before the seasonal rainy season, it was said. After that, the weather would work to the advantage of the better trained Communist forces, sources indicated.

Besides the possibility of U.S. arms aid, American officials are known to be exploring the idea of an international agreement to provide help to Cambodia to insure its neutrality.

Indonesia, for example, is expected to provide ammunition for the captured weapons being turned over to Cambodia.

Military leaders are known to think the loss of Cambodia could set off the so-called domino theory and all the countries of Southeast Asia might go under Communist domination.

Conversely, aid might reverse the situation and create a Cambodian ally for the United States as strong as Thailand.

TURNABOUT IS FAIR PLAY

Educators Discuss Use Of U.S. Cash

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Educators were in agreement today that federal monies granted for higher education community services should be handled at the state level.

Dale Ward, chairman of the Western Regional Conference of Higher Education which began Thursday, said the reason is "so we can coordinate the programs with overall state priorities, outside of education as well as in education."

Sixty representatives from 29 states were meeting to discuss proposed federal legislation dealing with how institutions of higher learning can serve the community.

TO CONGRESS

Their recommendations, followed by a report prepared by 10 elected persons in the steering committee, will be sent to Congress as a basis for drafting legislation to succeed Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

"States are faced with problems of having limited resources, and unless they have a say as to how federal dollars are spent, they run the risk of dissipating those dollars that are available to a lot of programs that are irrelevant to state needs," Ward said. "We are talking not only about state control over the program, but also state designation of state problems rather than national problems."

PROBLEM SOLVING

"The real issue is whether the institutions of higher education can assist communities in solving community problems, such as pollution, poverty and so on," he said.

After agreeing that the state should disseminate the federal monies, the conference discussed how those funds should be further handled at the local level. There was a consensus the state itself should disseminate them. Ward said the reasoning was that the institutions cannot operate independently from the statewide priorities that have been set.

EXTRA ZERO MAKES FOR A RED FACE

San Anselmo appraiser David G. Cohn Wednesday reported to the Marin Municipal Water District board that the fair rental value of the land leased to the Meadow Club above Fairfax is $5,000 — not $500 as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The club presently pays $480 a year for the 162 acres.

If a new lease is negotiated on the basis of Cohn's appraisal, his $650 report will pay for itself in a couple of months, not in just over 30 years, as reported in yesterday's I-J.

However, it may take just over 30 years for the I-J reporter to recover from his mistake.

Ross Home Fire Damage Is Heavy

A fire which started in the corner of a garage attached to a one-story Ross home mushroomed into the attic of the home and caused an estimated $7,000 damage to the building yesterday.

No estimate of damage to the possessions of the owner, Lloyd A. Parmelee, was available. No one was home when the fire started.

Ross Fire Chief Charles Pinza said today that the garage, roof, attic and kitchen of the house on Shady Lane were damaged. There was also "considerable" smoke and water damage throughout the house, he said.

The fire was under control within a half hour of its report at 9:18 p.m., Pinza said.

Presidential Pens A Glut On Market?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe it's a big deal to get a souvenir presidential pen used in White House bill-signing ceremonies, but just try to hock one.

John Fowler tried to peddle his LBJ model by inserting this classified ad in a local newspaper, the Evening Star:

The 27-year-old construction worker and one-time White House mail room employe got just one offer in the three days the ad ran. And that was from a reporter who didn't really want the pen but was curious about the ad.

"I really didn't have any use for it," said Fowler. "It just lays there and I needed a little cash.

"I thought it would be worth something. But then Johnson gave out so many, so I guess they aren't worth much now."

A spokesman for the Charles Hamilton Autograph Gallery in New York said the going rate for Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon pens is about $10. A pen used by the late John F. Kennedy will bring "well over $100." Collectors are willing to pay about $50 for pens used by other presidents, the spokesman said.

The pen ceremony has been going on for a long time, longer than present denizens of the White House can remember.

Johnson gave away pens by the hundreds or maybe thousands. At first he used pens costing $1.11 apiece. They were of the dipping variety with the President's name stamped on them and were distributed to congressmen and other guests present for the ceremonial signing of bills.

But LBJ later switched to pens costing only 17 cents each.

That's the model Fowler is trying to sell. It's encased in a little box with the presidential seal and signature stamped in gold and was a highly prized souvenir—at least when LBJ resided at the White House.

Fulbright Sets Longevity Mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — As of today, Sen. J. W. Fulbright breaks the record for length of service as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Arkansas Democrat equaled Thursday the mark of 11 years and 76 days set by Republican Sen. Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, who presided from Dec. 18, 1901, to March 4, 1913.

A dozen senators made speeches in praise of Fulbright's length of service and leadership of the committee.

Fulbright, often at odds with the present and past administrations, remarked:

"I am overwhelmed. I am unaccustomed to hearing complimentary remarks, in or out of the Senate.

Karate Feud In A Deadly Turn: Saber Kills One

Police said the battle stemmed from a year-old feud between two karate clubs over competition for students.

They said the owner of the House of Dante karate school—John Keehan, 31, known as "Count Dante, the deadliest man alive"—telephoned the rival Kung-Fu Kempos school and said he and five other men were coming to fight.

When they arrived, police said, Count Dante knocked down the door of the rival school and was met inside by six members of Kung-Fu Kempos. The fight ensued.

The dead man was identified as James R. Koncevic, 25, of Calumet City.

Tiburon Drain Committee Asks Cities' Funds Plan

The Tiburon Drainage Committee has asked the Belvedere and Tiburon city councils to set aside a minimum of $5,000 each during the next fiscal year to alleviate drainage problems in the two cities.

The committee, meeting Tuesday night, unanimously voted to request that the funds be held for future drainage projects, according to Edwin J. Drechsel, committeeman and Belvedere's new mayor. The councils would make the final decision on how to speed the money, based on recommendations from the committee, he said.

The committee also heard a report from Henry E. Cornils, president of the Belvedere Lagoon Property Owners Association, who proposed a drain outlet from the lagoon into Belvedere Cove to promote water circulation.

Corils said he hoped the drain would provide scouring action in the cove and prevent further sedimentation as well as reduce present silting.

The committee set its next meeting for May 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Tiburon Peninsula Club, Drechsel said.

Meeting Not Held For Lack Of Quorum

The Tiburon Planning Commission did not meet Wednesday for lack of a quorum, according to Wayne E. Moody, planning director.

The commission will meet May 4 at 8 p.m. at city hall to discuss amending the city's zoning ordinance to allow clustering of residences.

Sailor Convicted On Protest Paper

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A court-martial jury found seaman Roger Lee Priest guilty Thursday night of two charges of causing disloyalty and disaffection among servicemen but acquitted him of six other charges, including sedition.

The jury of five Navy commissioned officers deliberated for nearly seven hours after getting the court martial case at the end of the one-week trial. Defense Attorney David Reim said he would appeal the guilty verdicts.

Capt. B. Raymond Perkins, the military judge, set Monday for sentencing. Priest, 26, faces a possible maximum sentence of three years in jail on each of the two charges and a dishonorable discharge from the Navy.

Ex-Queen's Gems Bring High Price

GENEVA (AP) — A pair of diamond pedant earrings reportedly owned by former Queen Soroya of Iran has brought $510,000 from an anonymous buyer at a jewelry auction.

The auctioneering firm identified the earrings as 'the property of a former queen," but declined to confirm that they were a present from the Shah to Soroya before he divorced her.

Total proceeds of the auction Thursday, in which 389 pieces of jewelry changed hands, were $3.25 million, described by the auctioneers as a record for a single sale.

Youths To Higher Court For Burglary

Two youths were incorrectly reported in a headline in yesterday's Independent-Journal as bound over to Marin Superior Court on heroin charges. Instead, Stephen John Pappas of San Rafael and Arthur George Metzger of Petaluma are accused of burglary and possessing stolen property.

The youths and a third companion, Reade Collins Backer of Ross, had told the officer who arrested them they were heroin addicts but they are not accused of narcotics offenses.

Jury Seated In Nyhans Murder Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A jury of five women and seven men was sworn in late Thursday for the trial of Elsie Nyhan, 74, and her son, Daniel, 45, of Tiburon on first degree murder charges in the death of Mrs. Genevieve Dolan, 61. A woman and a man were chosen as alternate jurors.

Jack Berman, attorney for Mrs. Nyhan, said in his opening statement in Superior Court that the two women were close friends and that Mrs. Dolan brought a fifth of sherry wine to Mrs. Nyhan's Nob Hill apartment in October 1968.

He said that before and after dinner, prepared by Mrs. Hyhan, they consumed the wine, and Mrs. Dolan went out and bought another bottle, which they also consumed.

He said he would show that Mrs. Nyhan went to bed and awoke next morning to find Mrs. Dolan's body in a hallway.

A toxicology report will show a high alcoholic content in the dead woman's blood, he added.

Police at the time reported the woman had a head wound.

Nyhan, who lives in Tiburon, is defended by deputy public defender Fred Smith.

The case is being prosecuted by Jean Wright, assistant district attorney.

Housing Workshop Scheduled May 8

A housing workshop on Marin County housing and a measure on the June 2 primary ballot calling for authorization to construct 600 new units of low cost elderly housing in the county is slated for noon May 8 in conference room B at College of Marin.

Sponsored by Committee for Adequate Shelter for All (CASH) and the Associated Student Government of College of Marin, the program will include speeches by Neil Little of the Marin County Housing Authority; Supervisor Michael Wornum; Paul C. Zucker, director of the Marin County Planning Department, and Martin Mackey of the Ecumenical Association for Housing.

Clarinet Stolen

A clarinet and case of undetermined value owned by Joanola Rose, 11, of 150 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael were stolen April 8 from a walkway at San Rafael High School, police reported yesterday.

Annual Inspections For Leased Housing

Annual inspections of leased housing units to insure they are being cared for properly has been approved by the Marin County Housing Authority, according to Donald O. Stutsman, executive director.

Stutsman said the commission Wednesday night decided the inspections will be made at the same time authority staff members interview tenants to see if they still are eligible for the low-cost housing program.

If any problems are observed during the residence checks, Stutsman said, qualified inspectors will make complete examinations of the premises.

The commissioners also approved exterior inspections of all the county's leased housing units every three months, with follow-up checks if problems appear.

The only exception to the yearly inspections will be leased housing units of senior citizens, which will be checked every two years, since their income stability makes yearly checks unnecessary.

There were complaints last month from Santa Venetia residents about accumulation of rubbish in the backyard of a home rented under the leased housing program.

County officials learned that similar problems existed in other areas and Marin County supervisors asked the Housing Authority to work out a system for collecting garbage and maintaining grounds at leased housing units.

The Marin County Housing Authority Also:

CABLE — Heard a report that an agreement had been reached with Clearview Cable System reducing the monthly charge of community antenna service to $2.75 and refunding the required $15 deposits.

LENSES — Heard a report that many residents of senior citizens projects have requested door lenses and agreed to install them if the individuals would purchase them.

MODERNIZATION — Heard a report from Wallace K. Shepherd, assistant director, that the Marin City modernization program was exceeding budgeted amounts. Shepherd said he has been in touch with the Department of Housing and Urban Development about increasing the budget.

ACCOUNTS — Voted to write off six vacated accounts totaling $281 at the Hilarita project and 11 accounts totaling $1,719 at the Marin City project.

AUDIT — Delayed until the next meeting, May 5, at a time and place not yet set, a report on the federal audit of the authority.

Action Against Douglas Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., of the House Rules Committee sidetracked today for 60 days a bipartisan resolution calling for a study of impeachment proceedings against Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Colmer said he would not program the resolution for immediate hearings since the House Judiciary Committee has promised action on an impeachment resolution of its own within 60 days.

This action was regarded as a setback for the 112 House sponsors of the study resolution introduced after Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan called for impeachment proceedings.

Minor Head Injuries

Steven Grimm, 18, of 35 San Gabriel Drive, Fairfax, was treated at 12:30 a.m. today at Marin General Hospital for head bruises suffered in an automobile accident in Fairfax. No details of the accident were available.

San Diego Bus Hopes Still Dim

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego bus strike entered its seventh day today and federal mediator John Taylor said he has been unable to find justification for renewing contract negotiations.

About 52,000 persons who normally ride the San Diego Transit Corp. buses each day have been affected by the walkout.

No meetings are planned," Taylor said, "until we can find some justification for calling both sides to the bargaining table."

Transit officials say the shutdown of its 220 buses is costing the company up to $16,000 a day.

Stereo Player Stolen

Last Friday 17 stereophonic tapes and cases valued at $140 were reported stolen from the truck parked in the same lot.

Special features you'll enjoy:

There's boating around the calendar in the Bay Area. But unquestionably, spring marks a resumption of aquatic activity following at least a partial winter-time lull. And the big date is the annual boat parade on San Francisco Bay, marking the start of a new yachting season. One weekend in advance of the 1970 event, today's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine is a special salute to Marin County boatmen.

Another activity that hits a peak during the spring season in Marin County is gardening. And Marinites each week find the Marin Magazine's gardening page or pages a help to them in their green thumb endeavors. Check tomorrow's gardening page for a checklist reminding you of what you should be doing in your garden in late April, plus other feature articles on special plantings and landscaping techniques.

An immediate call for bids to provide a pool of buses for the Golden Gate Bridge District was recommended unanimously yesterday by district directors.

(See page 1 for San Francisco supervisors' action on buses).

Up to 80 buses will be sought under the proposal, which envisions district subsidization of commuter clubs to provide amenities such as guaranteed seating, coffee and newspapers.

The recommendation, by the district's joint transportation and finance-auditing committee, will go to the full board for its action on May 8.

Bus companies will be invited to bid on a seat-mile basis for service to four zones between the Bridge and Santa Rosa under the specifications approved by the committee.

The commuter clubs, similar to four already operating privately to Northern Marin, would offer either express service to San Francisco or feed the ferry system the district proposes to operate.

Several companies could be involved, since none may have enough buses, Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said. This would include Marin County Transit Systems, which is operating a ferry feeder system in Southern Marin.

The Marin City-based company, however, also has asked the district for a $12,000-a-month subsidy, and it was unclear how it could bid competitively at the same time.

The specifications provide that the district will offer storage for buses in the north Sausalito area for $1 a month per bus. This presumably will be at the district's proposed ferry terminal.

Shields estimated that 30 surplus charter buses were available from Bay Area companies, but that the number was expected to increase as companies were attracted to bid.

Luehring also noted it was possible the district may be able to lease newer Greyhound buses for $1 a month. Greyhound would offer the leases if that expedited its long sought exit from the commuter business, he told the Independent-Journal.

The charter system would allow the district to get into the commuter business far faster than it will take to buy its own equipment, he said. Charter clubs could start forming in a month, compared to the eight or nine months needed to buy buses, Luehring said.

Interest in the bids was expressed by Keith L. Grimm of Petaluma, vice president of Community Enterprises, an Orange County-based company that operates 725 buses statewide. He said his company did not have enough buses now for its own charter business, but would consider getting new equipment if there were some assurance that the district charter will be for longer than the year in the specifications.

The committee also recommended board approval of a $55,000 contract with Walter Landor, a design consultant, to prepare what he termed a "design policy" to give the district's transit facilities "a unique visual style."

Director Lowell Edington of Napa County objected that "we just haven't anything to put it on yet," but Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum argued "we're going into the transit business — let there be no doubt about that."

Witnesses Praise KRON's Programs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A parade of witnesses testified Thursday at a Federal Communications Commission hearing that license renewal for KRON-TV would be in the public interest.

Previous testimony had included complaints that the station slanted news broadcasts in behalf of Chronicle Publishing Co., which owns KRON through a subsidiary.

KRON attorney Frank Fletcher produced 16 witnesses who talked about the station's public service programs. They included Don Fazackerley, vice chairman of the board of Commonwealth National Bank, who said in all his years as a civic leader and public official he had found KRON news accurate and the station "most cooperative" in public service programs.

Charlotte Woodruff, Napa housewife active in Community Projects, Inc., a charity group, said KRON had given "excellent cooperation."

Parents Seeking Funds For Deaths Of Inmate Sons

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A $1.2 million damage suit has been filed in Federal Court by the parents of three Soledad Prison inmates who were fatally shot by a guard last January.

The defendants named in the suit filed Thursday were the guard O. G. Miller who fired the fatal shots, Supt. C. J. FitzHarris, Deputy Supt. William Black, Associate Warden C. L. Swagerty and the State of California.

The legal action charged that Miller had fired into a group of prisoners during a racial fracas at the prison "maliciously and recklessly," and did so "because of his general hatred of persons of African descent."

Attorney Melvin Belli filed the suit on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Nolen, Oakland, parents of W.L. Nolen, one of the men killed; Mr. and Mrs. Perry Miller, Los Angeles, parents of Calvin Miller, another victim; and Mrs. Sue Edwards, Riverside, mother of the third victim, Cleveland Edwards.

Drug Trafficker In Fatal 'Speed' Case Is Sentenced

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The man blamed for supplying the "speed" that resulted in a San Rafael fatality in 1968 was sentenced yesterday to three prison terms to run consecutively.

Everett LeForrest Hill, 42, was ordered to serve five years to life in prison for unlawful sale of dangerous drugs, two to 10 years for unlawful possession for sale of dangerous drugs, and one to 10 years for a second count of unlawful possession. Judge Robert H. Schnacke of San Francisco Superior Court ordered that the terms run consecutively.

State law provides that the felon cannot be released from prison before serving at least three years of the unlawful sale term and at least two years of the unlawful possession for sale term.

A count of furnishing dangerous drugs to a minor, on which Hill's trial jury was unable to agree, was dismissed after the sentences were pronounced on the other counts.

Hill allegedly supplied the "speed" that killed Richard Kenneth Yager, 20, of Larkspur, on Sept. 27, 1968. While out on bail awaiting trial on charges arising from that, he was arrested in San Francisco and charged with selling "speed" (methamphetamine) to a state narcotics agent.

Heart Attack Fatal To Climber

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — A Japanese member of an expedition climbing Mt. Everest died of a heart attack Tuesday, the Nepalese Foreign Ministry announced today.

The victim, Kiyoshi Narita, 28, belonged to the 39-member Everest expedition sponsored by the Japanese Alpine Club of Tokyo.

His death was the ninth this spring on the mountain, which has taken the heaviest toll in a single climbing season in recent memory. The other eight fatalities were Nepalese Sherpa guides assisting the Japanese, who are climbing Everest in two separate expeditions, one seeking to reach the summit and the other hoping to ski down one of the slopes of the mountain.

College Instructor To Britain For Year

A College of Marin instructor has been accepted in the Fulbright Exchange Teacher program and will teach next year in London.

The college's trustees last night authorized Donald Palmer, an instructor in philosophy and Spanish to accept the nomination.

Under the exchange program, a British teacher, Roger M. Woodward of London will come to the College of Marin to replace Palmer for a year.

The college will pay Palmer's full salary during the year but all travel costs will be borne by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Supt.-President John A. Grasham told the board that Palmer and Woodward have already agreed to live in each other's homes during the exchange. Palmer lives in Fairfax.

The Fulbright exchange program is highly coveted, Grasham told the board. He said the college should be "highly honored" one of its instructors qualified for the program.

There will be no cost to the district regarding Woodward, Grasham said. His salary will be paid by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, he said.

Trustees Approve Makeup Of Panels In Dean Hunt

College of Marin's trustees last night unanimously approved the makeup of two committees to screen and select a new dean of students and then expanded their action into a district policy for selecting all future deans and assistant deans.

The board voted to create a screening committee consisting of not more than three administrators, not more than three faculty members, not more than two students and two classified personnel.

It also created a selection committee consisting of not more than two board members, two administrators and two faculty members.

The makeup of the screening committee had been the subject of lengthy negotiations between college Supt.-President John A. Grasham and the college cabinet.

Grasham told the board that applications for the dean's position were currently being received by the college and that he hoped the screening committee would meet by May 1 to begin sorting out the best candidates for the job.

The college's dean of instruction, Paul Clymers, is retiring at the end of this school year.

The board's action last night made the committee format permanent and the two committees will function each time a dean's position is to be filled.

The Marin Junior College District Board Also:

ADULT CLASS—Approved a consumer education program for senior citizens to begin with the next fall term.

PBX—Approved the hiring of Margaret L. Moses as a PBX operator at a salary of $467 per month, effective Monday.

BUDGET CALENDAR—Approved a new budget calendar setting May 7 as the date for preliminary budget approval; May 21 as publication date of the preliminary budget and June 19 as the first public hearing on the budget.

OLNEY HALL—Awarded contract for refurbishing of Olney Hall to the Pearson and Johnson Construction Co. of San Francisco for its low bid of $79,590. Work will be done between June and September.

BRIDGE WORK—Approved placing in escrow $24,000 to cover the difference between the kind of bridge the college wants built in the Corte Madera Creek project and the type the Corps of Engineers had proposed to build. Under an agreement with the college, the corps will now build the bridge according to college specifications. The new bridge will be much larger.

FINANCIAL AID—Held over until the next meeting a discussion of changes in the financial aid section of the district's policies and procedures handbook.

David Covered With Figleaf

LONDON (AP) — David has come to London, wearing a figleaf to spare the blushes of the British.

An eight-foot-tall copy of Michelangelo's statue of David, which stands naked and unashamed in Florence, is the centerpiece of Italia Romantica, a two-week promotion of Italian goods being staged at a large department store in the suburb of Kingston-upon-Thames.

"Some people might have been shocked by the real thing," a store spokesman said. "We are in a central shopping area, by traffic lights, and it might have fascinated shoppers and motorists too much without the fig leaf."

Paper Artifacts

Paper artifacts of the California gold rush period compiled by Steven Cabella, a 16-year-old sophomore at Redwood High School who lives at 21 Cypress Avenue, Kentfield are on display at the Bon Air shopping center branch of Wells Fargo Bank during banking hours.

State Still Working On College Study

State junior college officials, studying the feasibility of a Novato campus for the College of Marin, told the college's trustees last night they would complete their report by May 4.

Weston Alt, a consultant to the chancellor of the California Community Colleges, told the trustees the study by the four-man study team would continue through this week.

TARGET DATE

"We have set May 4 as the target date for getting our report to you," Alt said. "We know how tight a deadline you are on."

The College of Marin hopes to construct a campus in Novato and have it open by 1974. To qualify for state funding, however, the study team from the chancellor's office must make a favorable report. It is that report that is in the making.

A major problem facing the college is the recent adoption of guidelines by state junior college officials which call for a campus to have a minimum student enrollment of 10,250.

The projection for the Novato campus is 5,000 students, about the same number at the Kentfield campus now.

WHAT'S AHEAD

If the study team's report is favorable, the college must then make a series of applications for state funding to help construct the Novato campus. College Supt.-President John A. Grasham told the board last night he was considering calling a special meeting as soon as the report is received so that the applications — should they be needed — can be filed immediately with the state.

The study team is also looking at the joint use of the Novato campus by the Sonoma Junior College District and will make a recommendation on that in the report, Grasham said.

Bronze Star To Petaluman

Bruce M. Cader of Petaluma, a former Marine, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for heroism in Vietnam.

Cader, who had been a lance corporal with the Fifth Marine Division, was honored for his actions during a battle last year in Quang Nam province when he kept the enemy pinned down with hand grenades after his other ammunition was depleted.

Cader also assisted in guiding medical helicopters to the area and in the loading of casualties.

A 1968 graduate of Petaluma Senior High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Cader, 1315 Ely Road.

Students Repel Hungry Soldiers

GHENT, Belgium (AP) — Members of the 7th U.S. Army soldiers choir were refused access to the students' restaurant at Ghent University Thursday by students who shouted: "Go and eat napalm."

The students said they opposed "U.S. support to Fascist regimes." The Ghent performance Thursday night by the choir was given for the benefit of the overseas aid organization, Oxfam.

The 29-member U.S. Army choir from Hiedelberg, West Germany, under Capt. Elmer Christ, performed in five Belgian cities.

Boy Scouts Need Help On Tree

Douglas Sullivan, 8, of 508 Williams Drive, Petaluma, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital yesterday for scrapes suffered when he was struck by a car at 6:30 p.m. at Petaluma Boulevard North and West Street. Police lacked details of the accident.

Beer Kegs Taken

Two barrels of beer worth a total value of $37 were stolen between 5:30 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. yesterday from a fenced yard at Golden Gate Distributors, 1942 Fourth Street, San Rafael police reported today.

HAUNTED HOUSE COMES DOWN

The walls of the old Coleman School at the corner of Grand Avenue and Lincoln Lane in San Rafael began falling yesterday under the treads of a bulldozer. The building, which had housed the county library and other county offices for several years after it was closed as a school, had been used in recent years only for a haunted house tour on Halloween conducted by the Jolly Rogers Chapter of the Children's Home Society. Each year for the last six years, children were led through the house to catch glimpses of the ghosts, witches and elves who lived there. Where they've gone now, no one knows.

Stepped-Up Israeli Jet Canal Raids

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes attacked Egyptian targets across the Suez Canal Thursday night, raided guerrilla bases in the central Jordan Valley this morning, and struck across the canal again this afternoon, the Israeli military command reported.

Spokesmen said the planes flew a 20-minute raid across the waterway Thursday and a 1½-hour mission across it today. All returned safely, the spokesmen added.

The attacks in the Jordan Valley were east of Deir Alla, seven miles northeast of the Damiya Bridge over the Jordan River, and north of the ancient town of Salt, 13 miles northwest of Amman.

The Israelis said the targets were guerrilla bases. But a spokesman in Amman said the jets strafed plantations and a road killing five civilians and wounding three.

Jordanias antiaircraft fired at the planes but none was reported shot down.

The Israeli military command also reported that Syrian troops swept down on two cars carrying an Israeli family on a Passover outing in the occupied Golan Heights Thursday and opened up with sub machine-gun fire, killing a woman and her son-in-law and wounding five persons.

Israeli spokesmen said the attack was carried out by about 20 Syrian soldiers some 500 miles from the cease-fire line.

Alioto Unable To Lift Sewage Ban

SAN JOSE (AP) — Despite pleadings from San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board has refused to lift its ban on new construction in the city.

The board, meeting here Thursday said it will wait until May 15 to see if there has been a statistically significant reduction in the amount of sewage pollution San Francisco pours into the bay.

Alioto and the city's board of supervisors president, Dianne Feinstein, told the water board the city is moving on a "crash basis" to improve sewage treatment plants.

Fred Dierker, exectuive director of the water board, recommended against San Francisco's request saying "actual improvements or reduction in pollution have not been demonstrated."

The regional and state weter boards have prohibited new connections to sewer lines in two-thirds of the city. The boards ruled that discharges into the bay by sewage plants in the northeastern and southeastern sections violate antipollution standards.

Enforcement of the ban has been stayed for 30 days by a court order.

All Bay Area board members remained silent when board chairman William Weber called for a motion on Alioto's plea for lifting of the ban.

Threats of building bans in San Jose and the huge East Bay Municipal Utility District did not materialize.

The San Joes case was delayed until the board's May 28 meeting in Palo Alto after the city said it would require five hours for presentation.

East Bay MUD, which serves Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Albany and parts of Richmond and El Cerrito, was told it would not face the prospect of a building ban so long as it stayed on schedule in its treatment correction program.

Driver Indicted On Manslaughter

FRESNO (AP) — Richard C. Cornelius, 22, of Carmichael, was indicted on manslaughter charges Thursday stemming from a Yosemite National Park traffic accident that killed three members of a Merced family.

The federal grand jury issued the indictment in connection with the Feb. 28 deaths of Castle Air Force Base Col. James L. Walls, 41, his wife, Joy, 39, and their son, James, 11.

Park officials indicated the family was standing against a retaining wall near the Wawona tunnel when Cornelius' car came out of the tunnel and rammed into them.

LSD Party Leads To Damage Case

SANTA MONICA (AP) — A fashion model, saying an unscheduled "trip" on potato chips sprinkled with LSD caused her permanent mental and physical disabilities, is suing for $1 million damages.

Heidi Anders, 29, said in a suit filed Thursday in Superior Court that she was one of 27 persons who became ill at a "swinging singles" party after eating the chips without knowing the hallucinogenic drug had been sprinkled on them.

Her suit asks the $1 million in general damages plus medical expenses and loss of earnings. It was brought against the South Bay Club and 30 John Does, including the host and caterer. The party was held in the apartment house clubhouse April 15.

Phony Bonds Cost Brothers $20,000

Two elderly Petaluma brothers have been bilked of $20,000 in a racket that offers senior citizens phony treasury bonds at high interest rates on a tax free basis, police reported today.

Sgt. William Reed said that Robert P. Guglielmetti, 89, of 415 A Street and his brother, William J. Guglielmetti, 92, of 907 C Street, had each purchased $10,000 of the phony bonds.

William Guglielmetti became involved in the swindle when he answered an advertisement about the bonds in the Wall Street Journal. When the salesman, billed as a treasury agent, visited his home, his brother also purchased the bonds.

Reed said the men were given false certificates as receipts for their personal checks and were told that bonds would be processed and mailed to them.

At least one other Petaluman was approached by the salesman, but did not complete the purchase on the advice of his banker.

Reed said the salesman has also apparently been operating in San Francisco and that the two police departments are cooperating in the investigation as well as the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Secret Service.

Aerospace Aid For Students

The Academy of Aerospace and Aviation—a joint venture of government, civic groups and industry—opened here with 42 students. They are taking courses in airframe and powerplant mechanics, electronics, passenger service or pilot training.

Upon completion of the required courses, students receive a high school diploma and an academy certificate recognized by participating aerospace and aviation firms in the area.

How to stop lawn weeds now!

The easy way to clean out lawn weeds is to walk them away with Scotts Bonus or Plus-2.

There's no mess or fuss when you get rid of weeds with Scotts Bonus or Plus-2. Simply pour the clean, lightweight granules into your spreader and take a stroll over the lawn.

If you have dichondra you'll want Scotts Bonus. Two applications, eight weeks apart, clear out oxalis, soliva, chickweed and the like. Bonus makes weeds gradually disappear as it fertilizes dichondra to greener beauty Two important jobs at once.

If you have a grass lawn ask for Scotts Plus-2. A single application clears out dandelions, plantain, chickweed and many other non-grass weeds. Full-feeds your lawn too, making good grass fill in where the weeds were.

Now's the time to use either Bonus or Plus-2. And now's the time to save dollars—during Scotts April Weeds-Away Sale. So hurry in to one of the stores listed below and SAVE.

State Lifts Freeze On Funds For Bridge

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Funds to begin widening the Highway 101 bridge across Richardson Bay that were frozen last October to aid the Nixon administration's anti-inflation fight were released by the State Highway Commission yesterday.

A total of $1.6 million was alloted for the first year of the 18-month $4.3 million widening project that involves widening accesses to the bridge and building two additional lanes on the six lane bridge, according to the commission.

President Nixon, who had asked for a nationwide cut in public works spending last fall, recently informed the state that the anit-inflation maneuver had served its purpose so the state released the last $78.8 million of $126 million it had originally impounded.

The Southern Marin highway work was not delayed by the freeze, according to the State Division of Highways in San Francisco. The division had continued design studies in the interim.

The project, which will involve installation of 84 concrete pilings to add one lane to the bridge in each direction, is part of a program to make Highway 101 eight lanes from Spencer Avenue in Sausalito to Corte Madera.

Total value of the 39 projects given the go-ahead yesterday is nearly $220 million including state and federal funds. Bay Area projects will require $33 million.

UAW Eyes Wage Demands In Excess Of 8 Per Cent

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — United Auto Workers' wage demands on the auto industry this year will be well in excess of 8 per cent a year, Walter P. Reuther, the union's president, said today.

Just how much more was not specified by the UAW leader, who mentioned the figure while discussing another matter with delegates to the union convention.

"We expect to do a hell of a lot better than that for the buys in the shop," Reuther said, hinting for the first time about the — scope of what the union has been saying will be "substantial" wage demands of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler in July.

Reuther's comments came as the convention discussed the salaries of its officers and staff members. Pay raises for them of 8 per cent this year and 7 per cent next year have been proposed.

"If we don't do better than that, we are certainly going to have a strike," said Leonard Woodcock, a UAW vice president, referring to forthcoming negotiations with the Big Three automakers. Contracts expire Sept. 14.

Raises for union officers and staff were contingent on negotiating a wage pattern with one of the Big Three for the UAW's 750,000 rank-and-file auto workers.

Auto workers now average $4.02 an hour plus fringe benefits.

Base salaries now for UAW international representatives are $14,700. Officer salaries range downward form Reuther's $32,907.

One delegate complained that union officials' proposed raises, added to previous hikes, would exceed $3,000-a-year since the last UAW convention two years ago.

"You have your expense accounts, but I have three kids to feed," said the delegate, Ian MacEvan, who works in a Ford stamping plant in Bedford, Ohio.

It was at this point that Reuther and Woodcock said the expect to win much more for the workers over two years.

"I don't want any newspaperman or television commentator to take the eight per cent staff salary adjustment for 1970 and the seven per cent for 1971 and put them together and say that will be the framework of our bargaining with the auto industry," Reuther said.

"Our goal in 1970 and 1971 is not the sum of eight per cent plus seven per cent," Reuther said.

Earlier, the giant union went on record as accusing Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell of staging a campaign of repression against Americans who espouse unpopular causes.

Moonlight Cruise Boat Gets Stuck

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A moonlight cruise boat got stuck on a sandbar in a dense fog on the Potomac River Thursday night and 560 tourists spent the night aboard before the vessel was pulled free today.

The tourists, including 400 out-of-town students, were treated to free food from the snack bar and entertainment from a dance band that normally accompanies the Wilson Line moonlight cruises.

The boat, the George Washington, ran aground at about 11 p.m. EST as heavy fog closed in. It was pulled free by the Diplomat, another cruiser ship, after a tug boat failed to jery the boat loose. The Diplomat could not be sent out until this morning because of the fog.

Another Auto Agency Window Broken Out

A metal nut broke another showroom window at Ted Schuman Chevrolet at 7123 Redwood Highway, Novato, sometime between midnight and 1 a.m. today, police reported.

Owner Ted R. Schuman said today he had alerted police to watch his showroom after another dealer reported being threatened yesterday by San Francisco Typograp hical Union No. 21.

The dealer told Schuman his office had received the call threatening "bigger damage was coming" if the firm did not stop advertising in the Independent-Journal.

This is the fourth attack on Schuman Chevrolet, which has also been warned by the union to discontinue advertising in the I-J during the union's strike against the newspaper.

Schuman estimated last night's damage at between $150 and $200.

Injuries Minor

John E. Bennett, 22, of 45 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera, was treated at 10:25 p.m. yesterday at Marin General Hospital for bruises on the chest and back suffered in a traffic accident in San Francisco, the hospital reported. Details of the accident were not available.

Fouquet's Jury Asks For Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury recommended today that Ronald Fouquet, convicted of first-degree murder of his five year-old stepson, be sentenced to death in the gas chamber.

Judge Adolph Alexander scheduled formal sentencing for May 15.

The same Superior Court jury of eight men and four women convicted Fouquet, 31, last Monday in the death of Jeffery Lansdown following a three - week trial.

Poor Speech May Be A Trouble Sign

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—There's no need to worry about a todler's lisp. But do worry if it continues into the seventh or eighth year.

The lisp or other speech problems in childhood can signal real trouble ahead. Catch such trouble quickly.

"It would be unrealistic if we expected a child to be able to say the "S" sound before he was three or four," says John E. Bryant, an authority on speech defects. "This does not mean, however, that he cannot be helped to master all —or most —of the sounds of speech before he reaches seven and a half."

SPEECH DEVELOPS in various stages from the "early cries of discomfort caused by hunger, pain and wet diapers" until at about age two the child begins using speech to communicate. But there are problems which can interfere with normal speech development, says Bryant.

In such instances, parents should seek professional advice —"for the longer the speech disorder remains uncorrected, the more difficult it becomes to eradicate...

"Children...whose (speech) problems go uncorrected also face the possibility of doing poorly in school and of developing defensive behavior patterns that set them apart from other children their own age."

Bryant discusses speech problems in detail in a new publication from the Public Affairs Committee, a New York-based nonprofit educational organization. Bryant is director of Speech and Hearing Services at the Mid-Island Speech and Hearing Center, Commack, N. Y., and the publication is called "Helping Your Child Speak Correctly."

BRYANT SAYS that causes of speech disorders are numerous, but the major types come from organic (physical), functional, or psychological.

Under organic, he lists causes such as deafness or hearing problems, since a child learns to talk by listening to others, clefts of the palate, improper bite (malocclusion), brain injury, cerebral palsy, and deformities of the mouth, throat or larynx.

Functional causes could be poor health during the first two years of life, lack of motivation to learn, inadequate teaching, imitation of poor speech and immaturity.

Or, psychologically, a child may react with frustration to the unrealistic standards set by his parents, which can lead to delayed speech or to stuttering. The child of an overly protective parent "who anticipates his every need" may find it unnecessary to talk.

BRYANT CAUTIONS against "unrealistically high expectations" and assuming there's a speech problem when actually talking is only a matter of normal development. A teacher, a psychologist, or a speech therapist can help parents determine whether a child really does need therapy.

Parents can help in speech development—keeping in mind, says Bryant, that it should be done "in a friendly way, a little at a time." He suggests several games to develop vocabulary, like the sentence game in which the child is shown a picture and mamma says a rhymed couplet which the child finishes. For instance—a picture of a pig can be used with, "Here is a pig that is very...". The child finishes with "Big".

Bryant frowns on those who suggest a child will "outgrow" a speech disorder. "Unfortunately, if their children do have true speech problems, the chances are they will not...", he says.

Nixon Told To Act On Equality For Women

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — America faces "danger of accelerating militancy" from women if they are not granted equal rights, a task force has told President Nixon.

"American women are increasingly aware and restive over the denial of equal opportunity and equal responsibility, even equal protection of the law," the presidential panel said in a confidential report.

It said Nixon should be at least as concerned about sex discrimination as racial discrimination.

"Positive action," urged the 13-member Task Force on Women's Rights and Responsibilities, "would be a deterrent to the radical liberation movement preaching revolution."

The task force report was submitted last Dec. 15 and copies have been circulated within the administration.

Among other things, the report recommends an office of women's rights under the president, a White House conference on women's rights, and new legislation to remedy sex discrimination in education, social security, taxes, family assistance and employment.

It also urged that the President appoint more women to top government jobs and issue guidelines against sex discrimination in hiring by government contractors.

It recommended, as "our national goal," a system of well-run child care centers available to all preschool children. Lack of such centers was cited as the single most significant barrier to job training and employment of low income mothers.

Among discriminatory practices singled out by the report were exclusion of women by some state universities and some state laws governing marriage, guardianship, and property ownership.

Some states even provide longer prison terms for women and prohibit them from working as bartenders but not as lower-paid bar waitresses, the report noted.

The panel included two men —Vassar College President Alan Simpson and William C. Mercer, vice president of personnel relations for American Telephone and Telegraph Co. The task force chairman was Virginia R. Allen, former president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

A Tour Of Hillside Houses

Hillside homes will be featured at Wednesday's house tour, sponsored by the Fairhills Guild of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science. The homes of Messrs. and Mmes. Seymour Ellison, Kenneth Davis, John C. Thuma, Norman M. Green and Gregory S. Lyon, all in the Fairhills section of San Rafael, will be open between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

A fashion show and luncheon will be held at the Davis residence from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Members of the Mannequin League of Marin will model informally around the swimming pool, where handmade glazed ceramic vases, bowls and weed pots by Jay Widmer will be on display and for sale. Guild members will also sell succulents, which have been planted in abalone shells. Each room of the Davis home, built for entertaining, affords its own privacy.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Ellison have decorated their home for a young family's life, having two small children. In their daughter's bedroom, a French armoire is used as a toy closet, and the dresser is English Victorian, originally part of a formal dining set.

THE ELLISON'S have a double living room, one offering solitude and the other geared for the activity of a family.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory S. Lyon was built to blend with the natural formation of the hill. The blend has created a peaceful and harmonious effect. An unusual skylight, outstanding fireplace, brick floors and beautifully tiled counters are features of the home.

A collection of Latin and Central American items are displayed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman M. Green. The molas on the dining room wall, handmade in Panama, are of particular interest because of the intricate work, and their cheerful colors complement the home.

The unusually high entry hall in the John C. Thuma home leads the way to the elevated living areas of the home with an unusual swimming pool set between the hillside. The house is bordered by a redwood deck.

Son's First Female Interest Is A Rather Experienced Young Girl

DEAR HELEN:

Our son has been going steady with a girl for almost a year now. She is his first female interest, and I wish he might have found a less experienced one.

He brought home a box of notes she had been saving, evidently because she didn't want them where her mother might find them. I came across these letters while cleaning out the garage and couldn't resist reading one. Then I read them all — for they revealed she had had relations with three other boys when she was 13 and 14 years old. She's 15 now.

The more I read the madder I got. So I took them to her mother, who didn't seem too concerned. She said she'd rather her daughter dated our Bill than any other boy.

Next, I found out that she and Bill were using a friend's house-trailer. He didn't deny the affair, but was upset when we took away his car privileges. They both promised they would stop, but Bill got a note from her yesterday, and I fished it out of his wastepaper basket today. In it, she wanted to know if she was "too demanding." So I know they're still involved. His homework suffers because she calls him constantly.

He'll be starting college in the fall. We don't want him to lose out. We also realize we can't stop his seeing the girl if he wants to. What can we do?—WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

When a girl starts calling a boy constantly and becomes "too demanding," his parents can soon stop worrying. But the girl's folks had better start worrying before she ends up pregnant with nobody anxious to marry her or share the blame. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

I don't understand smokers. You'd think the warnings they get on all sides would have some effect, but not with my husband.

My pleas for his own life and health do no good. He's told me a dozen times he's thinking of quitting but he never takes the initial step. I realize breaking a habit is hard, but I don't understand why intelligent people (my husband is a Ph.D. candidate in science) refuse to respect these warnings.

I have resigned myself to the fact that he will probably die earlier than he should, especially since there is a history of lung disease in his family. My complaint now is the plight of the nonsmoker: Me.

I have asthma. It's impossible for me to breathe when there is too much smoke in the room. In our two years of marriage, my husband still hasn't realized what he is doing to me. He even insists on smoking in bed while he reads — and I wheeze for breath.

He's not a sadist. In all other respects he's kind, loving and considerate man. Yet he has let cigarettes rule his life.

If smoking damages the lungs of smokers, it must certainly pollute the air and hurt innocent bystanders. My one message to these smokers: If you insist on continuing a habit that will surely cut years off your life, make sure it is just suicide, not homicide. Don't kill your loved ones just because you can't lick a nasty habit. — SMOKER'S FUTURE WIDOW

PERSONAL TO "HUSBAND OF A SAVER": It's been said that junk is something you keep for ten years and then throw away two days before you need it. Your wife could have worse habits — like buying worthless "antiques" instead of saving them.—H.

ON BEING BLACK

'When White Kids Call You Nigger'

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"You've never been called a nigger?" The black woman's eyebrows raised. "How then can you write about being black?"

"It's true," I answered. "To my face, I've never been called a nigger."

"Then you don't know what it's like to be 7 years old and run home crying because some white kids called you a nigger?"

"NO, BUT I do know what it's like to be 7 years old and go to a swimming pool with white peers and read a huge sign in bold, black letters: "We reserve the right to refuse admittance to any person we deem unfitting for this establishment' and have to go to the bathroom and vomit because I knew they were referring to me.

"Had I been in the South, I would have gone to a colored pool in the first place (there were no colored pools in my Northern city), and had I been immediately recognizable as being a black they would have asked me to leave from the git-go. I had seen it happen to others. They didn't know that I was black, but I did. So, instead of having an afternoon of swimming fun, I spent an afternoon frozen with fear, terrified that I would be detected. The stimulus was different, but I assure you the pain's the same."

The black experience is an individual thing for each person who undergoes it. Though the end result—the pain of being black in a white-racist society—is the same, we are products of the varied experiences which together make up the black experience:

Southern blacks and Northern blacks have had different types of conditioning. In the South, there is no attempt to hide racist attitudes and tactics toward blacks. In the North, many of the same views are just carefully veiled.

IN EASTERN cities, black communities have expanded vertically—multi-story tenement houses and 20-story housing projects. In the West (where it's the best), the ghettos have expanded horizontally — with street after street of small, tired houses and two-story housing projects.

Rural blacks basically have the same problems and frustrations as their urban counterparts but have coped with them differently.

A black person's schooling—segregated or integrated—and social expereinces and the degree to which he has been victimized by these experiences make up his black experience.

Monied blacks are comparatively rare, but their experiences and fears have been different from the poor blacks who must rely on welfare and cannot act upon that "flight impulse" — the wish to leave the ghetto and all its misery. Lack of mobility is an overwhelming frustration.

Color differences have caused us to view one another—and whites to view us—in varying lights. The "old guard," Southern Creole's experiences are not like those of a similarly hued black in the North.

EDUCATIONAL DIFFERENCES have caused some of us to become more aware of and able to deal intelligently with the rapidly changing times than our less-educated brothers.

And, of course, the male-female experiences differ greatly. Our society places great stock in the already established roles for men and women. Black men and women have been unable to exercise themselves in the existing rolls for reasons which are now obvious. The fact that the white society has generally directed greater hostility and fear toward the black male than the black female has also tempered our experiences.

So, being black for Sandra Haggerty is, of course, different, yet somehow the same, from being black for Cleotis Jones. The important thing is that, once having examined the black experience, we support reforms which will henceforth and evermore spare 7-year-olds from the pain of racism.

ACT Benefit To Be Held Thursday At The Palace Of Fine Arts

Many Marin women are helping with a Bay Area benefit for the American Conservatory Theatre to be held Tuesday at the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco. Mrs. Adolph Mueller II of Belvedere is chairman of "Get Into The Act", including a potpourri of entertainment, fish and chips, cocktails and dancing.

Hostesses from Marin are Mmes. Charles Eberlee, Roland Gotti, Lynn Bergeron and Thomas Drohan. Marin publicity chairman is Mrs. Burton Stitt.

A potpourri of entertainment is planned including Virginia Ness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ness of Belvedere and a student at American Conservatory Theatre, who will appear with the "Madrigals" folk singers.

TO FINANCE their trip to Sacramento to see government in action, the eighth graders of St. Hilary's School in Tiburon are baking for a sale of bakery goods from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday at St. Hilary's Church. They will be assisted by the Parent-Teacher Group.

MRS. DOROTHY G. Krieger will be installed president of the Novato Business and Professional Women's Club at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Black Point Inn in Novato.

Mrs. Betty Davis of the Redwood Empire District will be the installing officer.

Officers to be installed with Mrs. Krieger are Mmes. Dorothy P. Young, first vice president; Penny Kane, second vice president; Beverly Alberigi, recording secretary; Gertrude Picchi, corresponding secretary; Florence Elijah, treasurer; and Ruth Craig, parliamentarian.

SUNDAY THE Marin and San Francisco Shrine Clubs will present a brunch and fashion show at 10 a.m. at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Marin reservations chairman is H.B. Hennessy of Fairfax, and decorations chairmen are Messrs. and Mmes. Charles White and Charles Guilder. Mmes. John Lalor and Jay Jones will provide table decorations, and Henry Warner will be commentator during the fashion show.

CENTRAL MARIN'S League of Women Voters annual meeting and convention will be held Tuesday at the Holiday Inn at 9:15 a.m.

OFFICERS OF the Petaluma Branch of the Business and Professional Women's Club are Mmes. Dorothea Goodell, president; Darlene Westerterp, vice president; Sarah Flynn, recording secretary; Thelma Westerterp, corresponding secretary; Amelia Vanoni, treasurer; and Ruth Snodgrass, auditor.

Jennifer Enos, 12, received a a silver medal for her first place essay on the topic "Your Land and Mine." The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Enos, she is a sixth grade pupil of Mrs. Kathleen Lloyd of Marin Terrace School.

Marie Haxton, 11, received a bronze medal for second place. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Haxton, she is a sixth grade pupil of William Castelli at Park School.

Jenifer Sherman, 11, received a certificate of merit for third place. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman, she is also a pupil of Mrs. Lloyd at Marin Terrace.

The first place essay has been sent on to compete with essays from other counties for further awards, according to Americanism chairman Mrs. Maurice Angland.

CAMP FIRE Girls of Marin will hold the only registration for summer day camps Monday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Marin Co-Op Food Store, 71 Tamal Vista Blvd., Corte Madera.

Day camps will be held at Alice Eastwood on June 22 to 26 and Lagunitas on June 22 to 31 for girls in third through sixth grades. A day camp for girls in seventh and eighth grades will be held at Kirby Cove on July 20 to 24.

Training sessions for camp counselors will be held at Phoenix Lake on June 2, Alice Eastwood on June 3 and Lagunitas on June 4.

NEXT SPEAKER in the Delta Delta Delta lecture series for collegiates and alumnae will be Margaret Lucas, who will attend a dinner meeting at the chapter house in Berkeley on Monday.

Miss Lucas, recently appointed assistant to the manager of employee relations at Bechtel Corporation, will discuss career opportunities. She is a past president of the Bay Area Association of Personnel Women and past president of the International Association of Personnel Women.

The program follows dinner at 5:30 p.m. Tri Delta Alumnae who wish to attend may contact the chapter house.

Miss Lucas, a former resident of Tiburon, was a member of the Personnel Commission of Marin for 10 years and chairman for two years.

Mrs. Dean Solinsky of Kentfield is Marin reservations chairman.

MARIN COUNTY Legal Secretaries Association passed a resolution to apply their $100 Special Project Fund for the fiscal year May 1969 to May 1970 to the San Francisco Lighthouse for the Blind — Enchanted Hills Camp for the specific purpose of sending a blind child from Marin County to the two week camp period starting June 21.

MRS. ANDREW Haxton of Mill Valley has been presented with an honorary service award by the Park School Parent-Teacher Association in Mill Valley. This means that $25 will be given in her name to the state P-TA scholarship and loan fund.

Mrs. Haxton, who received the award for "outstanding service to children and youth," has five children ranging in age from 6 to 13 who attend Park and Edna Maguire Schools.

A past president of the Park P-TA, she is chairman this year for multi-ethnic studies for that unit. At Edna Maguire School she serves on the scholarship committee which presents a talent show fund-raiser for music scholarships.

She has been an assistant Girl Scout leader and is a member of the nominating and referral committee of the Richardson Bay Girl Scout Association. She also teaches kindergarten at Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera and is chairman of the church's stewardship committee.

Small Onion

Small onions are best for boiling whole, stewing or creaming—medium ones for serving stuffed, and larger ones for thick slices to top off hamburgers and for fried onion rings. All sizes of onions are equally good for grating, chopping, dicing or slicing.

PRINT PICTURE

Prints for spring are small with floral geometric, Oriental or art deco designs with all-over repeats. College-Town expresses the print mood in a dress of triacetate with puffed sleeves, a short, flippy skirt and long, body-clinging torso.

Hardy Amies Hails Drop Of The Hemline

LONDON (AP) — Hardy Amies, dressmaker to the queen and England's most successful high fashion designer, today hailed the drop of the hemline as good news that will liberate designers hung up on the mini.

"All designers have felt the total restriction of the short skirt," he said in an interview. "It inhibited the line of a costume. I never liked the mini, but had to adjust to it.

"Now the long skirt is definitely here. Our smartest customers are ordering them."

IN HIS LAST collection of spring and summer styles, shown here in January, Amies made about a third of the skirts midi length top of the calf and the rest just knee length.

Besides his couture and boutique womens' wear in England, the designer is one of the big three in menswear in America, where he has a $5 million dollar annual turnover.

Amies went into menswear in America in 1960. His suits sell for $150 to $175. He may soon add women's wear to the American line, he said.

"The basic reason for our success in menswear is that we really concentrate on the suit; we were the first to do the long jacket and the flared trousers. We have brought movement to the suit."

AMIES ESTIMATES that he makes about half the queen's clothes. Of her inclusion on Blackwell's list of the 10 worst dressed women, he remarked: "Obviously Blackwell—and anybody else who criticizes the queen's dress—has absolutely no idea what she expects from her clothes.

"Being the best-dressed woman in the world is a full-time job. The queen has another job; she is very busy, and we go on the assumption that we should try to make her life easy. I think the queen has no desire to be on a best-dressed list.

"She is a typical couture customer. She hasn't a standard figure. We use cuts from the collection for her, because we don't want to experiment on her. But we have to do it so she is never confronted with a woman wearing the same dress as hers.

"That's never happened; certainly not with our clothes. She has started to buy from the boutique, but more for her private life."

chairman of the tour, and committee members are Mmes. Jack Jannes, invitations and printing; John C. Thuma, sponsors; John LaNoue, refreshments and luncheon; Richard W. Creighton, hostesses; Cranford Newell, decorations; and Jason Widmer, patio pots and plants.

Reservations chairman is Mrs. J. G. Miles. Reservations must be made in advance, and those going on the tour may start at any of the homes. Proceeds will be used by the Fairhills Guild to aid the Boyd Marin Museum of Science in its educational and expansion programs.

Floaty Fabrics

Fabrics in the new crop of bridal gowns include floaty types — fragile silk laces, chiffons, voiles, organdy and lightweight linen. Silk taffeta also is in the running and looks especially attractive in heirloom lace.

J. B. Burkes Celebrate 50th Year

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Burke of Petaluma was observed recently at a reception hosted by their children and held at the Petaluma Woman's Club. The hall was decorated with flowers arranged by Mrs. Melvin Hein and Mrs. Joseph Cardoza, family friends, with a special arrangement in the hall by Mrs. William Simi Jr., a niece of Mrs. Burke's.

Married in Santa Rosa, the Burkes have lived in Petaluma since 1936.

Honoring their parents were daughters, Mmes. Irene Harrell, Clifford Thiel, Jerold Hall, Leo Coonradt, and a son, James Burke Jr., all of Petaluma. Mrs. Robert Pereira, a daughter from Anchorage, Alaska, flew to Petaluma for the occasion. Another out-of-town guest was a granddaughter, Mrs. Daniel Newell, who flew from Germany for the party.

A foster daughter, Mrs. James Edwards of Bijou, Lake Tahoe, also attended.

Retired since 1962, Mr. Burke was with the California State Highway Department for 30 years.

Bank Bandit Slain After Killing Officer

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A bandit who fatally shot a security guard and an off-duty policeman Thursday following a bank robbery was shot and killed by other officers as he hid under a trailer about half a mile from the bank.

Police said the holdup man, Charles H. Mack, 32, entered the Security Pacific Bank branch in south central Los Angeles carrying a black satchel and demanded money at the point of a .38 caliber revolver.

A teller handed over $1,600 and the man began to leave out a door where George MacMullen, 50, a security guard was standing.

Without warning, the holdup man shot MacMullen, who fell to the floor with his revolver still holstered.

At this point, police said, Mack ran into the bank's parking lot where off-duty officer Earl Riddick, 30, observed the suspect and drew his gun. He was shot before he got it out of the holster.

Mack jumped into a 1968 Pontiac, which police said he stole earlier, and sped away. Riddick managed to shoot through the back window of the vehicle wounding Mack.

The shattered rear window of the car attracted the attention of motorcycle officers C.E. Tague and F.T. Albert.

The occifers took up the chase and Mack made a screaming turn, bounced off a curb and jumped from his car and fled on foot.

Authorities said Mack ducked into a backyard, reloaded his pistol and then crawled beneath the trailer.

A woman saw him and told police. Officers closed in and killed the suspect with a burst of more than 20 shots.

The case containing the money was found nearby.

Riddick, a policeman since May, 1968, died later at a hospital. MacMullen was dead at the scene.

New License Hours Are Set

Drivers applying for new licenses this year have been advised by the state Department of Motor Vehicles to apply during the morning hours on Tuesdays, Wednesday, or Thursdays.

According to Orin J. Riley, manager at the department's Corte Madera office, 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. is also a slow period, since the public habitually crowds the office late in the afternoon.

He added the local office is processing about 250 applications a day, which is about a 40 per cent increase over last year.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

A Personal Look At Network 'Crisis'

By BOB DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — We take you today to the private penthouse office of the XYZ television network in New York. Two executives sit facing each other across a desk, sipping bromides, their collars askew, cold compresses on their heads. They speak:

"Did you check the company astrologer?"

"Yes. He says that according to the third cycle of the moon, by way of Taurus, out of Sagittarius, we should have as good a year as the stock market."

"All right. Let's get it over with. What's on the agenda?"

"Well, everybody's talking about television cassettes."

BEFORE LUNCH?

"Did you have to mention that before lunch?"

"Anyway, we're in on that. But then, of course, there's the pay-TV thing."

"What did the astrologer say?"

"He says it's a good year to lock the front door, pull down the shades and stay indoors. But if we're smart, we can get in on the pay-TV too."

"Of course we will. But in the meantime, stall."

"Okay. But now, there's also the cigarette advertising we'll lose after Jan. 1."

"I know. I know. Those anti-smoking commercials didn't help. Sometimes I hate commedcials."

FCC's PLAN

"Now, what do we do about hte FCC's attempt to take a half hour or prime time away from the networks each night?"

"Nothing. It just looks bad. Wait till they see what the local stations and syndication fill up those half hours with. In a year, the FCC will be begging us to take the time back."

"Someone apparently thinks the local and syndicated shows will be more cultural and less commercial."

"If it didn't hurt so much, I'd laugh. But I can't."

"All right. What do we do about Agnew?"

"Be brave. He's got good connections."

"And the movement for minority employment?"

"For heaven's sake, we're trying. We're trying."

"What about that statement from Armsrtong Cork Co. that it's dropping Tv advertising because of 'childish programming'?"

TWO ASTROLOGERS

"Maybe we should have two astrologers."

"And how about Dean Burch's FCC speech criticizing the lack of enough children's programming?"

"Are you sure Tommy Smothers isn't behind this whole thing?"

"There's also that group—Action for Children's Television (ACT)—that asked the FCC to ban commercials on all kids' shows."

'I don't even want to talk about it."

"And the critics keep needling us about all our nature documentaries when so many other things are happening."

"Off the record, I agree with them. But ratings are ratings."

"Well, anyway, I see we had record profits again in 1969."

"My, my. What a great big surprise? Imagine that."

"But what about the move to restrict our station ownership?"

"That does it. Fire the astrologer. Get me F. Lee Bailey. Let the sunshine in."

Big Jump In Jobless Checks

Unemployment insurance payments from its San Rafael office jumped almost $140,000 over the March disbursal, last year, the state Department of Employment announced yesterday.

A total of $258,710 was paid out last March, but the figure leaped to $395,782 this March, according to the department.

Payments in California for March of this year exceeded $58 million as opposed to only $43.5 million last March.

Heyerdahl Plans New Ra Voyage

OLSO (AP) — Norwegian explorer Thor Heyerdahl will make a new attempt to cross the Atlantic from Africa to America in a papyrus boat, it was reported Friday.

The Oslo newspaper Aftenposten said he would start from Safi, Morocco, early in May with a seven-man international crew aboard the Ra 2.

Heyerdahl, 55, was forced to give up his attempt to cross the Atlantic with the first Ra last summer.

The Ra 2 was built in secrecy at Safi by four Indians from the Titicaca lake area of Peru under supervision of Mexican anthropologist Santiago Genoves, the paper said.

$99,792 Grant For Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of the presence of President Nixon's Western White House, the police force of San Clemente, Calif., has been awarded a $99,792 government grant to meet new duties.

Atty. Gen. JOhn N. Mitchell said Thrusday the money will finance training, equpment and salaries to enable the 34 man police department to meet increased responsibilities.

MUSIC REVIEW

A New, Bland Lesson In Nation's History

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO—Last season, Civic Light Opera Association patrons were offered a look at Columbus before he sailed off to the new world in "1491."

However, despite all of its Broadway honors, "1776," didn't really light the stage with electric sparks last night. It's rather bland despite a few exciting numbers, excellent settings and above par performances from a well-balanced cast.

At least in this musical the characters are not hard to remember. There's the rabble rousing John Adams, the wise and sometimes salty Benjamin Franklin, the aristocratic Edward Rutledge of South Virginia, the young Thomas Jefferson and the lively Richard Henry Lee, also of Virginia, who offered the evening's only real show stopper.

"The Lees of Old Virginia," Gary Oakes bolts across the stage like a young stallion with some dandy lyrics. However, it was a long wait before any other really exciting music. Near the show's end Jack Blackton as Rutledge raises the show's score a notch or two again with the telling "Molasses To Rum," which pinpoints the wide split that divided the Continental Congress.

Save for the haunting "Momma Look Sharp," a young army courier's account of young men going off to fight for Gen. George Washington (done expertly by Ty McConnell), there was nothing really much more to get excited about.

Thanks to Rex Everhart as Franklin, Patrick Bedford as the protagonist, and Jon Cypher as Jefferson and Andrew McNair as the Congressional custodian, the dialogue is witty and often times sparkling.

Bedford, however, seemed to have had some vocal trouble last night with his practically non-lyrical voice.

It is interesting to note here that without a name star, the cast is generally excellent. George Hearn as John Dickinson, the dreamer from Pennsylvania that all will be healed with Mother England, pinpoints this rather well.

As much as anything else the setting by Jo Mielziner help to keep the show interesting. He has used a slanting stage with shifting side wings to transfer the action from the chamber room to the courtyard. It's most effective. Without it, the two-and-a-half hour musical, which runs seven scenes without an intermission, could have been a lot longer.

But somehow the music and lyrics of Sherman Edwards are just not dynamic enough to hold the whole evening together, even though Peter Stone's book offers many more opportunities.

The musical continues at the Curran for the next six weeks.

KATHY ANN MATTERI
Dairy princess candidate

Co-Ed Seeks A Crown In Petaluma

Kathy Ann Matteri, 17, a senior at St. Vincent High School, Petaluma, will be a contestant in the May 9 district dairy princess contest at the Petaluma Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

Miss Matteri plans to attend Santa Rosa Junior College with a major in liberal arts. She has been a member of the Old Adobe 4-H Club for six years and has exhibited clothing, cooking and home furnishing projects at area fairs.

In school she served as secretary of the Junior Activity Council and is a member of the National Honor Society, French Club, Girls Athletic Association, Junior Achievement and taught Catholic Catechism at St. James Parish for one year.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Matteri, 4091 Lakeville Highway, Petaluma. Her father is employed by the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery.

The winner of the district contest will represent the six county district at the state competition June 23-25 in Hollywood. Candidates may be from Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Lake, Mendocino and Solano counties.

Motorcycle Stolen

An inoperable purple 1968 Victor 441 motorcycle with license 984055 owned by Charles T. Sawyer was stolen sometime after 9 p.m. Wednesday from the owner's carport at 12 Laurel Place, San Rafael police reported today.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and from Parents Magazine. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Goodbye, Mr. Chips" — Beautifully staged musical version of James Hilton's novel about a lonely schoolmaster who falls in love with a music hall star and her influence on the students and the professor.

"King of Grizzlies" — Exciting biography of cub to king of his domain. Adventure film, marvelously photographed in Canadian Rockies has appeal for whole family.

"Oliver" — Great, big, overlong musical made from the show, which was made from the Dickens' classic. Delightful version, although there are some scary moments for the very young children.

"Run Wild, Run Free" — A simple moving quietly told story about an ill child and the curative power of nature and love is so convincingly acted it becomes an emotional experience.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Anne of the 1000 Days" — Magnificently staged and cast, historical drama of lust and political intrigue which encompasses the courtship, marriage, trial and beheading of Ann Boleyn. An elegant pageant presented with new perspective.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — Deft comedy about two charming bandits whose exploits made headlines in early 1900s. Delightful scenery, witty script and memorable performances.

"Cactus Flower" — Middleaged playboy dentist drafts his nurse to masquerade as his estranged wife and rescue him from a complicated situation with his current mistress.

"Five Million Years to Earth" — Fantastic science fiction tale about giant insects from Mars. Since Satan is in command the destruction on earth is far reaching. Acting is convincing, special effects excellent.

"Hell in the Pacific" — An absorbing World War II drama with a cast of just two fine actors. Story of their struggle for survival on an uninhabited island is handled with taste and sensitivity, photography is beautiful.

"Jenny" — A marriage of convenience of an unwed pregnant girl and a man trying to evade the draft form plot for this very frank, off beat love story. Handled with light and tasteful touch.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Alice's Restaurant" — Thought provoking, true story. Folk singer Arlo Gutherie described a commune that welcomes the wandering hippies who sing, dance, make love and smoke pot in an uncommitted life that is both sad and funny. Some of the language and actions are in poor taste.

"Boston Strangler" — Investigation leading to the arrest of a psychopath suspected of the mutilation and murder of 13 women in Boston in 1962. Grim subject treated with style and restraint, excellent performances by cast.

"They Shoot Horses Don't They?" — Dance marathons of depression years are vividly recreated in this powerful unusual drama in a study of humanity that is symbolic of life's struggles. Ending is macabre and shocking.

ADULTS ONLY

"Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice" — An irreverent social satire, slick in its trimmings, has a sharp bite in its characters, dialogue and frank appraisal of modern marriage and morals.

"Kremlin Letter" — Excellent cast and performances wasted on this confusing cynical spy melodrama and its unsavory practitioners. Melange of murder, sadistic violence, dope and sex.

"MASH" — Title stands for Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. Antiwar film deals with three Army surgeons who have developed an outlandish life style in order to survive the gore and horror that they live through. Scenes are gruesome as they are funny. Bittersweet element of truth in action and dialogue. Strong stomach is recommended.

"Midnight Cowboy" — Offbeat, hardhitting story of a male prostitute and a crippled hustler who meet in New York. Sordidness is tempered by skill and compassion, told in an uncompromising way.

Only 95 Cases Of Eye Damage

NEW YORK (AP) — The major eclipse of the sun last March 7 failed to produce the epidemic of eye damage the experts had feared, according to a survey by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

But the survey turned up a relatively and unexplained, number of cases in California, where the eclipse was only partially visible. Most states had two to four cases but California had 18.

The nationwide survey of eye specialists and hospital emergency rooms found 95 cases of eye damage from looking at the sun, not all permanent. This compares to the 247 cases found after a 1963 eclipse in a far less comprehensive survey.

A spokesman for the society said the relatively low number of cases this time appeared to be the result of widespread publication of warnings of the dangers.

Shotgun Killers Take Life Of Hotel Official

BERKELEY (AP) — Malcolm Macgregor, banquet manager for the Sir Francis Drake hotel in San Francisco, was shot and killed early today as he sat in a car near his Berkeley home.

Police said Throndd Medbrod, 46, manager of the hotel's Starlite Roof, who also was in the car, was not hit by the shotgun blast.

Officers said Medbrod reported that three men drove up on the quiet North Berkeley street and one told Macgregor, "We're going to shoot you."

The man then shot Macgregor in the head. He died three hours later at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Medbrod was treated for severe shock.

Forgery Case Plea Set Today

Salvatore Santos Gosman, 33, of 430 Canal Street, San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on two felony counts of check forgery.

The case was continued to today for entry of plea.

Gosman is accused of cashing checks belong to a Tiburon woman in a Mill Valley bank on Saturday and Monday.

Sailboat Stolen

An eight-foot El Toro sailboat and a rudder and centerboard valued at a total of $330 were stolen between 4 p.m. April 11 and 2 p.m. April 19 from the Sausalito Yacht Club, police reported today. The boat belonged to Bruce Easom, of 241 Santa Margarita Drive, San Rafael.

Small Car Stolen

A beige 1968 Porsche, license WKG 120, belonging to Manfred H. Pohl, 1 Cloudview Trail, Sausalito, was stolen from its parking place at Spencer and Alta avenues between 1 a.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday, Sausalito police reported today.

Hearing Set For Ranch Hands On Beating Charges

A preliminary hearing has been set for May 19 in Marin Municipal Court for two Sacramento ranch hands who are charged with the beating on March 29 of Novato man who operates the Atherton Stables.

Both Pierre Jon Hall, 30, and James Marquis Jr., 37, appeared in court yesterday suffering from bullet wounds. Hall has a cast on his hand and Marquis is on crutches and was just released from Sacramento hospital where he has been treated for a wound in his knee.

They are charged with feloniously assaulting Dallas Wyatt, 36, as well as entering his property with intent to commit a felony. Wyatt told sheriff's deputies that he feigned unconsciousness after the beating but ran to his house and got a gun and shot at the two men as they departed.

Marquis and Hall were arrested after Sonoma County officials said they asked for aid for bullet wounds there.

Wyatt has charged in a civil suit in which he asks over $500,000 damages that the men were employed by another Novato man, Daniel Sedgwick, to beat him. Wyatt has a sublease on the Atherton tSables property from Sedgwick, who runs the Novato Thoroughbred Farms.

Marinite Due Center Book Honor

I-J SPecial Report

OKLAHOMA CITY — A Tiburon man will receive the "Wrangler" trophy of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center for the best non-fiction western book of 1969 tonight.

Merrill J. Mattes of 35 Andrew Drive won the award for "The Great Platte River Road," published by the Nebraska State Historical Society. It treats the great covered wagon migrations westward from 1841 to 1866 on the trail the book took its name from. The author gleaned his information from more than 700 diaries over a 30-year period.

Mattes, who is now in charge of the National Park Service historic and archaeological research and historic preservation projects west of the Mississippi River, has been a member of the Nebraska State Historical Society and en employee of the National Park Service for 35 years.

In 1958 he was named Nebraska's civil servant of the year and in 1959 received the Department of the Interior distinguished service award.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Tiburon Steals Limelight In Restaurant News This Week

Tiburon appears to provide the lion's share of restaurant news this week — starting off with an entirely new entertainment program featured at the Dock.

Jerry Miller, who has taken over the management here while Eamon O'Malley renews his acquaintance with the Old Sod, has brought in two young men from Denver, Jim Carter and Dale Jared, for Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. And instead of relegating them to the cocktail lounge he has plopped them down on a platform in the main dining room where they can be both seen and heard.

For the benefit of early diners who may prefer quiet during the soup, salad and entree, Jim and Dale do not go on until 10:30 Fridays and Saturdays and at 7 p.m. on Sundays. And if you prefer a table some distance removed from the music this can also be arranged.

In any event, the performance of Jim and Dale is not a noisy one. They are guitarists and their instruments are amplified only over the regular microphones, without special boosting devices in their innards. Most of the selections they sing and play are their own folk compositions in the present day plaintive mood which has become so popular. They are talented, natural musicians, read little or no written music — but have already turned out one United Artists album. You should enjoy them.

Food at the Dock I have always found up to high standards of quality and service. The menu is calculated to offer something here for a variety of tastes without developing into a major problem of what should be ordered.

Bar manager Eddie Hill is a gracious and capable host in the beverage department and is a Dock fixture — he has been here since the place was opened nine years ago.

TIBURON CHAMPAGNE DINNER CRUISES from Fisherman's Wharf, San Francisco are slated to begin for the 1970 season next Thursday aboard the sightseeing boat Harbor Emperor. First departure from San Francisco is 6:30 p.m. and the second is at 7:45 p.m. The $8.75 per person includes the round trip boat ride with a champagne party including dancing and music aboard and dinner at any one of these six Tiburon restaurants: The Dock, El Borro, Sam's Anchor Cafe, Tiburon Lodge, Tiburon Tommie's Mai Tai or the Windjammer.

Lunch cruises on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays start May 29. Free brochures and more information are available from Dinner Cruise, 1714 Stockton Street, San Francisco.

I AM PLEASED TO LEARN that George Will, who suddenly disappeared from the restaurant scene last December when he was at the Blue Rock Inn at Larkspur, has turned up as new chef at Tiburon Lodge.

It seems George was stricken with pneumonia and had a tough siege of several months before regaining his ability to work. He is making some menu changes at Tiburon Lodge and has already set up new lunch specials whereby a different nationally is represented each day of the week. Monday is German, Tuesday Italian, Wednesday Mexican, Thursday Irish, Friday Indonesian, Saturday French and Sunday plain American with good old chicken and dumplings.

I would guess that George is quite capable of turning out appetizing representative dishes in each case, since he has been cooking more than 40 years.

He started out in the kitchen of an orphanage in Illinois at the age of 8, where he spent five years feeding 1,600 children and adults. He trained at the famous old Oyster Bar and later was apprenticed at the Waldorf Astoria in New York. Since then he has cheffed at many "name" restaurants and boasts membership in the Chefs de Cuisine, Societe Les Amis de Escoffier and the Professional Chefs Association of America.

OWNERS Andre Marquer and Michel Braud of the Normandie on the San Rafael Miracle Mile have dolled up this restaurant's outside patio in the rear for both lunch and dinner in balmy weather. A more picturesque setting has been achieved with ivy and other plants and a fountain.

The Marseilles bouillabaise is still a favorite item on the French menu Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays — and if you want to try another, order the quenelle de piossons Lyonnaise.

I am embarrassed to admit that I left this place out of last week's list of restaurants offering service on Mondays.

In fact, I omitted two —the Normandie and also the Grotto in downtown San Rafael. If you should find me on this subject again next week it will be because still another restaurant is heard from.

FRED CHERRY'S California Night at Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo at 7:30 features winemaker Joseph Concannon and his wines and family recipes.

A short tasting of dry appetizer wines will precede the dinner, followed by a multi-course banquet with appropriate wines for each dish. Winemaker Concannon will discuss the wines served and answer questions about his methods of winemaking.

Tickets for the full evening remain at $10. After a full house has been sold seating will be cut off. Reservations are required and can be made by calling the restaurant.

THE GOLD NUGGET SPECIALTY HOUSE on the San Rafael Miracle Mile has expanded its menu to include salads, fountain orders, several seafoods, steaks and steak sandwiches and other broiler items.

Listed in our last Dining and Wining Guide simply as House, due to a typographical first line omission, the Gold Nugget fortunately seems to have weathered the contraction. In fact the listing House stirred up some curiosity — and mail has even been addressed that way and delivered without delay.

WOODY AND TOMASINA WILSON will celebrate completion of their first year at Forest Knolls Lodge tomorrow night with an anniversary buffet party.

And you will find live music here every Sunday from 4 to 8 p.m. Usually a piano entertainer.

Did you ever wonder what became of that painting of Pandora and her box of evil gremlins that once adorned the back wall of the former Pandora restaurant in San Anselmo? Forest Knolls Lodge has it —behind the bar.

Hours here are from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. daily. No regular food service yet — but maybe some day. There's plenty of room for it. Coax them.

Months Of Probing Ahead In SALT Talks

VIENNA (UPI)—Months of probing and sounding by U.S. and Soviet negotiators probably will be necessary before there is any possibility of a breakthrough in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

Diplomatic sources made this assessment today, adding that it is by no means clear at this initial stage of the talks whether a major breakthrough toward agreement even will prove possible.

The problems facing the American and Russian negotiations are so complicated that considerable clarification is required before detailed negotiations on concrete issues can be expected.

Both sides are guarding against revealing any of their vital defense secrets while discussing the types of strategic weapons they propose to freeze or limit.

There also is the problem of controls to insure that the two sides abide by any agreement. Some could be controlled by means such as listening devices and satellites, but others would require on-site inspections, which the Russians have all along been loath to accept.

It therefore will take a considerable time before the two sides have elaborated a list of freezable weapons, even if they reach agreement in principle.

Humorist, Wife Killed In Wreck

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Herb Shriner ,the Hoosier humorist who starred on television in the 1950s, and his wife were killed Thursday night when their auto ran off a highway and struck a tree. He was 51, his wife Eileen was 43.

Police gave no reason for the car's leaving the road. They said the tree was about 80 feet off U.S. 1.

Shriner, who grew up in Indiana, rose to stardom with his dry, country wit. He reached his greatest fame with the TV program "Two For The Money," and also appeared on radio and the Broadway stage.

Shriner was returning from a performance in West Palm Beach. The couple's three children, a daughter Indy, 19, and twin sons, Kin and Wil, 16, were at home in Fort Lauderdale.

Shriner made his reputation as a low key comedian reminiscing about life back home in Indiana in a wry, Will Rogers manner.

He actually started in show business as a harmonica player with a small group that he formed in high school.

When he was 17 he got on a barn dance program called Hoosier Hop at a Fort Wayne radio station, bailled as Harmonica Herb.

Along the way he began interspersing jokes and stories between his harmonica solos and later the instrument was essentially a prop for his monologues.

After World War II service, he became a featured performer on many major radio programs.

He also appeared on Broadway, where he made his debut in 1947.

Shriner was born May 28, 1918 in Toledo, Ohio, and grew up in Fort Wayne. He had lived in Florida for about three years.

Shriner once defined his own brand of humor as: "A small town guy in a big city talking about things which folks have been thinking about but just never got around to saying."

HERB SHRINER
Used TV for fame

Once during a bakery strike in Manhattan he explained the situation this way: "I went into a drug store today to get a peanut butter and jelly sandwich and they served it to me in a Dixie cup."

Politics in general and Congress in particular were often targets of his wit. After President Harry S Truman's upset victory over Thomas E. Dewey in 1948 he noted:

"No wonder the election poll takers were wrong. Look how many more Democrats there are now than there were before election."

And his 29 months in the European theater with the Army during World War II provided him a wealth of material.

—"I saw a newspaper headline the other day that said 'Army Calls 40,000 Men.' Of course it didn't say what 40,000 men called the Army."

—"I don't want it to seem like I'm runnin' down the food they serve in the Army, but the Army cooks serve the only kind of gravy in the world that you have to chew."

30 Injured In Memphis By Tornado

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A pre-dawn tornado roared across south Memphis and neighboring Mississippi today, injuring more than 30 persons and inflicting widespread property damage.

The storm blew off the same center which sent high winds through Oak Grove, near Paragould in northeast Arkansas, and injured five members of one family and destroyed a house trailer. Oak Grove High School suffered an estimated $1,000 in roof damage and several outbuildings were destroyed.

No deaths were reported in the storms and injuries were said to be minor. No determination of overall dollar damage was made.

Winds up to 73 miles an hour were clocked at Memphis International Airport where 33 planes were damaged. Several planes were damaged at the DeSoto Airport in north Mississippi, where two employes were injured.

Most of those injured were treated for cuts from flying glass. The fire department said

The twister apparently followed a path from DeSoto County in northwest Mississippi through Coro Lake, DeSoto Airport and into south Memphis and Collierville, Tenn.

Candidates In Two Contests Will Talk

A candidates' night for the State Senate seat in the Fourth District and candidates from Marin for State Board of Equalization, Third District, will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. May 26 at the Tamalpais Retirement Center, Larkspur.

Senate candidates slated to appear are Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, Fairfield Mayor Donald Pinkerton, and Hubert O. Pessner of Pessner, who are seeking the Republican nomination; Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, unopposed candidate for the Democratic nomination, and Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, unopposed candidate for the American Independent Party nomination.

Raymond H. Shone of Nicasio, candidate for the Republican nomination, has been invited, but a firm commitment hasn't yet been made, reported Raymond C. Kesner of Larkspur.

Marin candidates for the equalization board scheduled to appear are Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo and Sesto F. Lucchi of San Rafael.

The session, sponsored by the Tamalpais, will consist mainly of a question and answer period. Winifred S. Frederick of Lagunitas will be moderator. The Tamalpais is at 501 Via Casitas.

Students Are Cited For Work

They are junior David S. Griffeath of 66 Toyon Lane, Sausalito; sophomore Kenneth C. Jacobs of 1 Throckmorton Lane, Mill Valley) senior Norman B. Livermore III of 141 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, and junior Richard P. Hackett of 26 El Cerrito Avenue, San Rafael.

Griffeath was commended for a screenplay in a film drama course; Hackett for work in a Shakespeare class; Jacobs for a film score in a film drama course, and Livermore for experimental research.

Average Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every man, woman and child in the United States earned $3,680 in 1969 — on paper at least.

That was the average per capita income reported by the Commerce Department Thursday. It is $259 above the 1968 average income, an amount calculated before deductions for taxes and other items.

Connecticut led all states in 1969 with an average of $4,537 while Mississippi was low with an average of $2,192 per person.

Students To Stage 'Walk' Fund Drive

Pupils of Oak View School in San Rafael will have a walk marathon May 9, entitled "Walk-A-Round," to raise funds for the Oak View School Association, the parents club at the school.

Starting at 9 a.m. pupils will walk two miles to Terra Linda High School and walk around the track, clocking as many miles as they desire.

Pupils will ask sponsors, either parents, relatives, friends or neighbors, to pay them a specified amount of money for each mile they walk.

Pupils can walk anytime between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., and can drop out for a rest or to eat or drink or take a nap.

Parents' permission will be required and good walking shoes are recommended.

The proceeds will go for the purchase of educational and playground equipment.

There will be trophies awarded to the boy and girl who walk the farthest, trophies for the best boy and and girl walker in each class, and a plaque listing the class with the highest number of children walking and the class with the most total combined miles.

Mail Purloined

William H. Dittmann of 33 Vineyard Drive, has reported to San Rafael police that between Monday and Wednesday mail had been removed from his mailbox.

Truckers, Teachers Continue To Strike

Wildcat strikes by truck drivers continued across the nation, and in Los Angeles, 5,000 other school employes planned to join striking teachers on picket lines today.

Service Employes Local 99, AFL-CIO, said it would strike to protest planned job and budget cutbacks in Los Angeles schools. The union represents cooks, janitors, bus drivers and some other nonteaching personnel.

About half of the city's 25,000 teachers have struck to demand smaller classes and higher pay. During the strike, now in its second week, nearly half the system's students have not attended school.

Ed Bratrud, secretary-treasurer of the service employes local, said, "We think that by early next week the entire school system will be closed down." The school system is the nation's second largest.

The striking drivers are trying to force a repudiation by the Teamsters Union of a tentative national contract which provides pay increases of $1.10 an hour over three years. The truckers, who currently average $4 an hour, have centered their scattered strikes in the Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland and Los Angeles areas.

Amid reports the wildcat strikes were undermining the national agreement, Frank E. Fitzsimmons, acting head of the Teamsters was said to be organizing a meeting of trucker officials from the 350 locals for early next week.

A union spokesman in Chicago said local delegates to the meeting will ask Fitzsimmons to repudiate the settlement.

THE WORLD OF CHAIRMAN MAO

Danish Explorer Frightened By Pervasive One-Class Campaign

By LARRY MOWELL

Wherever he went in Red China Danish explorer and film-maker Jens Bjerre could not escape Mao Tse Tung and his pithy sayings.

"What frightens you is the one track mentality there—the constant propaganda," Bjerre told the Independent Journal in an interview yesterday. He said that propaganda is constantly present from early morning until far into the night throughout China.

Foiled two weeks ago in an attempt to return to China, Bjerre was in San Rafael to publicize a film "China", that he made during two visits to China totalling 28 days in 1966 and 1967. The film narrated in person by Bjerre, will be shown at 8:15 p.m. next Tuesday at San Rafael High School Auditorium.

Although he was not allowed to visit Sinkiang Province, Manchuria or Tibet for security reasons, Bjerre said he was allowed to roam freely elsewhere in the Red China domain.

Bjerre said the most awesome thing he observed during his travels in China was a political demonstration in Peking for the opening of the national games.

Sixteen thousand students rolled flashcards in the bleachers without verbal orders "like one body with one brain" according to Bjerre. One hundred thousand others participated in the mass rally on the field and in the stands.

"This is fantastic the way they're disciplined," Bjerre said. "You can't help thinking of Huxley and 'Brave New World' ".

Propaganda is so pervasive that solutions to every problem are automatically sought in Mao's little red book of quotations, he said.

Traditional values have been discarded in favor of Communism, Bjerre maintained. "The majority of the people were

JENS BJERRE
China documentary

poor peasants and now they have food and work and that's first," he said.

He termed the Chinese Revolution the most dramatic in history because of its attempt to build a one-class society. Factory managers and government officials are required to work as laborers sometimes to remind them they are only peasants Bjerre, said.

"The revolution in China was based on the peasants, whereas, in Russia, it was based on the industrial workers. The system in China works so that the peasants are privileged when compared with the industrial workers," Bjerre said.

The cultural revolution that has jarred China for the past three years was the result of Mao's fear that two classes would develop under former president Liu Shao-chi's program of rapid industrial development, Bjerre said.

Mao and his supporters are emphasizing uplifting the masses and glorifying the peasant. They feared the peasants would lose power under Liu's program.

"This is the greatest experiment that has ever been made with the human race," Bjerre said. All Chinese are being molded to think as one. That's why Mao ousted President Liu and closed the universities, according to Bjerre.

The Dane thinks Mao is serious about a one-class society and fears students and scientists are opposing this wish.

The Red Guard, a mass organization of heavily indoctrinated youth, was Mao's weapon against his enemies, in the cultural revolution, but it got out of control and may still be acting autonomously, Bjerre said.

However, he thinks the scuffle on the Russian border is China's biggest problem now. "I don't see the conflict between America and China as going too deep. The conflict between Russia and China is far more serious," he said.

As evidence he noted that most of the anti-American propaganda has now been turned against the Russians.

The Chinese have never forgiven the Russians for pulling out technical advisers and crippling the economy, he said.

Nevertheless, he said the great majority of Chinese, although poor, have been well fed since the famine of 1962 and are devout Communists.

"In general, there is no doubt they are better off than they were before the revolution," he claimed.

Bjerre's movie contains the inevitable shots of the Great Wall of China and junks creaking down the Yangtse River, but there are vivid scenes of Red Chinese propaganda in action including the scene at the stadium and an American soldier being hanged in effigy.

Bjerre is not new to documentary filmmaking. "The Last Cannibals" was an award winner at the International Film Festivle in Edinburgh. He has also written three books on his junkets to unexplored areas of Africa, Asia and Australia. He is a fellow of the Royal Geographic Society in London.

Bay Stenches Ban Voted To Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly today passed legislation designed to rid San Francisco air of foul odors.

Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, said one of his measures would require the directors of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District (APCD) to set standards for the emission of industrial odors.

Burton said slaughter houses and rendering plants were the worst offenders in the San Francisco area.

"Did you say that your district stinks?" joked Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey, R-Brawley.

The measure was sent to the Senate on a vote of 43-16. A second Burton bill passed on a vote of 65-0.

The second bill would allow the APCD to impose fees for inspection of equipment to help reduce pollutants.

Brooke May Bare Nixon Restraint On Missile Study

BOSTON (AP) — President Nixon informed Sen. Edward W. Brooke last Dec. 29 that he dropped a program designed to increase accuracy of the MIRV missile to allay Soviet fears, the Boston Globe reported in Thursday's editions.

The newspaper said the decision was taken on grounds "that improved accuracy might give the Russians the impression the United States was preparing a first strike against the Soviet Union."

MIRV is an acronym for multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicle. It involves a concept of one missile with more than one warhead, each aimed at a different target.

The Globe, quoting a spokesman for the Massachusetts Republican, said Brooke intends to take the Senate floor Thursday to commend the President for "undertaking a major measure of strategic restraint." Brooke has opposed deployment of MIRVs.

CENSUS 1920—Onno C. Wieringa sits atop his specially designed carriage. In 1920, a two-wheeler drawn by a pair of horses was rare as most were drawn by a single horse. Wieringa designed the rig for better transportation through Montana's snowy winters.

Helped In Montana's '20 Census

By ERIK M. INGRAM

What does a census taker from 50 years ago think of this year's decennial count? "Well they asked a lot of questions, but I think they're necessary," commented Onno C. Wieringa.

"I don't remember what questions I used to ask. That was a long time ago, you know," the 86-year-old Mill Valley resident added.

Wieringa worked for less than $3 a day compiling the 1920 census. To do so, he mounted a horse and trotted off through Montana's waist-deep snow and sub-zero winter weather.

"Why did I do it? Because in those days we needed every dime of finances we could get," the 86-year-old retired farmer-postman said. "Besides, I've always liked to work and meet people."

The son of a shopkeeper, Wieringa immigrated to this country from Holland in 1907. After a short stay in New Jersey, he moved west to Montana and homesteaded a 160-acre parcel of land.

"I was still farming when I took the job as an enumerator," he added. "There wasn't much to be done on the farm and I needed the money."

Comparing this year's mail-out, mail-back census with the 1920 count, Wieringa related that it took him most of January to cover his area.

"I had a 10-square-mile district just north of Conrad, and when I didn't know the area, I would ask one family to direct me to the next. We don't have a list of names or addresses in those days," he explained.

Wieringa now spends most of his time painting landscapes, a number of which decorate his small home on Lomita Drive which he shares with his wife, Anne.

"I was chosen for that area because I could speak more than one language," he continued. "There was a large colony of Belgians there," he added. "I speak English, Dutch, German and French, and most of the Belgians could speak Dutch or French so we managed."

A resident of Mill Valley since 1948, Wieringa moved to Marin County because of the climate. He spent the preceding 25 years as a rural mailman covering much of the same area he did as a census taker, by the same means of transportation — a horse.

While he couldn't remember the exact number of people counted, Wiringa thoughtfully commented "I don't think I missed anyone; no sir, not anyone.

Planning Consultant's Hiring Is Favored By Marin City Council

Marin City Council recommended last night that Ulysses J. Montgomery, San Francisco urban consultant, be hired as consultant for the community's 701 planning program.

Montgomery, a key figure in the development of Martin Luther King Square in San Francisco, was recommended for the post which will pay $7,300 over a two-year period.

One resident recalled an episode last fall when the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency alleged that Montgomery violated his contract on the Martin Luther King development.

Council members said that Montgomery has since been exonerated, and Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. said he has checked many sources and all approved of Montgomery's work.

The council's recommendation will go to the Marin County Planning Department and then to the board of supervisors for approval, a necessary procedure since the county is supplying $25,000 in matching funds toward the $75,600 planning grant.

The Marin City Council Also:

INTERN — Authorized Jack C. Williams, Marin City coordinator, to proceed with the hiring of an intern to work in planning program, part-time at $300 a month.

QUESTIONNAIRE — Agreed that a questionnaire to be sent to residents as part of a community survey should be brief and stress the needs of the community.

WORK PROGRAM — Reviewed part of the working plan, required by the Department of Housing and Urban Development under the federal grant, which will indicate the plans of various organizations in the community including the community services district and Marin County Redevelopment Agency, Marin County Housing Authority, church groups, social groups and other organizations operating in Marin Ctiy.

MASTER PLAN — Briefly reviewed the existing master plan for Marin City, a plan by California Development Corp set in 1956. Designating a master plan is one of the council's tasks under the 701 planning grant.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 10:30 a.m. tomorrow for a forum to discuss community problems at the Manzanita Center.

HAZEL

"Hate beets?"

Soviets' Timber Minister Is Out

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Minister of Forestry was dismissed from his job and retired on pension, an announcement in Pravda said today.

Vasili I. Rubtsov, 57, was sacked after his ministry was accused by the government newspaper Izvestia last February of mismanaging the nation's forestry industries.

The article charged that some enterprises, which are under control of the central ministry "do not even try to stop the obvious waste of the nation's wealth."

TENNIS, SWIM CENTER?

$1.6 Million Plan Interests Council

How about Marin City as the site for the proposed $1.6 million Marin County tennis and swim center?

Marin City Council, seeking to spur development in the community, agreed last night the idea is worth checking out for feasibility.

The plan, prepared by the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, calls for a site of 20 to 25 acres, but doesn't specify any location.

The proposed center would have about 19 tennis courts, an amphitheater with a tournament court in the center, a 50-meter Olympic-sized pool, two other pools, a wading tool for tots, a picnic area and capacity for 5,000 spectotors.

Harold Brooks, interim director of the Marin City Community Services District, said Marin City would be an ideal spot for the center.

Such an installation would generate business and jobs in the community and possibly lead to construction of a motel to serve visitors, he said.

Brooks said the services district had supported an investigation into the feasibility of seeking the tennis-swim complex, and wanted joint council support.

After the vote, council members agreed that the idea should be presented to residents at a community forum at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Manzanita Center "to get the community pulse."

Although the parks and recreation commission plan doesn't specify a site, it does call for flat land, a central location and access to Highway 101.

Brooks said "tennis and swimming pools were a luxury of the affluent, and conceded there would be reluctance "to put it (the center) in a black community."

It would take concentrated community effort in Marin City to meet this problem, he reported.

Marin County supervisors last week said they liked the concept of a countywide tennis and swim center, but asked for more details on where a site could be found and how the project could be financed.

Brooks said if federal financing is sought, it would give Marin City a better chance, because the plan then "would have to show improvement to disadvantaged areas."

Clerk Cites Law On List Of Addresses

The Marin County clerk's office, under fire as a possible source of a mailing list compiled by San Francisco Typographical Union 21, replied yesterday that such lists are available to anyone at cost as a matter of law.

The union had announced mailing out more than 40,000 circulars to Marin voters, urging them to cancel subscriptions to the Independent-Journal, struck by the union since Jan. 7.

Though voter registration lists also are available from the secretary of state's office in Sacramento, County Clerk George H. Gnoss reported bearing the brunt of complaints from Marin residents.

"First of all I have no recollection of any union official requesting the voter registration tape," said Gnoss. However, if such a request were made, he would have to comply.

Gnoss said candidates and campaign managers frequently ask for reproductions of the voter registration lists. They are public property, and how they are used and by whom are beyond his control, the county clerk explained.

Pueblo's Women Given The Vote

ISLETA, N.M. (AP) — For the first time in their ancient history, women at Isleta Indian Pueblo now can vote in pueblo elections.

Women's voting rights are part of a new constitution recently approved by the small Indian village.

The pueblo is about 13 miles south of Albuquerque on U.S. 85. The pueblo first was established by the Spanish government in 1689. This was confirmed by the U.S. government in 1858.

NO CHANGES IN SAUSALITO VOTE RECOUNT

Sausalito's ballot recount yesterday did not change the results of last week's municipal election, City Clerk Miriam Ansell reported. Earl F. Dunphy gained one vote and Stephen A. Fraser picked up two votes in yesterday's recount.

Mrs. Ansell said the only tallying errors, which did not affect the total number of votes cast, were founding in the polling place established in the Sausalito Nursery School. Candidate Marsha J. Owen (Sally Stanford) lost one vote in the recount and Serge Trubach gained one.

The vote total for Robert D. Bauerle, who lost to Fraser by 27 votes and called for the recount, remained the same, Mrs. Ansell said.

New Name For Commonwealth

A new name will appear above the office of Commonwealth National Bank at 888 Fourth Street, San Rafael on Monday morning.

Commonwealth's merger into Union Bank, headquartered in Los Angeles, was to be completed with the close of business today. San Rafael manager Don F. Mailander said his staff would be working on changes on the books tonight and tomorrow and the new Union Bank sign was to be installed this weekend.

This marks the second time in less than a year that the bank's name has been changed. Following the merger of the former Lincoln National Bank into Commonwealth the present sign was installed over the bank last June.

Union Bank is a subsidiary of Unionamerica, Inc. and has assets of $2 billion and offices throughout Southern California. Commonwealth has $65 million in assets and seven offices in four Bay Area counties.

Petaluma Ponders Erosion Problem

By BONNIE BARD

Faced with solving a multi-million dollar erosion problem with less than $65,000, a Petaluma City Council committee last night began anew the search to untangle the dilemma before homes topple into the Petaluma River.

Councilmen Fred V. Mattei and Robert A. Brunner met with residents of Rocca Drive, Jess Avenue and Rio Vista Way in the Linda Del Mar subdivision and agreed that five initial steps should be taken.

The homeowners told the councilmen that winter rains fed into the river through a nearby storm drain pipe had eaten away nearly all of their backyards and now the foundations of the houses are threatened.

Engineers have said that a project to totally solve the problem would cost millions of dollars.

Sidney Korgstad, 15 Rocca Drive, said he had had slabs of cement dropped into his river bank to halt the loss of land and suggested the same method could be applied to other lots as a stopgap measure.

Most agreed the method should be explored except for Leon Bohling of 11 Rocca Drive who called the plan "foolhardy" and a threat to the river banks, south of the subdivision.

He urged the city to use the $64,200 derived from a lawsuit against the builder to purchase the lots and have the houses moved to a safer location.

Bohling said the lending institutions involved in the homes seemed willing to bear the costs of moving the houses and to refinance the loans for whatever repairs are necessary. He said his house could be used as a test case to see how well the structures move and to get an idea of what costs are involved.

Others said they would be willing to have their homes moved if nothing else was possible to save them, but said they preferred to stay in the riverbank location.

Mattei read an opinion from City Atty. Edouard E. Robert that the lawsuit funds could not be used solely to move the houses for the private benefit of the homeowners. He said that that money must be used for public purposes.

Mattei estimated that $5,000 must be used to make repairs on the bridge at Payran Street which had also been damaged by the swirling waters. He said the remainder of the funds could possibly be used to move the houses if land were set aside for a public park or a green belt.

Mattei and Brunner said they would also gather together various engineering reports that have been made on the river to compare the information to see if a solution can be found.

At the suggestion of the homeowners, the councilmen said they would see if federal disaster relief from floods could be sought and would see if some tax relief can be given. The homeowners complained that although the value of the property is rapidly decreasing, their taxes continue to rise.

The councilmen said they would look into all the possibilities and call another general meeting next month.

Young Motorcyclist Treated For Mishap

Sean Manion, 16, of 1634 Fifth Avenue San Rafael was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for scrapes and bruises of the right knee sustained in a motorcycle accident in San Rafael, the hospital reported today.

San Rafael police had no report of the accident today.

Come out this weekend and see our selection of houses under $20,000. You, too, can beat inflation!

★★ ★★ ★★

Close to town, but with that good "up in the hills" feeling. Comfortable older home with two bedrooms, a view deck, and charm. Wall to wall carpeting. Huge expandable area below. $19,500.

★★ ★★ ★★

Here's a house for you to fix up for fun and profit. A pretty garden, sun, a great view, and a sound basic structure. Old and strange, but with some imagination and work you could make it into something great. $15,950.

★★ ★★ ★★

A real mess, but if you can see through it, maybe you'll be enthusiastic about this hillside home. Badly neglected, but it has location, good floor space and a nice rustic feeling. Quite private. $16,500.

★★ ★★ ★★

Here's a real switch! Only a few years old, and fit as a fiddle. On a level lot close to everything. Two bedrooms, an electric kitchen, beamed ceilings. Beside a babbling creek. Small but cute. $17,950.

Bay Transportation Agency Passes First Test

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill to create a nine-county Metropolitan Transportation Commission in the San Francisco Bay Area, including Marin, has passed its first legislative test without a dissenting vote.

The proposal by Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, was approved Thursday by the Assembly Transportation Committee and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

The proposed agency would have binding authority over local governments in transportation planning, but would not have taxing power.

Foran said the proposed agency — a super-board over highway, public transit, airport, harbor and bridge agencies—would initially be financed by transfer of $530,000 a year in federal and state planning grants now going to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

A similar Foran measure which also gave the proposed transportation commission taxing power passed the Assembly Transportation Committee last year, but got no further in the Legislature.

Speaking for ABAG, Alameda County Supervisor Joseph Bort said he accepted completely the concept and purpose of the commission.

"The only objection I have is, 'Why create a new commission?'" Bort said.

"I want ABAG to be this comal plan. ABAG should be able to plan. ABAG should be able to continue its job and be given the teeth. We have the personnel and the time," Bort said.

Foran said he didn't think it was politically possible for ABAG, a voluntary association of 82 Bay Area cities and counties, to wield binding powers over its members at this time, "but we must meet the particular problem of transportation in the 70s," he said.

Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, replied that by planning transportation, the proposed new agency would end up doing all land use planning.

"Even a freeway plan rezones a city," Lanterman said, "but it's about time. I'm for your bill."

Charles Beer, transportation planning coordinator for the State Business and Transportation Agency, told the committee that "from the agency's viewpoint, we're not really pushing it, but we do favor" the proposed new agency.

He said the Foran proposal fit the criteria Gov. Reagan set for comprehensive transportation planning.

AC Transit spokesman Robert Nesbit said AC Transit sees "a basic need for this kind of legislation" but that the regional board should be elective rather than appointed.

The Foran proposal calls for a 19-member board made up of representatives of ABAG, federal and state government, the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and San Francisco, Alameda, Contra Costa, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Marin, Napa, Solano and Sonoma counties.

Reagan Defends Health Economies

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan says California has been able to meet the needs of its sick and its poor only because of his "squeeze and cut and trim" economy programs.

More taxes would have been the only alternative, the 59-year old Republican chief executive said.

Reagan was asked during an interview in his Capitol study about criticism of Democrats, led by gubernatorial candidate Jess Unruh, that his three-year-old administration has been more interested in economy than in helping people in need.

"The record doesn't bear it out," Reagan told the Associated Press in a voice made hoarse by a week-long sinus attack.

Reagan fidgeted with a Chap Stick and pocketknife as he talked about 1970 election campaign issues and the problems facing California. He is seeking a second term.

In the middle of the interview, he spotted a group of students waving at his window from the Capitol grounds, jumped up and said, "I've got to say hello." He went to the window and waved back.

What about the repeated charge that his administration is "cruel and heartless" when it comes to human needs, Reagan was asked.

"I know they've made that charge," he replied. "The funny thing is our economies are all that have made us able to keep up with the human needs, by way of the welfare programs. We never could have financed this without additional taxes, the vast increases in those programs."

In spite of the trimming, he added, "we have a vastly improved program in mental health," one area where he is frequently accused of cutting indiscriminately.

The governor admitted his administration's image may still be suffering from hasty and ill-timed announcements back in 1967 that he was cutting the Mental Health Department staff by thousands.

"Put this down to being brand new," said Reagan, wearing a black and white checked sport coat and black trousers.

"We panicked because we thought there was going to be a leak and that we were going to be greeted with headlines and charges before we were ready with our plan so we rushed into print with the announcement ourselves."

Reagan added that "to this day" he is asked about his mental health program cuts.

"This is like 'cutting the university's budget' when they've gotten the greatest rate of increase they've ever gotten in these three years" he said.

Reagan said he had no specific goal in cutting "government fat" when he took office.

"You just had to cut until you got down to the muscle fiber and we've done it that way," he said, adding that the program had been more successful than he expected.

But, Reagan added, inflation is keeping the state from building up any budget surplus that would allow him to pump money into new programs such as pollution control and environmental improvement.

He said he would back a proposed $250 million bond issue this year for environmental improvement if the voters approve Prop. 7 at the June 2 election to allow the state to sell bonds for up to seven per cent interest.

Reagan acknowledged that the economy issue and unemployment could cost him votes in November.

"It's ironic, too, that the Republican effort to stop runaway inflation that was created by Democratic party policies should then be the thing that was held against Republicans."

But he said, "I have a faith in people that their memories aren't that short, that they understand more than some people give them credit for . . .

"I can't believe that the bulk of the men and women you see going past that window out there every day aren't aware that inflation didn't just start with the inauguration of Richard Nixon."

As inflation grows year after year, Reagan added, "somewhere along the line you have to take some medicine that didn't taste good. We're taking the medicine now."

He projected an optimistic note about the economy.

"On the other hand, I do believe it's been working," he said of President Nixon's anti-inflationary measures. "It's hard to see right now, but I have a belief as we go through the summer and into fall we're going to see ourselves beginning to come out and come out on a sounder base" of the economy than it was before the inflation spiral escalated.

Reagan said he finds three issues uppermost in the people's minds as he campaigns around the state: the environment, the economy, and law and order, including campus violence.

Reagan said his administration's record in the environmental field is "unassailable" and he added, "I don't see how it can be an issue. No one's against it. There's no great disagreement.

"If you want to look at the record, we've been moving three years on this," he said.

Bills Advance On Insuring Privacy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation designed to prevent private companies from obtaining drivers license and automobile registration information passed its first committee test Thursday.

The Assembly Governmental Organization Committee Thursday approved the three measures which prohibit the dissemination, bulk sale or public inspection of information collected by the Department of Motor Vehicles on drivers licenses and auto registrations. They were sent to the Ways and Means Committee on a voice vote.

"These measures will insure an individual's rights of privacy by halting the flow of such information to junk mail firms and by eliminating the possibility that the lists might be used for undesirable purposes," said Assemblyman William Campbell, the author.

Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, said that until January, the firms paid $1 for each 1,000 names to obtain the information from DMV. The price increased to $7 per 1,000 in January after Campbell complained to the department. The lists are resold at from $50 to $70 per 1,000.

Opposing the legislation were the Bank of America, R. L. Polk and Co. of Detroit and the Disabled American Veterans.

William G. Dwyer, spokesman for the veterans, said the proposal would make it impossible for the organization to obtain information necessary to issue the miniature license plates which are attached to automobile keys and returned to the owner if lost. Dwyer said the veterans obtained California auto registration lists from the R. L. Polk Co.

In related action, the Assembly Transportation Committee rejected on a split voice vote a bill by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, to forbid insurance companies from obtaining driver's records.

"Whether you get any tickets doesn't indicate if you're a good or bad driver," Fenton said, "just how lucky you are."

The bill was opposed by insurance industry representatives. John Fraser of the California State Automobile Association said the bill would make it "difficult to determine if a driver is qualified for insurance."

Civic Center Office Open To Veterans

Many Vietnam veterans, who are discharged in Marin, are apparently unaware that they can apply for GI benefits at the Marin Civic Center in San Rafael.

"Only a small percentage of these young men are applying for benefits to which they are entitled," said James V. Burdick, veterans service officer. His office is on the fourth floor of the Civic Center in Room 424.

Burdick gives information and helps veterans apply for such benefits as disability compensation, home loans, converting insurance, medical and dental treatments and education at both high school and college level.

Burdick said some of the veterans apparently go to the Veterans Office in San Francisco and are discouraged by the long waits and red tape. "Here we're able to give personalized service," said Burdick.

Senate Told Apollo 14 Can Lift On Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The head of the space agency said today the Apollo 13 failure had been traced tentatively to a "relatively simple component" which can be fixed so easily the next moon flight may go forward without delay."

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, appearing at a Senate hearing with two of the Apollo 13 astronauts, said:

"We expect that the large quantity and high quality of telemetered data received from the Apollo 13 spacecraft at the time of the accident will permit a precise and early identification of the causes of the failure."

The administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), added, "The oxygen thermos flask believed to be involved is a relatively simple component and corrective action should not prove to be a major task.

"If this turns out to be the case, we should be able to move out promptly with the necessary alterations and proceed with Apollo 14 and subsequent flights on approximately the same schedule we have presented to you before." Apollo 14 had been scheduled for an Oct. 1 launch.

Paine said President Nixon "fully shares this view" —that Apollo 13's troubles should not cause a cutback in the U. S. space program.

Paine and the Apollo 13 commander, Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., and the late-starting civilian member of the team, John L. Swigert Jr., appeared before the Senate Aeronautical and Space Sciences committee. The third Apollo 13 crewman, Fred W. Haise Jr., also a civilian, was unable to attend.

Paine said that during a flight with Nixon to Honolulu last Saturday to meet the returning astronauts, after their splashdown in the Pacific the day before, Nixon "expressed his strong support for a vigorous ongoing U. S. space program, particularly in manned space flight."

Congress already has indicated it feels the same. The House Thursday passed NASA's 1971 budget, allowing the agency more money than it requested.

The Senate committee cut the NASA budget somewhat below administration requests, but granted all the money earmarked for the Apollo program.

At the space center in Houston, Near L. Armstrong, the first man to set foot on the moon, today starts trying to unravel the puzzling sequence of events leading to the Apollo 13 explosion and the abort of America's third lunar landing mission short of its goal.

That was the assignment Armstrong, one of nine men on the official Apollo 13 accident review board, drew Thursday from board chairman Edgar M. Cortright.

"The board began to tackle in earnest its job of determining what happened to cripple the Apollo 13 service module, why it happened, and to recommend corrective action," Cortright said Thursday after a day of mapping out the strategy of his probe.

Private Coin Pledged For Home Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that private institutions have pledged to increase commitments for residential mortgages by $2 billion this year.

This would provide about 150,000 new residences and a spur to a construction industry that has been characterized as in a recession.

The pledges came from commercial banks, life insurance companies and trustees of pension funds.

Bruce MacLaury, deputy undersecretary of the Treasury for monetary affairs, predicted that the extra mortgage commitments will help pull down interest rates. He said that even before this the points some home purchasers have to pay will be eliminated.

President Nixon welcomed the pledges of more mortgage commitments, predicting they will enhance significantly "our ability to meet critical housing needs."

Hospital Fetes Fledgling Parents

DESPLAINES, Ill. (AP) — The night before the mother and baby are released from Holy Family hospital is an occasion for a "Parents Night Out" with the hospital doing the honors.

"We think new parents deserve this 'night out' before going home to the busy routine of bottle warmings for night feedings and changing diapers," said Sister M. Amata, administrator.

To reach the market you have to thread the needle

For big or small-space advertisers, knowing this can help you build more profitable volume

Every store wants to reach as many customers as it can. But how many customers "reach" the store to buy—and when—is something else again.

For new findings in retailing show that at any one time only a small percentage of the market is ready to buy. The "market" then, is not what many a businessman thinks it is.

It is not a huge, faceless mass of people just waiting for the store ad to trigger it into buying action. Rather, it is a small set of people on any given day, with the set changing on Friday, for example, from what it was on Tuesday, or Wednesday.

Another finding shows an enormous shift, one week to another, in those "planning to buy" and those who didn't plan to buy but ended up doing most of the buying! Example: 61% of actual buyers of women's shoes in a given week were not even planning to buy just the week before! New people, new decisions.

This buying behavior goes for everything from women's dresses to refrigerators, tires to cameras. (The only general exception is drug/sundries and food. . .items of necessity).

The point is: if your store wants to capture the business, you must be in the market consistently with your advertising. This keeps you up in the forefront of buying decisions—at the time they're made. And they're being made by different people on different days for different reasons.

Since you can't know who is going to buy, only advertising can keep you in the market with changing groups of buyers.

And in Marin County, only the Independent-Journal can keep your advertising before the total market. Gets your message into 70% of all households. Gets you real readership. Gets you immediate sales.

That's what we mean by "threading the needle." Sews up the business.

Birthday Visits For Hess Family

BERLIN (UPI) — Ruldolf Hess, the former Nazi deputy fuehrer, celebrated his 76th birthday by allowing his wife and son to visit him for the first time in Spandau war crimes prison where he has been for 24 years.

Hess previously refused to receive visitors in the four-power prison because he considered it beneath the dignity of Adolf Hitler's former deputy to be seen in prison.

After becoming used to visits from his family while he was in a British military hospital for treatment of a stomach ulcer from last November through March 13, he agreed to let them continue when he returned to prison.

Hess will not be 76 until Sunday but today's visit was arranged to celebrate the birthday.

Long Distance Tariff Is Hit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A consumer group has asked the Federal Communications Commission to revoke the long-distance tariff of American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The group, Consumers Arise Now, is composed of students in Hastings College of Law and former State Public Utilities Commissioner William Bennett.

The petition sent Thursday to the FCC said AT & T announced tariff changes in November agreed upon without public debate. It said the FCC approved a rate of return in excess of the 7.5 per cent accepted rate.

Bennett said he expects an answer by early May and if it is refused he will appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

California accounts for 26 per cent of this country's beet sugar production, the highest of any state.

Four Perish In San Mateo Fire

SAN MATEO (UPI)—A mother and her three children were burned to death early today when a fire gutted their apartment.

The victims were Mrs. Barbara Coker, 29, Bonnie Lynes, 7, Leigh Holladay, 5, and James William Coker, 15 months.

The coroner's office said their bodies were found at 4:45 a. m. when firemen put out the blaze. Cause of the fire was not determined. The apartment was located in a large housing complex at 3309 La Selva Street.

Petaluma Police Report Sharp Drop In Burglaries

Sharp declines in burglary, theft and malicious mischief were reported for 1969 in Petaluma, and Police Chief Larry D. Higgins attributed the drop to the Crime Check program.

Higgins said that since starting the program last year to involve citizens in precenting crime, the burglary offenses dropped from 278 to 199 for a 28.5 per cent decrease; thefts were down from 963 to 785 for an 18.5 per cent decrease, and malicious mischief dropped from 642 in 1968 to 532 in 1969 for a 25.2 per cent decrease.

Higgins said the community involvement program also resulted in a higher arrest rate for the department, with 21 per cent of the burglary cases solved last year, compared with 8 per cent in 1968.

On the upswing, however, were narcotics offenses. A total of 46 were tallied in 1968 and 78 in 1969 for a 41 per cent increase. Felony offenses totaled 445 in 1968, with a 17 per cent hike in 1969 to 473 reports.

The effect of the citizen involvement program was also evident in a 44 per cent increase in various types of information reported to the department. Reports of suspicious circumstances also jumped 42 per cent, from the 433 reported in 1968 to 755 last year.

"The department is now receiving calls from citizens reporting occurrences and crimes in progress of which we were previously unaware," Higgins said, noting that several criminals were caught at the scene because of alert citizens willing to call the police.

Through a series of speaking engagements, police officers have asked residents to report suspicious persons, the sound of breaking glass and offers of merchandise at ridiculously low prices.

Hoping to expand the Crime Check program even further, Higgins has organized a citizens committee which will assist police in educating the public further in methods of cooperation in an attempt to drive the crime rate even lower.

Persons interested in serving on the committee should contact the chairmen, Robert Stimson and Donald Smith.

Visiting Soldier Is Found Dead

Edward John Scansi, 26, an electrician-radioman at the Presidio of San Francisco, died at 4:30 p.m. when he apparently shot himself in the head with a stockless rifle, according to Sonoma County Coroner Andrew Johansen.

Scansi had been under psychiatric treatment at Letterman General Hospital until his release a few days ago, according to the coroner. He had been visiting his uncle, Floyd Mattern, 78 Sierra Avenue.

He is survived by his parents, John and Audrey Scansi of Napa.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

Pasternak Book Will Be Filmed

ROME (UPI)—Producer Carlo Ponti announced today he has secured film rights to "The Blind Beauty," the unfinished last work of the late Soviet author Boris Pasternak.

The text of the work, a play in which the blind beauty symbolizes Russia, was smuggled to the West last year and published in the Rome theatrical magazine Il Dramma.

Giants Get Chance To Use 1-2 Punch

JIM GILMARTIN

A Silver Year To Strike Gold?

Preliminary prospectus of the S.F. 49ers declares: "If it gets together and stays together, San Francisco's Silver Anniversary professional football team could strike 49er gold."

Good! Now, let's get the lead out. We've been waiting 25 years and I'm beginning to fear the Niners are waiting for their Golden Anniversary to strike silver.

SPEAKING OF same, the Oakland Raiders mustn't think much of their Dec. 20 battle with the cross-bay 49ers. The Pride and Poise Boys of the East Bay don't mention the rivalry against S.F. until the 10th paragraph of their news release on the 1970 sked. The Raiders and 49ers meet Sept. 6 at Kezar in an exhibition game and again Dec. 20 at Oakland in league play.

THE GIANTS have approximately 25,000 bats ready to distribute to kids (girls, too!) at tomorrow's Bat Day at Candlestick when the Giants play the Montreal Expos (and Marin's John Boccabella).

Sorry For Conflicting Days

Giant exec John Taddeucci of San Rafael says tomorrow's Bat Day conflict with many Little League openers was unavoidable and the Giants are sorry, but there are several other giveaway days on the calendar, including Cap Day May 23, T-Shirt Day June 13, Helmet Day July 3 and Ball Day July 18.

Taddeucci says gates will open at 11 a.m. tomorrow and suggests dads bring their lads early because of the inevitable hangup at the turnstiles as kids reject Hal Lanier bats in favor of Willie Mays or Willie McCovey models.

Getting a Hal Lanier bat is like a little girl getting a Phyllis Diller Barbie Doll. Sorry, Hal, you slugger you.

DON STONE, former Drake High quarterback and sprinter, has been converted to tight end at University of Oregon where he reportedly is having a fine spring practice. Don was red-shirted last season.

More Than Short Relief Stint

GREG TELLIS, a Tam alum, was slightly less than brilliant last Saturday in pitching the Cal Bears to a 3-2 victory over UCLA. Greg, in relief, went 10⅓ innings before yielding a hit and wound up with the win to his credit in the 16-inning tussle. San Rafael's Rocky Shone caught Tellis most of that game.

Incidentally, another sturdy golden Bear, pitcher Tony Murray, is son of prize-winning syndicated sports columnist Jim Murray whose work appears periodically in the I-J.

FIRST OFFICIAL entry for Gordon Tovani's high school place kicking clinic in Marin next month came in behalf of Lovington High School, Lovington, Ill.

It was just a gag on the part of Dr. Harry Hensler of San Anselmo who coached at Lovington in 1924 and '25.

PAUL LEE of San Rafael, brother of Boston Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee, is doing well at U.C. Santa Barbara, hitting around the .300 level for the Gaucho varsity, which beats hell out of burning down banks, etc.

Perry, Juan To Face Montreal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants open a two-week home stand against Montreal but when they take the field for game No. 2 it may seem like opening day.

Gaylord Perry, 1-2, is tonight's scheduled starter for the Giants, who were idle Thursday. The Expos will probably go with Gary Waslewski.

ATTRACTION

However, the big attraction may be Saturday afternoon, when ace right-hander Juan Marichal is to make his first start of the season for San Francisco.

Marichal, 21 - 11 last year, caught an ear infection in the last week of spring training, then had to be hospitalized because of an allergy to medication and missed his usual season-starting turn.

SAYS HE'S READY

He has been working out all week and says he is ready.

In 15 games, only Perry has pitched a complete game, going the distance twice.

Giant pitchers have a combined earned-run average of 5.46 for the 15 games and have allowed an average of 9.5 hits a game.

THREE OF EIGHT

The Giants won three of eight road games, with one postponed.

Mike McCormick and Frank Reberger are the probable starters for Sunday's doubleheader with the Expos, and Perry may get the call Tuesday night when the New York Mets move in for three games,

The Giants finish the home stand with three games against Philadelphia.

High Jump Record

Despite a Marin County Athletic League girls' high jump record of 4 feet, 9¾ inches of Juanita Orlando, Novato High's girls' track and field team lost to Tamalpais High 55-49 yesterday in Mill Valley.

LI'L LEAGUE OPENS PLAY TOMORROW

Maybe opening day of baseball has already been held around the country, but for all the Little Leaguers of Marin County, the real opening day is tomorrow.

That's the day the 17 leagues of Marin County open the Little League season with parades, ceremonies, and baseball.

Although the openers for the boys 9 through 12 is tomorrow, the three Marin County leagues in Senior Division, boys 13-15, open their seasons at the end of the school year.

THE SPORTING GENTRY

Swimmer's Hard Work Pays Off

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Denise, a 15-year-old sophomore at San Rafael High School, was among the top stars in the recent Marin County Double-A championships at Novato High. Winning two first places and four seconds, she was third highest point maker of the 400 swimmers entered from all parts of Northern California and highest Marin scorer.

She set a Pacific Association, Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) record in the 200-meter individual medley with a time of 2 minutes, 34.5 seconds, won the 200-meter breaststroke event, and was a member of the P.A. record-breaking 400-meter medley relay team from Marin Swim Club (time of 5:00.2).

She has been a member of the Marin Swim Club through its transition for the past five years. The club started out as the Ann Curtis Swim Club, changed to the Marin Pirates, then the Marin Swim Club.

She got her start in age-group swimming when 10 years old, during a family camping trip in Tuolumne County. A friend told her she should try age-group swimming, so she promptly enrolled at the Ann Curtis Swim school, run by former Olympic star Ann Curtis Cuneo.

"She has always been a hard worker," said Mrs. Cuneo, who has recently returned to an active role as coach for the Marin Swim Club, replacing Galen Hopkins who has resigned after hurting his back.

"She's a determined little youngster," said Mrs. Cuneo. "I remember when she started out she had trouble breathing properly in the water. I had no idea of the hidden talent she had. She made up her mind to make the team and did it. Now she has improved tremendously."

The 5-foot-6½-inch, blonde swim star says she doesn't have a steady boy friend, and no wonder with all the time involved in the routine of swimming practice daily and meets most weekends. The Marin Swim Club members practice twice every weekday at the Curtis School pool in Terra Linda, from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. and again at 5-7 p.m., plus Saturday mornings.

Miss Ham holds five Pacific Association AAU records and has been on relay teams which have established eight various national records in 13-14 and 15-17 age groups.

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Ham of 339 Riviera Drive, San Rafael. Her father has a hearing aid franchise, serving Solano and Yolo counties.

Denise feels her best events are in butterfly and freestyle, although she does them all, combining the backstroke and breaststroke for the individual medley.

She plans to continue with age group swimming until out of the 15-17 class, which gives her another two full seasons of competition. That's more time to set more records, which will probably be coming in bunches.

Game Of Sorrows, Says Gary Player

The tough little South African waxed philosophical Thursday after cutting out a four-under-par 68 and taking the first-round lead in the $150,000 Tournament of Champions.

"When you're playing for fun, it's fun," Player said." "But when you're playing for money, well, that's something else. You always think you can do better.

ONLY ONE

"At the end of a tournament, there's only one man who is happy. Everyone else is unhappy."

Player, the defending titleholder, held a stroke lead over British Open champion Tony Jacklin and Australian Bruce Crampton going into today's second round as the foreign contingent dominated opening-day play in this prestige-laden event.

Three-time champion Arnold Palmer headed a group of four tied at 70, two-under-par on the plush, 7,114-yard La Costa Country Club course. The others are Dale Douglass, Lee Trevino and Frank Beard.

Jack Nicklaus and Masters champion Billy Casper were in a group at 71.

Player, one of four men to sweep all the world's major golf titles, had it six-under-par until he bogeyed two of the last three holes.

'EXCITED'

"I was so excited, so charged up, I guess I kind of rushed it a little," said Player, who has won over $61,000 in just six weeks on the America tour.

"It was a lousy finish," he said. "But golfs' a funny game. When you make a mistake, you have to take your punishment."

He three-putted 16 when he lifted his head on his second putt and bogeyed 18 from a trap. "I tried to rush my second shot," he said.

He had three deuces and reeled off one string of four consecutive birdies.

"I could have had a 63 and should have had a 66 at the very worst," he said. "I'm playing the best golf of my career."

FAST START

Palmer started with a rush, turning the front nine in a five-under par 31 before, as he said derisively, "I got back on my game."

He double - bogeyed the 10th when he left it in a fairway trap, bogeyed the last two and limped home with a fot 39.

Sharon Walsh Wins Opening Net Match

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, national girls' 18 champion scored an easy win over 10th ranked Tam O'Shaugnessy of Fullerton, 6-1, 6-2.

San Domenico School's Bee Kilgore and doubles team of Darby Auerbach and Pam Winslow advanced to today's semi-finals with shutout wins.

West Is Unanimous NBA All-Star Pick

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry West, Willis Reed, Walt Frazier and Billy Cunningham, a quartet of familiar names, and newcomer Connie Hawkins were named today to the National Basketball Association's 1969-70 All-Star team.

West, Los Angeles' high-scoring guard, picked for the sevesth time, was the only unanimous selection announced by Commissioner Walter Kennedy. The squad was selected by a panel of sports writers and sportscasters in the league's 14 member cities.

Reed, center on New York's Eastern Division champions, and Frazier, the Knicks' aggressive guard, made it for the first time. Cunningham, Philadelphia's standout forward, made it for the second time.

Hawkins has the distinction of making all-star teams in both the NBA and the American Basketball Association. The catquick forward was on all-star teams in the ABA while with the Pittsburgh and Minnesota franchises and was the league's most valuable player last year.

Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati's longtime star recently traded to Milwaukee, missed the first team for the first time since he turned pro in 1960.

The Big O, acknowledged as one of the game's all-time great guards, was joined in the second team by forwards John Havlicek of Boston and Gus Johnson of Baltimore, center Lew Alcindor of Milwaukee and guard Lou Hudson of Atlanta.

West was the first unanimous selection since Wilt Chamberlain, then with the Philadelphia 76ers, in 1968.

Three men who made the first team last year missed out completely this year—Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles, and Wes Unseld and Earl Monroe of Baltimore.

It's all hard work and Dan Davies (24y) and Mike Richardson (222z), both of San Rafael, shown in recent race with Squire Tomasie (left) of Tacoma, Wash. will be in action at Vallejo Speedway tonight in J. C. Agajanian's 21-event short-track motorcycle racing program which starts at 8:30. More than 100 riders will compete on the one-quarter mile clay oval, including Russ Powell of San Rafael in the expert division.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

See-Saws Are For Kids And Yanks' Danny Cater

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

See-saws are for kids but Danny Cater rode a dandy one in Washington this week.

Cater is one of the new-look hitters who are supposed to make New York Yankee fans remember the good old days. And he did a pretty good job of just that Thursday night, ripping four hits and driving in three runs in New York's 11-6 romp over Washington.

It was the third time in the four-game series against the Senators that Cater had collected three or more hits. But oh, that fourth game. Danny was 0-for-8 in the 18-inning marathon Wednesday night.

Cater went into the Washington series batting .268 on 11 hits for 41 tries—adequate but hardly exciting. Then three hits Monday and three more Tuesday boosted his average to .340—much nicer company.

Just as Cater was enjoying the see-saw ride up, he went down but fast. The 0-for-8 marathon horsecollar cost him 47 points and he was back down in the mundane world of .293 hitters. Then came Thursday's 4-for-6 and back up to .328.

Cater and Bobby Murcer handled a hefty share of the Yankee offense with seven of New York's 15 hits. The Yankees also collected 10 walks.

New York hopped into a 5-0 lead but it was wiped out by the Senators with three of Washington's runs coming on a booming Frank Howard homer.

Then the Yankees pecked away, rebuilding their lead and rookie John Cumberland came out of the bullpen to earn his first major league victory with 6 1-3 innings of airtight relief.

In the only other games played Thursday, Pittsburgh downed Atlanta 8-6 and Chicago topped Minnesota 7-5. The scheduled Cincinnati at St. Louis game was rained out.

Bill Mazeroski's three-run double keyed a five-run Pittsburgh explosion in the seventh inning and then the Pirates survived an Orlando Cepeda grand slam to beat the Braves.

Manny Sanguillen drove in three runs for the Pirates with a homer and a single and Hank Aaron hit his 560th career homer for the Braves.

It was Pittsburgh's fourth straight victory and the sixth straight loss for the Braves.

Bobby Knoop cracked a home run and Minnesota reliever Ron Perranoski's throwing error gave Chicago two runs, helping the White Sox trim the Twins.

Knoop's eighth inning homer tied the score at 4-4 for Chicago and then the White Sox scored three more runs—two of them when Perranoski threw Luis Aparicio's bunt into left field. Aparicio raced all the way to third on the play and scored a moment later on a sacrifice fly.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Spot bowling is worthless without knowing if you are or are not hitting the target. Pick a target spot and watch it at the beginning of your approach. But be certain the ball actually goes over that spot.

Pena Important Part Of A's 'New' Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Players obtained in trades have been the ones keeping the Oakland Athletics within sight of first place in the American League West baseball race.

Don Mincher, Frank Fernandez, Felipe Alou and Al Downing have been instrumental in the A's attack.

However, none has been more important than a 5-foot-10 bouncing Latin named Roberto Pena.

.342 AVERAGE

Pena, obtained from San Diego for utility infield duty, carried a .342 average into tonight's game at New York.

Chuck Dobson, 0-3, is scheduled to open the series on the mound for the A's, who were off Thursday. Stan Bahnsen or Mel Stottlemyre will go for the Yankees.

There was little fanfare when Pena, 30, came to the A's. But the singles hitter has had a hot bat since replacing the injured Bert Campaneris at shortstop.

In 10 games, he has hit safely in 13 of 38 trips to the plate.

"Roberto," Alou remarked recently, "is like most latin hitters. He's aggressive.

"We didn't go to instructional schools. We just swing the best way we can, quick, before we have to start thinking."

Pena made it to the majors briefly with the Chicago Cubs in 1965 and with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1968.

He went to San Diego in the expansion draft and hit .250 while appearing in 139 games last season.

The Padres wanted younger players and the A's needed a utility infielder.

"We also heard," says A's Manager John McNamara, "that he could make the bat talk."

"They don't cheat me out of my swing," says Pena. "It's no sense to take a lot of pitches. I go for anything I think I can handle."

ANYWHERE

Pena is willing to play anywhere on the field, and usually can.

"Last winter in the Dominican I managed our country's all-stars against the imported American players," says Alou. "Pena caught the last two innings and did a good job. We won 4-3."

"I played 19 games at first base for San Diego," Pena put in proudly. He was one of the shortest players on the team.

Sparling Cracks Record

Novato High School's Ray Sparling became the second best discus thrower in Marin County history yesterday as he logged a school record toss of 165 feet, 11½ inches in the Hornets' 74-52 track and field victory over San Marin High of Novato.

The Marin County Athletic League record of 176-1 was set in 1959 by Ron Snidow of San Rafael.

Marc Jones' three wins led Terra Linda High to a 66-61 victory over Redwood in the day's other meet. Jones won the high hurdles, high jump and pole vault.

McBean Rejoins Pirates; Gals Reach Finals In Golf

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates have signed Al McBean, formerly a mainstay on the pitching staff, and to make room for him sent Gene Garber to their Columbus farm team.

The Pirates also reactivated Bob Moose, who has been on military duty, and sent Lou Marone to Columbus to make room on the roster for him.

Moose, who was 14-3 last season, was slated to make his first appearance of the current season Friday night, as the starter against the Atlanta Braves.

McBean played for the Pirates eight years before he was picked up by the San Diego Padres in the expansion. The Los Angeles Dodgers acquired him early last year, but let him go before the start of the current campaign.

Trout Season Preview And How To Catch 'Em

By AL GIDDINGS

With the general trout season rolling around in another week, this might be a good time to review the changes this year regarding opening dates, limits, new laws and scheduled plantings prior to the season.

The Fish and Game Commission this year opened the lakes and reservoirs in 13 counties, including Marin, to year-round fishing. This included Rodeo Lagoon of southern Marin, the lakes in the Pt. Reyes National Seashore and other private lakes in the county.

The Marin Municipal Water District lakes were also opened, but because of road access and other problems, the MMWD kept its lakes closed to the public, but will open them on the regular trout season opening May 2.

The streams in Marin also will be open May 2-Nov. 15. The limit on trout from May 2-Nov. 15 will be 10 per person throughout the county.

GENERALLY, throughout the state trout season will open May 2 with a limit of 10 prevailing, but there are so many different situations in some counties that you should pick up a 1970 sport fishing regulation booklet for a checkup on your favorite area.

In Marin, Phoenix and Lagunitas reservoirs will be stocked prior to the May 2 opening. Rodeo Lagoon, which is already open, has been stocked since March 1 and will be stocked again. The limit has been 5 trout here, but will change to 10 on May 2.

Bon Tempe Reservoir is being bluestoned, so it will be stocked later.

SAN FRANCISCO'S Lake Merced also will open May 2. It has been amply stocked and pre-season sampling indicates there are lots of fish for the opener. Permits are $1 per season or 25 cents per day at lake headquarters. Boats can be rented and shore fishing is okay.

Other waters which will open May 2 and which will be stocked are: Alameda County — Alameda Creek ; Lake County — Anderson Creek, Kelsey Creek and Lake Pillsbury; Mendocino County — Cleone Lake and the east branch of the Russian River; Monterey County —Upper and lower Arroyo Seco, Big Sur River, Carmel River, Los Padres Reservoir and the upper Naciento River; Napa County — Hennessey Lake, Lake Berryessa (open all year); San Mateo County — Gozos and Pecadero creeds; Sonoma County — Lake Ralphine (open all year).

PERHAPS THE question, "How does one catch a trout?" might come up.

Well, there are several ways, but lets start from the beginning.

First of all, trout live in the fresh water streams and lakes of California almost everywhere, unless the waters are polluted or too warm.

We have trout in the lakes and reservoirs and streams throughout Marin County. In these waters, most of the fish are taken using a fly rod, a spinning rod or a casting rod using the correct weighted line for the individual rod and reel and using light leaders usually from one and one-quarter pound test to no more than four pound test.

The best hook sizes are between numbers 8 and 12.

USING FLIES, lures or bait hooks is one's own choice. Probably most of the fish are taken using slamon eggs, but worms and artificial lures (spinners, wobblers, etc.) are all good.

And some of the fly fishermen enjoy only their way. I prefer using a fly rod, a fly line and a single egg on a No. 10 hook with a nine-foot tapered leader down to one and one-quarter pound test. Roll cast this (no sinker) and you will have a ball on trout taking the bait with this light gear. The trout must be close to the shoreline as is the case at both Lagunitas and Phoenix lakes.

Other anglers using spinning rods or casting rods use a small sinker on a light leader with one, two or three hooks (No. 10s) baited with eggs, worms, etc. With this outfit, longer casts are possible in lakes with shallow shorelines. Up in the Sierra, I like to use a fly rod and reel with three pound test monofiliment, then strip casting 30 or so coils, castout to the deeper waters or away from the boat.

I use a small sinker, or none at all if I use roe clusters or a whole nite crawler, which is enough weight to ake the line out without a sinker. This way you get all the fighting action of the fish.

Fishing in streams and rivers requires gear adopted to the particular stream. In fast flowing rivers, sinkers are almost essential to getting the bait to the bottom.

In slow creeks and rivers, actually sneaking up on a hole or a log or alongside a tree requires practice and skill. Once you scare the fish, usually that is it for the day with that particular fish.

And jerking the line with a fish on may put the fish plus the line up over a bush, where a minor logging operation may bee the only way to retrieve your fish.

But it's all fun. Get your license and the two trout stamps required to be legal, stay within the trout limits and join the rest of the nuts at one hour before sunrise at 5:16 a.m. on Saturday, May 2 and you'll know you're still alive.

Wayne, Wayne Go Away, Sing Hawks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wayne, Wayne go away, please come back another day? If the Chicago Black Hawks want to parody the familiar refrain today, you couldn't really blame them.

Wayne Carleton and Wayne Cashman contributed key goals Thursday night to lead Boston over Chicago 5-2 for a commanding 3-0 lead in their National Hockey League playoff series.

The best-of-7 East Division finals continue Sunday in Boston.

In West Division play, Pittsburgh downed St. Louis 3-2 to cut the Blues' margin to 2-1 in their best-of-7 set. They resume Sunday in Pittsburgh.

After Chicago took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Cliff Koroll's goal, Carleton took a pass from Eddie Westfall and tied the score on a 20-footer at 8:50.

The Teams traded goals, then Cashman shot the Bruins into a never-headed 3-2 lead a little more than six minutes into the second period.

The Bruins were leading 4-2 in the early minutes of the final session when Keith Magnuson took a pass from Stan Mikita, came in all alone and unleashed a point-blank shot at goalie Gerry Cheevers.

But the Boston goalie got his glove in front of the shot and the save seemed to take the sting out of the Black Hawks.

"That was a big stop . . . a big stop," exulted Boston Coach Harry Sinden. "We weren't playing all that well. If Magnuson had got that goal, I don't know if we could have snapped out of it and held them.

Rookie Michel Briere, a 150-pound center, scored a goal and added an assist as Pittsburgh scored three goals in the first two periods, then held off last-period thunder by St. Louis.

"Altogether I think it was the best game we've played," said Briere. "If we get them Sunday, we'll win it in four games."

Collegiate Scholarly Baseball

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—College baseball players who score hits in the classroom will be honored this year.

President Tom Rowen of the National College Baseball Writers' Association announced today the establishment of the first Academic All-American College Baseball Team.

Rowen, of the San Jose Mercury-News, asked that nominations be sent to him.

The selection committee will include W.P. "Dutch" Fehring of Stanford, president of the United States Baseball Association of College Baseball Coaches' Olympic Games Committee; and Sal Taormina, University of Santa Clara baseball coach.

Nominees must have had a 3.0 average scholastically amounting to a straight "B". The team will be announced Monday, June 15 during the College World Series at Omaha, Neb.

Sanders Continues His Golfing Slide

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A talented bunch of golf tour leftovers charged after the Tallahassee Open's $10,000 top prize Thursday while a giant of the past —Doug Sanders — continued to suffer with a fat 76.

Sanders is tied for 92nd place and must fight even making the cut in the $50,000 "satellite" event to the hero-packed Tournament of Champions being played in California.

While Sanders continued his two-year slump, South African Harold Henning, Texan Terry Dill and Florida's Jack McGowan carved out 67s to take the first-day lead.

Harry Toscano, a relatively unknown player, shot 68 and tour regulars R. H. Sikes and Bert Greene tied young John Miller at 69.

Caps Looking Forward To Home Court

DENVER (AP) — Coach Al Bianchi and his Washington Caps are looking forward to returning to their home court after Denver grabbed a 3-2 edge Thursday night in their Western Division American Basketball Association semifinal series with a 132-110 victory.

The home team has won each game to date in the best-of-seven series. The sixth game is set for Saturday in Washington, with the seventh — if necessary — to be played Tuesday in Denver.

The Denver-Washington contest was the only ABA playoff action scheduled Thursday night.

Two games are on tap tonight. The Indiana Pacers, leading 3-0, can close out their Eastern Division semifinals with a victory over the Carolina Cougars at Raleigh, N.C. The Los Angeles Stars and Dallas Chaparrals, knotted at 2-2 in the west, meet in the fifth game at Dallas .

Kentucky and New York, also tied at 2-2 in the Eastern Division, mark time until Sunday when they clash at Louisville.

Spencer Haywood again was the big gun in Denver's victory over Washington, pouring in 38 points and hauling down 20 rebounds. He was matched in the scoring department by the Caps' Rick Barry, who also grabbed off 17 rebounds, a personal season high.

Today is Friday, April 24, the 114th day of 1970 with 251 to follow.

The moon is between its full stage and last quarter. The morning star is Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

In 1704 the first regularly printed American newspaper, the Boston News-Letter was published by John and Duncan Campbell.

In 1877 northern rule of the South in the post-Civil War days ended when President Rutherford Hayes ordered federal troops out of New Orleans. Orleans.

In 1967 Soviet Cosmonaut Vladimir Kamarov was killed when his re-entry parachute snarled following an orbital space flight.

A thought for the day: British cleric John Tillotson said, "They who are in the highest places, and have the most power have the least liberty, because they are the mose observed."

Guilty Verdict In Drug Trial

A Marin Superior Court jury of 12 women yesterday convicted Terry Bartlett Samuels, 29, of Marin City, of felony counts of possessing heroin and cocaine.

Visiting Judge Thomas Kongsgaard of Napa County who heard the case, set sentencing for June 25 at 4:30 p.m.

Samuels was arrested in Sausalito last Aug. 3.

The case was prosecuted by Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony and Samuels was defended by attorney Carl B. Shapiro.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Democracy Is Wonderful, But It Just Doesn't Help Player

Democracy is a wonderful thing, but it doesn't always help you choose the right play. If you held a rapid poll in the middle of today's hand, for example, you might discover that 36 per cent of you wanted to finesse, 34 per cent wanted to play high and 30 per cent wanted to go home and hide. To find the right play, you must begin at the end.

RETURNS HEART

East won the first trick with the ace of hearts and returned a heart. South ruffed, drew two rounds of trumps and then began on the clubs.

The first few club plays were easy. The correct technique is to lead a low club to dummy's king, return a low club to the ace and then lead South's last club toward dummy. With any luck, the jack appears early, and there is no problem.

In this case, however, the jack does not appear, and South must decide whether to play the queen or the ten from the dummy. Here is where the average player would conduct an election or toss a coin.

WISE CHOICE

When the hand played, declarer was Mrs. Valerie Calamaro, Los Angeles bridge expert and table tennis enthusiast. Looking to the end, Mrs. Calamaro saw that the finesse could not possibly lose.

If West had the jack of clubs, the finesse would succeed, and declarer could discard a diamond on the queen of clubs. If East had the jack of clubs, he would win the third club trick but would then be end-played. If East returned a diamond, dummy's king would win a trick; and if East returned a heart, dummy would ruff while South discarded a diamond; and in either case declarer would discard a diamond on dummy's queen of clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♡ Q J 9 6 3
♦ Q 10 8
♣ J 9 8 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts.

This promises very strong trump support (at least four cards, often more) with a side singleton or void suit and not more than nine points in high cards.

Pleads Innocent To Having Pot

William Paul Lipps, 29, of Fairfax, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana. A preliminary hearing was set for May 26.

Lipps was arrested in a Fairfax residence in which he was house-sitting for two friends who had been arrested on suspicion of setting up a mail order drug business.

Police said they noticed a heavy odor of what appeared to be marijuana in the house when they returned in connection with the other case, and after obtaining a search warrant, they returned and found about seven ounces of suspected pot.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

Box Factory Moving Southward On Bay

A new multimillion-dollar plant to make corrugated shipping boxes will be constructed in the Central Bay Industrial Park at Union City, southern Alameda County by Owens-Illinois, Inc.

The new plant will replace the 30-year old box plant at Seventh and Terminal streets, Oakland where the company's lease expires at the end of this year. Completion is scheduled for October and the plant will have the capacity to produce 600 million square feet of corrugated board a year, employing aboue 130 persons on an annual payroll of over $1 million.

COMMERCE CLEARING HOUSE, INC. has reported sales for the quarter ended March 31 at $13.6 million, compared to $11.4 million a year ago. Earnings were $1,339,991 or 37 cents a share - up from $874,421 or 24 cents a share in 1969. The company will move its western regional headquarters from San Francisco to Northgate in Marin County.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE directors have approved a multimillion-dollar modernization program of its 40-year old building - a Chicago landmark. The program will include replacement of existing heating and air conditioning and electric power systems, revision of the elevator system, development of rental areas in the building and exterior improvements.

BOISE CASCADE CORP. has reported a net income of 60 cents per common share for the first quarter, compared to 66 cents for last year's first quarter, a decrease of 9 per cent. Net income was down from $19.6 million to $17.6 million.

CONSOLIDATED FOODS CORP. set records in both sales and earnings in the first nine months of its fiscal 1970 year. Sales at $1,193 million were up from $1,096 million a year ago. Profits reached $38.6 million, a 6.5 per cent increase over last year's $36.2 million.

HOLIDAY AIRLINES, Oakland has elected William R. Boyd president and director. He has been an officer of several air carriers for the past 22 years, including World Airways, Continental Airlines and Airlift International. He left the latter firm as president and director in 1969 to form his own air transportation consulting firm; Holiday has been among his clients.

ITEK CORP. has reported sales of $33.7 million for the first quarter, compared with $37.4 million for the same period last year. But earnings rose from $954,000 or 41 cents a share a year ago to $998,000 or 42 cents a share this quarter. Operating income from commercial divisions more than offset lower income from government operations.

BLACK AND DECKER MANUFACTURING CO., the world's largest power tool manufacturer, has reported net sales and earnings for the second quarter and first half of fiscal 1970 as the highest in company history. Directors have recommended a three-for-two split of the common stock and have indicated a 10 per cent increase in the cash dividend to 22 cents quarterly on the newly split shares may be expected in the fourth quarter.

CUTTER LABORATORIES, Berkeley had first quarter sales of $16.8 million, a 20 per cent increase over the $14 million attained last year. Net earnings for the quarter were $690,000, or 33 cents per share, compared with $597,000 or 29 cents per share last year.

B. F. GOODRICH CO. achieved record sales of $304 million for the first quarter, an increase of 2.7 per cent over the previous year. But net income for the first quarter decreased 19.1 per cent to $7.9 million from last year's $9.8 million. Per share income was 55 cents, down from 68 cents a year ago.

NEW PRESIDENT — Directors of the Georgia-Pacific Corp. of Portland, Ore., has elected William H. Hunt to the corporation presidency. He moves up from the executive vice president post in the plywood, gypsum and distribution divisions of the company. (UPI Telephoto)

Firms To Merge

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI)—Gibraltar Financial Corp. and Wesco Financial Corp. have agreed to merge on the basis of exchanging 1.2 share of Gibraltar for each share of Wesco. Both firms are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Stock Market Remains On Minus Side

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 2 p.m. one hour before the final bell, was down 2.17 to 748.42. At noon it had been down 1.63 after being down 3.56 in early trading.

Declines narrowed their lead over advances to about 200 issues. Trading was moderately active.

Analysts, who had earlier predicted a reversal of the market's downtrend because of heavy selling in previous sessions, said there was resistance to a rally of any sort. They said the upswing encountered general pessimism from investors and some lightening of portfolions prior to the weekend.

Price changes among key issues were mostly fractional with several ranging between one point and two points.

Latrobe Steel was off 1⅞ to 10⅞ after a company announcement Thursday that first quarter earnings were sharply lower than a year ago and that it would omit its second quarter dividend.

Newmont Mining, down 2⅛ to 32, was the most active issue on the New York Stock Exchange. A 181,300-share block of Newmont was traded at 31, off 3⅛.

Other late prices on the New York exchange included Aetna Life, down ¾ to 39¼; Telex, down ¼ to 96¼; American Telephone, up ¼ to 49; Leasco Data, up ⅛ to 13¼; General Motors, down ⅝ to 69¼; Xerox, up ¼ to 83⅜; and Memorex, down 1½ to 95½.

Bankamericard Corp. Declares Dividend

LOS ANGELES (BW)—A regular quarterly dividend of 55 cents a share on the capital stock of Bankamerica Corp. has been authorized by the corporation's directors.

The dividend, which is at the annual rate of $2.20 per share, is payable May 29 to shareholders of record April 30.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Dividends Not Main Factor To Consider

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I own shares of Thomas Industries and Quaker Oats. Thomas has distributed several stock dividends and paid a cash dividend every year. Since Quaker's dividend is not much, should I sell it and buy more Thomas?—C.B.

A. Cash dividends for Quaker and Thomas both yield 2.1 per cent. While a stock dividend is attractive, an investment decision should not be made on this factor alone.

Thomas' good earnings growth was interrupted in 1969 when profits were adversely affected by plant start-up costs and a strike. The outlook for 1970 is obscured by tight money and reduced consumer buying. However, Thomas should maintain its leading industry position through active product development and promotional programs.

While cereal is still Quaker's best-known product line, the company has completed acquisitions which will not only add to sales and earnings but will broaden consumer markets. The most important of these, Fisher-Price, a producer of preschool games and toys, places OAT in an intensely competitive market with a highly regarded product line. Other expansion areas include frozen foods and gourmet prepared food items. Established products such as pet foods are continuing their healthy uptrend. Hold both for long-term growth.

Q. I am interested in forming an investment club. Are there any figures available on the investment success of such groups?—N.P.

A. According to the National Assn. of Investment Clubs, which represents about 25 per cent of the 60,000 clubs in the country, members have fared well. A survey conducted in February 1969, revealed that of those which responded 90 per cent showed a profit over the life of the club and 92 per cent outperformed Standard & Poor's Industrials in 1968.

The NAIC, a volunteer organization, had, by the end of 1969, 13,797 clubs enrolled with portfolios valued at $360 million. Founded in 1951, this nonprofit organization offers assistance to groups interested in forming clubs. Plane Rental Franchise Field Grows

NEW YORK (UPI)—Renting an airplane soon may be almost as easy as renting a car and not much more expensive if you have a flying license.

It can be done already in the midwest, in California and a few areas in the East at prices as low as $11 a day and 11 cents a mile although the average prices are well above that.

A Chicago frim called Lease-A-Plane International, Inc., has pioneered a service on a franchised basis and has five centers in operation now. It plans to have 125 by 1975.

Hertz tried a similar rent-a-plane scheme some years ago but decided it was premature and gave it up. But Burt Greenfield, his son, Steve, and his son-in-law, Jim Johnson, have got off to a flying start. They expect to have new franchisees in New York, Baltimore, Denver and San Francisco within six months.

Their plan calls for franchise investments, including aircraft inventories, ranging from $440,000 to $1.1 million, much of it financed at as little as 10 per cent down.

Rates charged by Lease-A-Plane are considerably cheaper than the usual independent rental airplane agency rates. The independents charge $15 an hour for a single engine plane, ranging up to $60 or more an hour for a large plane. Customers usually have to pay straight time while waiting to take off, too, which can waste a lot of money. The Lease-A-Plane plan avoids that.

Marin Agriculture Income Increases

The gross value of the entire Marin County agricultural industry last year rose to $15,502,000—a 9 per cent increase over the 1968 figure of $14,135,100.

County Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard reported that the combined livestock industry continues to represent about 90 per cent of the total gross value, of which nearly 70 per cent is derived from milk production alone. The latter totaled $11,120,000 in 1969, compared with $10,064,000 in 1968.

Cattle gained in dollar volume—$2,344,000 from $2,079,000, but the number of head remained virtually the same—21,000. The value of lambs dropped $1,000 to $237,000; hogs and pigs increased in value from $42,000 to $49,500; chickens dropped from $156,000 in 1968 to $148,000 in 1969.

Wool production was down 18,400 head, but valuation increased to $47,300 from $41,000 in 1968. Egg production was up from $174,00 to $191,000.

In field crops, the harvested value of pasture lands remained the same at $435,000. Hay and grain moved up from $158,000 to $221,000. Barley, oat and wheat crops (not counted in 1968) amounted to $47,600. Fruit and nut crops increased from $24,000 to $27,000, with about 10 more acres harvested than in 1968.

Total nursery crops dropped from $542,700 to $531,100—about where it was in 1967. The biggest decrease was in cut plants.

New Microfilm System Bought

MENLO PARK (BW) — Microform Data Systems, Inc., has received a facility management equipment and service contract for an ultra-high density film processing system from the Mellonics Ssytems Development Division of Litton Industries.

The value of the equipment exceeds $300,000.

According to Spofford, the microform system will provide capability for Litton's Mellonics division to store and disseminate various data processing reports on ultrafilm rather than paper.

New Attacks Launched On Your Right To Know

The public's right to know how its public business is conducted is difficult to preserve.

Some legislators take it seriously, and fight to extend it—or rather, in most cases, to win back the right in areas where it has been eroded away or legislated away.

Side by side with their bills are always measures introduced by other legislators to further hide the spending of public money.

BILLS TO CLOSE the books and shut the doors so the people won't know what's going on in their government and what's being done with their tax money often have the support of government groups themselves—for motives which cannot help being questioned. For instance, when Assemblyman Ralph M. Brown introduced what became the Ralph M. Brown Act, California's open meeting law, he found it opposed by the League of California Cities. And some departments of state government fought against Assemblyman William T. Bagley's open records bill.

Often, other special interests enter the picture.

IN THE STATE SENATE now is a bill, SB 1034 by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, which would allow closed meetings of public bodies to discuss acquisition or disposition of public property.

It is amazing that a state legislator would propose such a bill. Perhaps he is depending on the lack of knowledge of American history being as great among the legislators as it is among the general public—for most scandals that have rocked municipal government in this country over the centuries have involved shady property deals.

THE ONLY ARGUMENT usually heard in behalf of closed-door property acquisition is the feeble one that it may save the public money. The reverse is generally true.

In addition, the pretense that keeping property acquisition plans secret is the only way to keep an owner from hiking his price is false. If a city wishes to acquire property, it has only to file a notice of intention to condemn, and the valuation is frozen as of that date. And if it wishes to sell property, the law says it must do so by public bid, not by private dicker.

AN EVEN MORE BLATANT attack on the public's right to know is AB 2087 by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento. It would allow closed meetings on any matter exempted from the open books provisions of the Bagley Public Records Act—a list far longer than the "hiring, firing or hearing charges" which the Brown Act permits in camera.

While Assemblymen Bradley and Z'berg are trying to whittle away the public's right to know, however, Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-Hollywood, is trying to strengthen it. His AB 2442 would make all agencies receiving more than 50 per cent of their funds from public sources subject to the Brown Act.

The Marin-Sonoma Seventh Assembly District is fortunate in having as its representative Assemblyman Bagley, who can be counted on to fight for keeping public matters public. But he may need help in the form of letters from constituents to convince some legislators that the public really cares how its business is conducted.

An Extra Need This Year

The Marin County chapter of the American Cancer Society will open its annual fund drive tomorrow.

The work of the American Cancer Society, and the need for further cancer research, are too well known to need elaboration here. But this year, the need is increased by a cutback in federal appropriations for cancer research. This "squeeze" has flooded the cancer society with requests for funds for projects already under way, according to its national headquarters.

The Marin County volunteers seeking your donations for the war on cancer will thus be hoping for special generosity this year so that research can be stepped up instead of reduced.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Proposition 2 On June Ballot Affects Local Governments

This is the second of a series of stories on the eight propositions to be voted on June 2 in the primary elections. Others will follow.

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) Proposition 2 on the June 2 ballot is one of a series of constitutional revision changes recommended by the Constitutional Revision Commission, which has been trying for several years to modernize the state constitution.

The proposition revises that portion of the constitution having to do with formation and governing of cities and counties.

SIMILAR provisions were contained in Proposition 2, defeated by the people when they were submitted previously in a single package at the recommendation of the Constitutional Revision Commission. At that time, one reason given for the defeat was that the people rejected the whole package because it took from them the right to elect the state superintendent of schools.

Consequently, last year the legislature voted to resubmit most of the package, but in several propositions, so that if one was defeated, the others might not be and the job of revision could get under way.

The first section of the several proposed revisions deals with the local government sections of the constitution.

NEW PROVISIONS for county formation, boundary changes and county consolidations are involved, along with the change that the governing body of the county fix salaries of elected officials, rather than the legislature in non-charter counties. Many other changes are involved.

Proponents of the proposition contend that citizens who want stronger local government should vote "yes," as it gives local government more flexibility.

OPPONENTS hold that the basic dangers of the original submission of this proposition still remain. The argument against is written by Assemblyman Carlos J. Moorhead, R-Glendale, who says the proposal gives the legislator many new powers to "modify or change the firm, unalterable mandates of the people as they presently exist in the constitution."

He also says the proposal will give the legislature the power to establish regional government, which will have powers of taxation without approval by vote of the people.

It seems the Constitutional Revision Commission is having difficulty keeping the reins of government in the hands of the people.

Teacher Finds Editorial Obtuse

For some time I have been struck with the illogical and medieval quality of some of the editorial opinion your paper prints on the subject of education. Friday's (April 17) editorial, "Striking Against Children," was a prime example.

Your writer began by inveighing against "special classes" and teach-ins saying that the school year contains 175 days because "that is deemed the amount necessary for teaching the material to be covered." In point of fact the school year's length is a historical accident, stemming from a need in earlier years to have children free to help with the summer harvest. . .

To tell the truth, the whole emphasis placed on time by the writer's keep-them-in-their-seats philosophy has me mystified. I had thought that the passage of time, per se, was educationally enutral — otherwise inmates of federal prisons would be wiser than they are—and that it was what you did with the time you had that was the important thing. Perhaps I was wrong.

The writer then went on to liken an educational institution to a factory. "Everyone operating a shop or factory knows that he cannot shut it down. . .without reducing production." It's as though knowledge could be compared to endless cans of tomato soup coming off a conveyor belt. A worse analogy could hardly have been chosen. . .

Perhaps the most obtuse point of all was saved for last. Aimed at administrators who arrange minimum days for teachers to attend workshops and seminars, the writer said, "This is fine for the teachers. But it is not fine for the children. The classes must be telescoped. . .the children are shortchanged."

It ought to have been obvious to anyone that since these workshops and afternoon classes invariably go beyond the end of the normal teaching day, that teachers do not attend them for their private pleasure, but rather in order to become better and more imaginative teachers of those very same children to whose "defense" the writer is so righteously rallying.

Underlying the whole article I seemed to sense a vague fear that if the doors are flung open and alert teen-agers allowed a view outside, that they would then begin to ask questions about our society and why it is the way it is, questions that older folks would wish they didn't ask.

Enough of this Procrustean silliness!

Wandering Dogs May Save Lives

I live on one of the busiest streets in Mill Valley and wish to come to the defense of "loose dogs".

Motorists occasionally double the speed limit in front of our house. Without the fear that an animal could, at any time, run in front of their car I feel certain that speeding motorists would step up the pace.

It is reasonable to assume that our wandering dogs may indirectly be saving lives, especially the lives of some of our wandering children.

Candidate Hits At Free Speech

Fair minded people of both political parties should be shocked and disgusted at Rep. George Brown for attempting to deny Gov. Ronald Reagan his freedom of speech. At a student rally at Stanford, Representative Brown told the students to "give Reagan hell whenever he shows up here." His audience hardly needed lessons on how to deny others the same rights they demand for themselves.

Superintendent Thanks Voters

Residents of the Dixie School District on behalf of the board of trustees, the parents, the students, and the employees of the Dixie School District, please accept my sincere appreciation for the support you gave this school system on April 14 when you voted to increase your taxes to provide the district with additional operating funds and school construction monies.

We do, indeed, live in an unique community which values the education of its children very highly. I know I speak for all of us who work in Dixie when I say "Thank you." We feel privileged to work here and we reaffirm our pledge to continue to bring the finest education we possibly can to your children.

To Get Action, Find A Candidate

I certainly sympathize with Mina Woolverton of Corte Madera in connection with the dog menace in her community. My wife and I went through the same hassle here in Mill Valley with a vicious dog which attacked her and I and the various newspaper delivery boys in the area. We complained to the Humane Society on several occasions, received a courteous hearing but no action. Finally we read in the I-J that a certain gentleman was running for a county office and listed his qualifications as a director of the Humane Society. A telephone call to him brought action p.d.q. and we no longer have dog trouble. Moral of the story: Find a person who wants your vote and you will get action aplenty.

THE DRUMMONDS

Time Has Come For President To Name Successor To Lodge

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON—The time is at hand for President Nixon to return the Vietnam peace talks in Paris to a high level.

It would not be surprising to see Mr. Nixon take this step at a moment he deems opportune by naming a successor to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

That moment may be soon. There are some suggestive signs that Hanoi may be interested in serious negotiation before long. It would be well for us to be ready. It might well be desirable for the United States to give the additional signal that now is a good time to begin meaningful talks by filling the negotiating vacancy left by Lodge's resignation five months ago.

THERE IS REASON to assume that President Nixon's decision not to replace Lodge promptly was not because he couldn't find a suitable man. He could easily have found a good replacement. Therefore, the decision to leave the chair of his top negotiator vacant was deliberate.

There was a good reason in the President's mind for doing so.

It was clear to him that Hanoi was not interested in productive talks and that the North Vietnamese were not going to negotiate any settlement unless they could be shown that the United States had an alternative to the conference table and that they would in the end be worse off by not negotiating.

THIS IS WHY President Nixon left the Lodge seat vacant. He wanted to show Hanoi that he was not without another course of action even if the Paris talks were sterile. His alternative was Vietnamization and in his address to the nation this week he reported it has been working so well that he can withdraw 150,000 more U.S. troops in the next 12 months.

Thus Mr. Nixon was saying to Hanoi: if you don't want to end the war by negotiating, we will proceed vigorously to strengthen the South Vietnamese so they can defend themselves.

The time has come, we suspect, when the absence of a high level U. S. negotiator at Paris has served its purpose. The President was able to report that "progress in training and equipping South Vietnamese forces has substantially exceeded our original expectations."

The firsthand and independent observations of nongovernment experts, both foreign and American, confirm this judgment.

Now that the President has shown that Vietnamization is a workable policy and has demonstrated his own faith in it by scheduling substantial continued withdrawals, a strong case can be made that now is the time to fill the Lodge post with an experienced political representative of the White House.

Hanoi says it will deal only with such a person. The North Vietnamese might consider it face-saving not to have to give the first signal that they are ready to start serious negotiation. There is no reason we shouldn't make the first move by filling Lodge's seat soon, as an invitation to Hanoi.

QUITE PROBABLY Mr. Nixon already has in mind the man he would select to replace Ambassador Lodge. The only reason we cite possible candidates is to indicate good men are available.

A superb replacement would be the former governor of Pennsylvania, William Scranton, whom Mr. Nixon wanted to have as his secretary of state and who has since undertaken important diplomatic missions for the President. Or John J. McCloy who has served every President since Franklin Roosevelt and helped President Kennedy set up the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. Or former Secretary of State Dean Acheson who would serve the President with unsurpassed skill and loyalty.

There is no doubt that a good replacement for Lodge is readily within reach. The time may be near when he should be ready to go to Paris. It is now clear that Hanoi cannot win the war by playing on divisiveness within the United States. But it can achieve a reasonable settlement by negotiation—and achieve it sooner rather than later.

Japan Building Army Denied By Constitution

By FREDERICK NOSSAL
Toronto Telegram News Service

TOKYO (TNS) — Japan sits at the eastern edge of the Asian political volcano, watching it erupt day after day. Amid all the utopian talk at Expo '70 about progress and harmony for all mankind, the Japanese are taking a very realistic look at the Asia of tomorrow.

They see no choice but to rearm. The problem of defense is getting increasing attention. By next year, the so-called Japanese Self-Defense Forces will have 325,000 men.

Expenditures on defense are rising by leaps and bounds. Within two years, Japan's annual defense spending will total over $2.7 billion, and the government plans to spend a total of around $13.8 billion during the fourth five-year defense program due to start on April 1, 1972.

A VARIETY of facts has persuaded Japan that she must boost the armed forces — the two most important being her booming economy and war weariness in the United States.

In terms of gross national product, Japan is now second after the United States, in the non-Communist world. Japan's GNP this year is expected to be near $200 billion and should reach $400 billion to $500 billion by 1975.

Despite their war-renouncing constitution, Japanese leaders feel they must have an army able to defend the nation's growing wealth. But because of continued opposition to arms spending among the Japanese public, the ratio of Japan's defence budget to its gross national product remains the lowest in the world. It is now about .9 of one per cent of GNP, and is expected to rise to around 1 per cent this year.

ARTICLE 9 in the Japanese constitution says: "The Japanese people forever renounce war as a sovereign right of the nation. In order to accomplish this aim, land, sea and air forces, as well as other war potential, will never be maintained."

The legal loophole through which the Japanese army came to grow is that the army is merely a defensive force, but even most Japanese themselves do not take this euphemism very seriously any longer.

JAPAN CAN hardly be blamed for its revamped defense policy. Wherever you look in Asia there is turmoil. South Korea and Taiwan, where Japan has mounting economic interests, faces the threat of armed action by North Korea and China.

The Sino-Soviet border talks in Peking seem to be getting nowhere, with both sides still afraid of an armed clash at some time. The United States is trying to disengage from Southeast Asia despite the fact that the conflict there — while not as intensive or bloody as during 1967 and 1968 — is gradually spilling from Vietnam into Laos and Cambodia.

There is constant social and political unrest in the Philippines, Indonesia, Burma, Malaysia, India and Pakistan.

Obviously then, as Asia's most affluent, most industrialized nation, Japan cannot afford to be without an arsenal of modern weapons, although for the time being the country is stopping short of nuclear arms.

Veterinarians' Prices Put Free Spaying Clinic Soundly To Sleep

A Mill Valley woman's drive to establish a low-cost or no-cost cat spaying clinic in Marin County to curb the feline population has run into opposition from veterinarians.

Margaret Y. Goodyear, who owns nine cats herself, proposed last November that such a clinic be set up; financed in part by a dollar-a-year tax on all cats in the county, to avoid making owners pay $30-40 to have them spayed.

But Dr. C.W. Owens, president of the Marin County Veterinary Medical Association, and Dr. C.J. Peetz of Corte Madera told a meeting of cat fanciers Monday at the Civic Center that such a clinic, at least on a mass-production basis, is unfeasible.

SPAYING is major surgery, they said, and factors such as anesthesia and pre- and post-operative care, as well as the surgery itself, make it so expensive that the price soon may be raised to $90.

The fanciers, including Mrs. Goodyear, and Jean Barnard, newly elected vice mayor of Mill Valley, thought this price was much too high.

But Dr. Gary M. Gourley of the Small Animal Clinic at the University of California, Davis, confirmed the prices. "Spaying is the most underpriced operation a veterinarian does," he said. "Some vets charge $15, but that's the lowest price you'll find. We charge $20 at the clinic."

PART OF the problem is the necessity of removing the animal's uterus and ovaries to complete the job. Some vets simply tie the fallopian tubes, which takes but a few minutes. This prevents pregnancy, but does not eliminate the yowling of the cat, the wandering during mating season, and similar problems.

Even if only a few operations a day could be done at a clinic, Mrs. Barnard said, that would be a start. The group strongly expressed the thought that something had to be done.

Most of them felt, however, that Mrs. Goodyear's proposal to make the $1-a-year cat tax voluntary wouldn't work. An alternate suggestion mentioned was to finance the program for those who couldn't afford to pay by charging the full price to those who could and earmarking part of that money for relief.

But no one could agree on who would decide who gets the cut price and who doesn't. The veterinarians said they didn't want any part of it.

The decision at the meeting's end to appoint a four-member committee to investigate further kept the whole idea from being swept under the rug.

April 17 Was Real Earth Day; Billboards Sprout For Ecology

Fusselman

Wednesday was Earth Day — right? No, wrong. Last Friday? Right! That day three courageous men from outer space landed their flying cone on this Earth of ours. That should be the only Earth Day we will ever celebrate from here on.

With all its mal-environmentalism, it was the grandest place in all the universe. Yes, April 17 should be the day. Did you choke up a bit and have a hard time holding back the tears as their wives and families clung to them? Well you were not alone. There were millions of us all around the world in the same fix. GOOD Friday? GOOD Earth Day? You bet.

SPEAKING OF environment: What goes with this fellow Peter Behr, who is running for high office? You saw the picture of his massive signboard on the front page of the I-J. "You ain't heard nothin' yet." The word is that he is plastering the landscape with them in all the three counties of the district — and without permission yet.

You remember him as the S.O.S. — Save Our Seashore — buff. If I remember rightly, when he was on the board of supervisors, he was all hot for conservation, including being against billboards. Now it's See Our Billboards Ecology? Environment? Oh, hum.

THAT FERRY BOAT that the Golden Gate Bridge people are going to buy has a price tag of $568,673. Paul Zucker and the transit district combined relieved you of $374,449 for the constant flow of rhetoric about transit. This comes within $194,224 of enough to buy the boat.

And did you spot Zucker's letter to the editor? He wanted to explain his decision to run. Says he, "Some people have suggested that I was wrong in seeking the office of Marin County supervisor without resigning my position as county planning director. I feel so deeply about the rightness about this decision that I believe your readers should receive this personal letter from me."

He showed a surprising lack of knowledge about our form of government. Note: "Our democratic form of government is in serious trouble because people increasingly feel that they can not participate in government — in serious trouble because many governmental officials feel they can no longer take the public into their confidence . . ."

Mr. Z. this is not a "democratic form of government." This is the Republic of the United States of America. Where have you been all this time?

He asks, "What does Marin County government have to hide?" Now let me ask, just how much have we known about what he was doing these past years that he has been on the job continually coming up with requests for more and more time to make more and more studies always nebulous?

I WOULD LIKE to publically thank Niels Schultz Jr. for his intelligent devotion to the affairs of the planning commission during those 14 years. It would be hard to find a more impartial, conscientious performance of duty than his has been. Well done, Niels. My personal thanks to you.

Good For Children Knitting, 'Feelies'

How very sad that the little boys at the Tamalpais Nursery School in Mill Valley weren't permitted to learn how to knit when they wanted to. I think the teacher missed a great opportunity to encourage her students to pursue their interests; after all, exploring one's interests is one of the first steps to creativity. Must these children with their beautifully open minds be taught to be afraid of people's ridicule if they do something as innocent as knitting? Some men have found knitting or similar pursuits very relaxing and a good way to spend "wasted" time (such as while riding a train).

Incidentally, the "feelies" sound like great fun. I do hope the girls have a chance to join in this asexual activity.

BCDC Guidelines On Mud Flats

Your comments as to the criticism by the BCDC of the most recently proposed plan for Richardson Bay indicate a lack of understanding as to the ecological and environmental importance of mud flats. In the "San Francisco Bay Plan Supplement" published by the BCDC in January, 1969, Dr. H. Thomas Harvey of San Jose State College, states:

"To conserve fish and wildlife, San Francisco Bay must have an adequate food supply and its waters must have an adequate supply of oxygen. This means that the marshes and to the fullest possible extent, mud flats must be maintained Filling and diking, which eliminates marshes and mud flats, should therefore be allowed only for purposes providing substantial public benefits and for which there are no reasonable alternatives. . .

"To offset possible additional losses of marshes due to filling providing substantial public benefits, and to augment the present marshes, the commission's plan for the bay should consider (a) restoring former marshes through removal of existing dikes, and (b) creating new marshes through carefully placed lifts of dredging spoils."

The above guidelines as set down by the BCDC obviously give great importance to the value of mud flats.

As to your second point, concerning the pollution of the mud flats, you must realize that this pollution is not due to the presence of mud flats, but to the surrounding cities' poor sewage systems, and the seemingly complete lack of enforcement of any sanitation laws in the houseboat colony.

Perhaps more concern about enforcement of sanitation laws would do more to clean up Richardson Bay than any deep channel" which would possibly clean up Richardson Bay, but would only carry the pollution to other more distant waters.

Jr. Fire Marshal Sticker Handy

Last fall some firemen came to our school and talked about fire safety. All of us in the kindergarten class were made junior fire marshals. We were given a red sticker with the number of the fire department to keep by our phone in case of emergency.

Last Saturday when the airplane crashed on our street in Peacock Gap my mother was the first to call the fire dept. because I put the sticker right by the telephone just like the fireman said.

It turned out to be very useful.

Candidate Deplores Advertising Cost

Last night's (April 21) paper implied that signs on my behalf were placed illegally in violation of state and county ordinances, more than 45 days before the primary and that I have consented to such violation. In order to make sure this would not occur, I specifically instructed my sign people not to place any signs outdoors prior to April 18, and checked to see that they did not. I also instructed them that signs were not to be placed anywhere in violation of the state or county laws.

I was not the first, second or even third candidate to have signs placed near roadways. In each election in recent years, such signs have proliferated and no action has been taken by the authorities to cause their removal . . .

It is regrettable that expensive political advertising has become such a large part of political campaigns. I would much prefer to be considered on my own merits, as would the other candidates for judge, and not be forced to blanket the county with signs, broadside mailings or media advertising . . .

Max Rafferty's Reading Gains

Recently U.S. Commissioner of Education James E. Allen noted with alarm that 25 per cent of our nation's adults are functional illiterates, and as many of 70 to 80 per cent of urban minority high school graduates are unable to read above third grade level.

Years ago, Max Rafferty recognized this as America's prime challenge in education. On his election as state superintendent of public instruction, he pledged to improve California's reading programs. In 1968 he was successful in bringing about adoption of the Lippincott primary readers stressing phonics and excerpts from great children's classics.

Dr. Rafferty's promise has been kept. An April 10 report to the State Board of Education showed a significant upward shift in the reading attainment of California children.

In my view this is Dr. Rafferty's most important achievement and deserves continuation.

Agrees, Disagrees On Campaigning

In answer to Paul Brindel's letter of April 18 . . . I agree in principle with his statement that county and city employees should not campaign on the taxpayer's time. This does not include, however, incumbent elected officials who must be allowed some freedom of action when running for re-election as long as it is not abused and their responsibilities are adequately covered by their subordinates.

I would like to point out that Ernest Zunino, one of the deputy district attorneys he mentioned and a candidate for municipal judge, has not and will not campaign at the tax payer's expense. All work on his campaign has been done by volunteers and any time that he will take off is accrued vacation time to which he is entitled.

As to Mr. Brindel's reference to the desirability of a prosecutor becoming a judge, may I point out that there is more than ample precedence for this including local Marin County residents such as Justice Sims and Judges Roth, Haley and McGuire who were all either District Attorneys or deputies at one point in their carreer.

I can think of no better way to strengthen the judicial attitudes of our courts, which we so desperately need, than to elect a man experienced in trying to protect society against the constant harassment by the dissident few and the lack of support the general public received from some of our courts.
